A SEALED VERDICT

Rendered by Jury in the Vaughn Case.

ROBERT VAUGHN.

Verdict Returned at 6 O'clock Last Evening—The Defense Was an Alibi—The Closing Scenes in the Healey Portion of the Case.

Promptly at 9.30 o'clock yesterday day morning court came in for the second day of the Vaughn case, and the first witness called was Bartholomew Scannell, Jr., of the firm of Scannell & Wholey, who testified that he locked the doors and windows of his father's office on the afternoon of March 4.

Inspector Laflamme, recalled, testified that he had known the Vaughns for 12 years and they are brothers.

He was cross-examined by Lawyer Donahue as to his visit to the hospital with the Vaughns for the purpose of ascertaining if Officer Healy could identify them. The Vaughns, he said, were handcuffed, one to Inspector Allen, and one to Inspector Donaldson. When in the room they were brought to the foot of Healey's bed.

"After we left the room," he continued, 'the elder Vaughn was handcuffed to me, and Inspector Allen went into the room. I don't know whether he closed the door. He was in with Healey two or three minutes, and then he came out. After he came out I went into Healey's room again with the taller Vaughn, and Healey looked at him. Healey said, 'Haven't I seen you before?' but Vaughn didn't answer. Healey said he thought he had seen him before. Healey did not say, 'They look more like the men than any one I've seen that I remember. Healey said that he would like to see them again and hear them talk.'"

SUPT. G. R. DAVIS.

Supt. G. R. Davis testified: "I had a conversation with Robert in the inspector's office on the night of his arrest. He sat with his finger over the cuspidore. It was bleeding and he said the officers shot him. He said he had been in Lowell three weeks. He declined to tell where he was on the Saturday night previous. I conversed with Olin Vaughn and he said that he was home the Saturday night previous. He said he had no brother, and when Robert Vaughn was shown to him, he said Robert was a stranger to him."

On cross-examination, witness was asked how many men he had arrested for this offence and upon the district attorney's objection, it was ruled out.

Continuing in the cross-examination witness said: "When Healey and Vaughn met in the guard room on the day of the trial they were together three or four minutes before they spoke. Vaughn spoke first. The Vaughns stood up all the time in the guard room. This was three weeks after Healey had seen the men at the hospital. I saw Healey about a dozen times at the hospital, but I only spoke of the case to him once."

Mr. Donahue's question as to whether any local papers with pictures of the Vaughns in them got into Healy's room, was excluded.

Supt. Davis further said: "When Vaughn and Healey met, Robert put out his hand and said, 'I hope you will not be prejudiced against me by what you have seen or heard.' Healey replied, 'you are the men who assaulted me, and I'll testify to the truth and nothing more.'"

This closed the government's case in the case against the Vaughns for assaulting Healey.

THE DEFENCE.

Lawyer Donahue then opened the case for the defence, saying: "There will be no attempt to deny that a very serious assault was committed upon Officer Healey but we propose to show by all the evidence we can that these boys were at home on the night of and the hour of that assault.

If you were placed in a similar position to the Vaughns you would immediately go to the place where you were at the time when the alleged crime took place for the evidence to show your innocence. And now we will go to the home of the Vaughns and bring in the family of the defendants and others to show that these boys were not there."

Ten witnesses were sworn for the defence, seven of them women.

THOMAS A. GREEN.

The first witness called was Thomas A. Green, the lamplighter who was a government witness in the lower court. He testified: "I was brought down to the police station, and taken into the cells by Inspector Allen. I saw the Vaughns, and when I came out, I spoke with Allen. I was at Scannell & Wholey's about midnight on the night of the assault. About one minute to 1 o'clock I heard the shots fired. When I was on Tanner street, before the shooting I saw three men going toward Scannell & Wholey's. It was very dark and misty. There are three lights on Tanner street, one almost directly in front of Scannell & Wholey's and an electric light about 250 yards from Cambridge. You can't see this light from Scannell & Wholey's in the lower court I had a talk with Healey in which he asked me if the lights were lit or out and I replied they were out.

"I pass Scannell & Wholey's every night that there is no moonlight. It was very dark that night. There is white clay in front of Scannell & Wholey's office. Later I was coming down Harvard street when I met Healey coming down the street, a boy holding his arm. Haley was weak and sat down. I asked him what had happened and he said that he had been shot. A hack then came along and I put Healey in it. I could not tell who the men were whom I saw. I heard Officer Healey say that the smaller man was nine yards away from him. Neither of them was as tall as Robert.

Cross-examined by district Attorney Wier witness again gave the locations of the lights in the vicinity. In front of Scannell & Wholey's is an office. I saw three men before I got to the last lights near Cambridge street. When I saw the first I was a few yards away. They came in the direction of Scannell & Wholey's. I afterward went to the police station to see them. I spoke with the chief regarding the men I had seen and I examined the men at the police station. I told the chief that the shorter of the Vaughns looked like the shortest of the party which I saw on Tanner street.

On re-direct examination, Mr. Green was shown several photographs of the streets he traversed.

PRISONER'S FATHER.

Olin Vaughn, Sr. father of the prisoner was then called and he testified: "I am the father of the prisoners and I have lived in Farrell & Conaton's building since the first of last December. I remember the night of the arrest. Olin was at home. On the Saturday night previous Olin was out on the street until 11 o'clock and then came in. His health was not good. My wife, my brother and the girls were there. His bedroom door is opposite mine and we heard him going to bed shortly before 12 o'clock and he did not go out up to the time I went to sleep."

On cross examination Mr. Vaughn said: "I hire five rooms on the second floor and all are connected but one. The two boys did not sleep together. Robert slept in the other part of the house in Miss Barker's tenement. The boys were not working at the time, I have one daughter. She has worked at dressmaking. I was working at the time but not steadily.

In the early winter I had worked in Boston. Robert had been home about three weeks when the trouble occurred."

"I don't remember if I worked on the Saturday in question. I remember having had breakfast, but I don't remember where I went after breakfast. I don't remember anything that happened that day up to five o'clock. I went home a little after four, and shortly before six my brother came up. Olie came up in the house just before my brother. After supper we read the papers and then went out about 8.30, and came in at half past ten. A few minutes after I came in, Olie came in. My brother slept in Room 2. I looked at my clock when Olie went to bed because my wife said it was getting late. Olie is 19 years old and Robert 26. I knew that Olie was in bed at 12 o'clock that night.

"Robert had supper with us that night, coming in with Miss Backus and Miss Mooney. That night when we were talking, Olie asked about getting a chance to learn the bricklayers' trade.

"On Sunday morning I went to the bakeshop and heard that there had been an assault on an officer. The woman said it was in the papers."

When asked what paper it was in, witness replied that the woman in the bakeshop told him. His daughter was at home that night. She had been sleeping with a woman in Varnum's block periodically.

Redirectly examined: "Mrs. Hammond has the keys and the locking up of the building. There are no fire escapes and no means of getting out besides the stairs. My family have no keys to any of the doors that I know of."

Cross-examined: "My daughter, that night slept in the room usually occupied by Olie. Olie slept in a cot bed in the sitting room. When I went to bed she was in with Miss Backus. I didn't know she was going to sleep there until the next morning. Sometimes she slept at home in a cot bed, other times at Miss Backus, and again over at Miss Rourke's in Centralville.

"The next morning when I woke up I learned that my daughter and Miss Mooney slept in my tenement. When I got up I looked in the sitting room and saw Olie asleep in bed, his clothes on a chair. The sitting room opens into the hallway. All the outside doors have spring locks."

By Mr. Donahue: "I saw Robert Sunday. There were no marks on him or signs of anything unusual.

Recess.

MOTHER OF PRISONERS.

Mrs. Gertie Vaughn, mother of the prisoners, testified: "I am the mother of the two defendants and live with my husband in the Farrell & Conaton block. Miss Barkis is my husband's cousin. I have no key to the door. On Sunday, March 5, my husband heard of the assault in the bake shop. On the night previous Olie came in to supper and went out about 7. Soon after Robert went in with Miss Barkis and Miss Mooney to Miss Barkis' tenement. My daughter went to Centralville and returned late. About 11 o'clock Olie was talking with the woman who had charge of the block. About 1 o'clock Robert and Miss Mooney and my daughter came in and asked me to make up the cot bed for Olie as the girls wanted to sleep together. I woke Olie up and made the cot bed, and afterward talked to him until about 2 o'clock. I remember the time, because I was taking medicine every three hours and had to take it about 1 o'clock. When the bed was made Robert went into Miss Barkis' tenement. In the morning when I got up Olie and my husband were in the kitchen.

"Olie had the grip that week and was not in good health.

Cross-examined: "I saw my husband and Olie together in the kitchen between 7 and 8 o'clock Sunday. I think my husband went out to the bakery. I won't be positive. When I got breakfast, Olie, I think, was putting on his boots."

"It isn't true then that he didn't get up until 10? asked Mr. Wier.

"I think he got up at 7 and went back to bed again.

FEARFUL TRAGEDY

In Which Wm. E. Fife and Daughter Were Killed.

Their Wagon Struck by White Mountain Express and Thrown 250 Feet—Bodies Mangled—Engineer Not to Blame.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CLINTON, June 24.—One of the most shocking tragedies in this community in years occurred here last evening, when William E. Fife, the wealthiest citizen of the town and one of the most influential men in the community, and his daughter, Mrs. Dora Plummer, wife of Edwin L. Plummer, a well known merchant were killed.

Mr. Fife, who is nearly 70 years old, accompanied by Mrs. Plummer, shortly after dinner drove to Lancaster and started for home at 4.30. In returning, Mr. Fife took the back road around Lancaster Center depot. He drove down by the common toward Bailey, crossing over the B. and M. railroad tracks.

Miss M. B. S. Bailey, who lives beside the tracks, states that the horse either shied and stopped on the tracks or was pulled. The next thing she heard was a terrible crash, and she knew the White Mountain express had struck the carriage.

The engine hit the vehicle squarely on one side and dashed it in front of the engine, hurling it and the occupants some 250 feet further along and depositing them within 40 feet of the track. The carriage was demolished. The horse was never touched and dashed on home.

The locality is thickly settled and in a moment the place was crowded with horror-stricken people. Station agent Henry Chatin summoned medical examiner Dr. G. J. Tobey and all the physicians available.

The body of Mrs. Plummer was close to the track and was mutilated beyond recognition. The body of Mr. Fife lay a few feet down the embankment and was very little bruised. Dr. Tobey made a hasty examination, assisted by Dr. C. L. French and stated that death was instantaneous.

Deputy Sheriff C. A. Bartlett arrived a little later and made a rigid examination as to the cause of the accident. Investigation disclosed that the White Mountain express, due at Lancaster Centre at 5.05 was on time. It never stops at Lancaster. There is no gate or flagman at the crossing, but there is a signal bell which people close by claim to have been rung as usual.

The fatal train runs from Nashua to Worcester and was in charge of Conductor W. B. Mitchell and Engineer M. Hamilton. The latter states that he saw the team drive onto the track as he approached the station and then the horse slowed up or was stopped. He was too near to prevent a crash and with all the vigor at his command he reversed the lever of the engine but too late. The train was stopped and the tragedy at once reported to headquarters.

WOLCOTT WOM

Defeating Dan Creedon in Twenty Rounds

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Joe Walcott, the pugilistic freak from the Barbadoes, beat Dan Creedon at the Broadway A. C., last night before an enthusiastic howling crowd of Creedon followers.

At no time during the 20 rounds of fighting did Creedon look like a winner but on several occasions the negro had him going. Watcott could not knock him out and the old Australian stood the beating well and was game to the end.

Look out for changes in the B. & M. time table which goes into effect on Monday.

MULE SPINNERS

Of the Massachusetts Mills Quit Work

DEMAND FOR HIGHER WAGES REFUSED.

The Action Endorsed at a Union Meeting.

The mule spinners of the Massachusetts mills to the number of twenty, went on strike yesterday afternoon. They left the mill in a body at 1.30, because refusal of Agent Southworth to grant them an increase in wages. The trouble has been brewing for some time past, as the spinners claim that they are paid about 10 per cent. less per pound, or hank, than the mule spinners of other corporations, and they claim, moreover, that a similar condition of affairs exists throughout the entire Massachusetts mills. At a meeting of the mule spinners' union, last week, the matter was discussed, and a committee was appointed to wait upon Agent Southworth and to take whatever action it might see fit. The committee waited upon the agent last Monday, and he requested that he be given until yesterday to reply. His reply came yesterday, and proved to be an emphatic refusal of the demand. The agent stated, moreover, that he would remove the mules from the mills rather than grant the request. Upon receiving the reply the spinners promptly quit work.

A special meeting of the union was held last evening at which the committee submitte i its report. The action of the strikers was endorsed and it was arranged to have another special meeting next Monday evening to devise ways and means for the support of the strikers during the time they remain out. It is claimed that the grievance is an old one, and that the Massachusets has paid lower wages than any of the other corporations for a number of years.

As the mill is running nights at the present time the strike comes at an inopportune time for the mill men, but the absence of the spinners will not be felt as keenly there as it would on some of the other corporations, owing to the number of looms on ring spun yarn. However, there are certain grades of cloth manufactured by this corporation upon which yarn on the cops is absolutely necessary. These grades of cloth, it is claimed, command higher prices on the market than the cloth manufactured from ring spun yarn.

EXPECT TROUBLE

A New Phase in the Cleveland Strike

POLICE PREPARING FOR EMERGENCY.

The Company Will Not Deal With Strikers.

MILITIA MAY BE CALLED OUT.

Number of Officers Will be Increased.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CLEVELAND, O., June 24.—The rejection by the street railway strikers' mass meeting last night of the terms of settlement unanimously approved by their committee has put a new phase on the situation. The city authorities are now openly preparing for trouble and the board of control is now in session considering means of protecting the company's property and preserving order. President Everett says that the company will run its cars and have no more dealings with the strikers.

Police Director Barrett said: "We are not going to wait for anything more to happen but we will prepare ourselves to meet any emergency. Whether or not it will be necessary to call for military aid other than what the city contains, I cannot say. Circumstances will determine that point. I do not know whether the city militia will be sufficient to cope with the situation or not. There is no telling what force might be required.

"We cannot depend upon what police force we have. It may be that the city will increase the number of its officers for this occasion. The lives and property of the city are going to be protected at all costs. Every possible thing will be done to prevent the recurrence of such affairs as have taken place frequently on the streets of Cleveland since the strike began."

HIS THROAT CUT

By Wife While He Was Asleep.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Grace Ramsay, 27 years of age, cut the throat of her husband, Harvey J. Ramsay, 60 years of age, while the man was asleep in bed in their apartments at the Garden Hotel today. The woman was arrested. Ramsay was removed to Bellevue hospital. He is a ticket seller at Madison Square garden.

Ramsey told the doctor and policeman who first came to his assistance that he was awakened by a sharp pain in his throat, and found his wife standing over him with a bloody razor. After he had been taken to Beleyue a coroner was summoned to take his ante-mortem statement, but by that time Ramsey could not articulate. The doctors say he cannot recover.

Mrs. Ramsey when taken to a police station informed the sergeant in charge that she had cut her husband's throat because he snored and she was disturbed by him. Then she denied that she had cut him intentionally, but said there had been something the matter with one of the arteries of his throat, and she had been fixing it with a razor when she cut him. Again she said her husband had been shaving himself and had cut himself.

It is believed that the woman is demented.

Ramsey died this afternoon.

ADAMS, Mass., June 23.—President and Mrs. McKinley and their party who are guests of Hon. W. B. Plunkett here, remained indoors this morning owing to cloudy and threatening weather. At noon the sun was trying to break through and it seemed possible the visitors might get a chance to go driving this afternoon.

It has been decided that the president will hold a public reception at the Plunkett residence tomorrow afternoon.

Women in Business

Business men often express the opinion that there is one thing which will prevent women from completely filling man's place in the business world—they can't be depended upon because they are sick too often. It is true that many women are compelled to look forward to times when they are unable to attend to social or business duties. Their appearance plainly indicates their condition and they are reluctant to be seen, even by their friends. Read what a business woman says to such sufferers:

Mrs. C. W. Mansfield, 58 Farrar Street, Detroit, Mich., says:
"A complication of female ailments kept me awake nights and wore me out. I could get no relief from medicine and hope was slipping away from me. A young lady in my employ gave me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I took them and was able to rest at night for the first time in months. I bought more and they cured me as they also cured several other people to my knowledge. I think that if you should ask any of the druggists of Detroit, who are the best buyers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills they would say the young women. These pills certainly build up the nervous system and many a young woman owes her life to them.
"As a business woman I am pleased to recommend them as they did more for me than any physician and I can give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People credit for my general good health to-day."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N.Y. Our new book, PLAIN TALKS TO WOMEN, sent free to any address on request.

THE NUTONE CLUB

MANAGER DESMOND HUSTLING THINGS ALONG.

Joe Gannon, who has appeared in 13 bouts and lost the decision only twice, once to Billy Chisholm, and again to Joe Burns of Brockton who had previously defeated the Pickaninny, is anxious to go on with Billy Gardner at the Nutone club at the latter's convenience. Gannon says that he will post a forfeit to weigh 120 pounds at the ringside if Gardner is willing to meet him. This would make an interesting bout, but Lowell sports are more anxious to witness a go between Billy Gardner and Jimmy Stewart of Manchester. The general opinion is that this would be an attraction worth going to see. The men have met once before and Gardner obtained the decision after 23 rounds of boxing. Stewart has improved so much, however, since that time that many of the Lowell people believe that he will give Billy all he can do to gain a decision again. Some of his friends, too, think that he is the master of Gardner and are only awaiting the announcement that the two have agreed to meet as the star attraction at some meeting of the Nutone club.

Prof. Robinson of Providence has written to the sporting editor of The Sun, that he has seen George Gardner box on several occasions and that he is prepared to meet him at the Nutone club at any time. Robinson says he is so confident of his ability to defeat Gardner, that he is prepared to stake a side bet if such is permitted.

Manager Desmond is not satisfied with the result of the last meeting of the Nutone club. In other words, "Con" is "sore" because the principal bout came off as it did. Finherty and Hennessy were paid excellent money for their portion of the program and it is no fault of the management that a more satisfactory bout was not given. Mr. Desmnd has spared no expense in order to present good, clean, straight-forward boxing to the followers of the sport in this city. He has succeeded in doing this and has gained the confidence of the public because of his efforts in this direction. In the future he will do his utmost to see that every bout scheduled shall be a genuine affair; that there shall be no splitting of purses. In his preliminary too, he intends to offer some surprises. He has seen Young Sharkey and the latter wants to meet Fitzpatrick of Newton in a preliminary. This will be arranged and will prove beyond doubt that Mr. Desmond wants to offer his patrons something great in the preliminary line. Yesterday, Mr. Desmond went to Nantasket and saw Morris Rosenburg who is to appear with Young Dinsdale of Worcester at the Nutone club on July 3. Rosenburg is in excellent condition and is prepared to enter the ring and fulfill his portion of the agreement. The bouts should be the most scientific and liveliest ever seen here.

THE ASPHALTINA

SMOOTH PAVING SIZED UP BY HON. FISHER H. PEARSON.

Editor Sun:

I do not pretend to know anything about the technical differences between asphaltina and the various other kinds of smooth paving nor am I at all concerned in what company or individual gets city contracts for paving the streets, but I must decidedly object to the looting of the city treasury, under pretence of keeping Lowell abreast of the times in the matter of smooth paving.

Asphalt pavement, properly compounded and laid, should be hard in all reasonable temperatures, perfectly smooth and level and should not show hoof or wheel marks. If Charles street is a sample of the best asphaltina work and it is claimed to be, it does not come up to the standard of other cities. The Charles street pavement is soft, shows hundreds of depressions by horses hofs and can easily be indented with the heel.

It is a comparatively good pavement but it is no better, if as good, as the ordinary tar concrete, which is laid for the city for 20 cents per square yard; and if to this be added the cost of the concrete sirtem, or about 60 cents per square yard—the total cost of laying the concrete will be about 50 cents per yard as against $2.50 for asphaltina.

The city is thus paying a bonus of $1.60 per square yard to the Boston Paving company for laying asphaltina paving.

It was proven conclusively in the discussion last year over paving Gorham street that the ordinary tar concrete would be as good and lasting as asphaltina and time has shown that it is better.

It would be worth the while of any person interested in the city's welfare to examine Charles and Gorham streets not as an expert but with merely the knowledge that every man is supposed to possess and if he has ever seen asphalt streets and tar concrete walks, he will come to the same conclusion as I have; that the city is being imposed on by someone, paying asphalt prices for tax concrete work, or in other words, paying $2.50 for work which can be done as well or better for less than $1.

Mayor Crowley, if he is looking to save the city from expense, and will give the time and consideration to this question, which he ought to give will veto the resolution to expend $33,000 more of the city's money to pave more streets with asphaltina, which have passed the city council and thus save the city from paying $33,000 for $14,000 worth of work.

COL. BISBEE

WILL GO TO THE PHILIPPINES IMMEDIATELY.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., June 23.—Letters received in this city from Col. W. H. Bisbee, 13th U. S. Infantry, bring information that he has relinquished the four months furlough to which he was entitled, because desirous of immediately joining his new command, the 13th, in the Philippines, which is without a field officer at present. Col. Bisbee, as lieutenant-colonel and commanding officer of the First U. S. Infantry, has been in constant service, first in Santiago, and later in Pinar del Rio provinces, since hostilities first began in Cuba and in fact has taken but one short furlough in 38 years service. He enlisted from this city in 1861.

VETERANS IN MONTREAL.
By Associated Press to The Sun.

MONTREAL, June 22.—The Grand Army veterans of Vermont viewed the St. Jean de Baptiste procession today which was larger and more imposing than for some years. The veterans marched from their hotel, preceded by the Canadian army and Navy veterans. As they came down Victoria square the first few ranks had passed the statue of the Queen before it was noticed that they did not salute it. The crowds on the streets howled their disapproval at the neglect which was immediately remedied by the visitors, after which there was nothing too good for them in the way of cheers.

FRANK NULTY, Who Killed His Sweetheart.

MAMIE REMLEY, Who Was Killed by Her Lover.

This nineteen-year-old boy, who, after having shot seventeen-year-old Mamie Remley, tried to kill himself, is on trial for his life today in the criminal branch of the supreme court in New York.

Back to the only man I love,
Back to the one I think most of;
Happy I'll be when I can see
My dear little, sweet loved one.

Even the stars all seem to say,
There'll come a day not far away,
So be of light heart, although far apart
I will take you back some day.
Mamie Remley.

On the district attorney's table, in the criminal branch of the supreme court today, rests among other documents this poem. It is bloodstained, for it was found clutched in the left hand of the boy murderer when the police found him lying unconscious across the body of his victim.

She had a quarrel with Frank Nulty and returned his engagement ring. He called at her home with a valentine, which she had written him, in his hand and meeting her in the hallway, he shot and killed her. He then shot himself but did not inflict a mortal wound.

A SEALED VERDICT.

MISS NELLIE MOONEY.

Miss Nellie Mooney, a Worcester dressmaker, testified:

I am a dressmaker for Ellen Wood, 10 Winslow street, Worcester. I was in Lowell from January until March 6, when I had to return to Worcester.

"On Saturday night, I think it was half past one when I returned. I slept with Miss Vaughn that night. I never slept with her before or since. Mr. Robert Vaughn and Miss Barkis were with me. We talked all evening and a long time after I heard the clock strike one and I said: 'Oh, it must be half past 12 o'clock.'"

Cross examined: "I think I saw Mrs. Vaughn a year ago. I came to Lowell on Jauary 7 and went away on March 7. I worked as a waitress on East Merrimack street for two week. I was in Miss Barkis' room all evening and I ate supper at Mrs. Vaughn's. I never met either of the boys before. Miss Vaughn asked us to supper.

Miss Vaughn came in late and wanted me to stay with her that night. I used to sleep with Miss Barkis. Robert was up at one o'clock. I didn't know where Robert slept that night unless he slept in number 2 which he always did.

MISS LIZZIE MERRIAM

Miss Lizzie Merriam, a young girl testified: I was with Olie Vaughn on that Saturday night until 10 minutes of eight, having met him after seven o'clock at the corner of Dutton and Merrimack streets. We were listening to a band at Music Hall.

MISS MINNIE HOGAN.

Miss Minnie Hogan testified: "I was with Olie Vaughn at the corner of Merrimack street and Central streets on that Saturday night. He left me at a quarter past 10 o'clock.

Cross-examined: "Olie took out his watch and told me the time. I retired at 11 o'clock.

MISS LIZZIE BARKIS.

Miss Lizzie Barkis, lodging house keeper in the Farrell & Conaton building testified: "I let rooms in the Farrell & Conaton block. I am a cousin of the elder Mr. Vaughn. I have a little brother who requires my care and he sleeps with me. I have 15 rooms in the block and keep three for myself, letting all the rest. On Saturday night, March 4, Miss Mooney and Robert Vaughn were at my house. They returned late. I fixed the time because Miss Mooney called attention to the clock striking half past 12."

Cross-examined: "Sometimes Miss Mooney slept with my little brother and I and sometimes in a cot bed.

Robert had been staying at my house then for five weeks and I never told the officers that he did not stay at my house until the Monday preceding the arrest. I talked with the chief after they had taken the boys. I believe the chief asked me a question but I refused to answer any other questions because the other officers insulted me."

On re-direct examination: The officers insulted me by insinuating that we were having improper relations."

WILLIAM VAUGHN.

William Vaughn, a Boston bricklayer, uncle of the boys, said: "I went to my brother's house in Lowell, on March 4, Saturday and stayed there until Sunday afternoon. I fixed the date because I had been sick for about nine months. I saw Olie at supper. I went to bed about one o'clock that night and slept with Robert. I got up at 7 and left Robert in bed. I did not wake up during the night."

ALICE E. HAMMOND.

Alice E. Hammond, who takes care of the rooms in the Farrell & Conaton block, testified: "I met Olin Vaughn in the hall about 10 o'clock on the night of March 4."

OLIN VAUGHN.

Olin Vaughn, the younger defendant, took the stand with the same coolness that has characterized him since the beginning and said:

"I have been in jail about four months. After supper on the night of March 4, I left the house about seven o'clock and stood with Miss Merriam listening to the band. About eight o'clock I went down to Merrimack and Central streets and met Miss Hogan, and walked up Merrimack to Cabot, and then back. I walked home with her to Hudson street and I returned to my home about 11 o'clock. I met Mrs. Hammond and after speaking with her went to bed. I went into my regular chamber and went to sleep. I was awakened by my mother who asked me to give my bed to my sister and Miss Mooney, and I got up and went into the cot bed. I got up at 7 o'clock Sunday morning and stayed in the house all morning. The first I heard of the assault was when my father returned from the bakeshop. On Sunday evening I went to church on Church street. On the night we were arrested, I didn't hear any shooting. Mr. Allen and Mr. Donaldson woke me up and searched my room. My clothing was not searched. About an hour after they went away they returned and arrested me."

Cross-examined: "The chief did not ask me where I was on Saturday night. After the officers had left my room, Miss Backus told me that Robert had stepped out on the roof and we all went to bed. I did not know that Robert had any revolvers. Miss Backus said he would come back as soon as the officers went. I supposed he was staying on the roof. I didn't care where he was. I did not suppose the officers were going to arrest him. I suppose he got on the roof to avoid them."

Vaughn then admitted having been in court for assault and battery, trespass and obstructing the streets when the records were put in.

Noon recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

In rebuttal, District Attorney Wier put on Supt. Davis, who testified: "On the night of the arrests, I spoke with Olin asking him where he was on the 4th and 5th of March and Olin said he would tell when he got in court. I also talked with Miss Backus the night of the arrest. I asked her how long Robert Vaughn had occupied that room in her tenement and she answered that he had been there only since the Monday before. She said she did not know where Robert was on the night of March 4." Inspector Donaldson corroborated his testimony.

FOR THE DEFENCE.

Lawyer Donahue then began his argument introducing it with remarks upon the seriousness of the crime and the duty of jurors in the matter. Continuing he said in part: "If one of you men were accused of a crime on a certain night, what would you do? You would go to your home for those who saw you that night to assist you in proving your innocence. In my cross examination of the officers, I was severe through my zeal to do my duty and not that I did not sympathize with the officer. Now, men differ in abilities, and while some can recognize faces readily, others cannot and there are many cases on record in which defendants have been decided guilty when time has shown them to be innocent.

"On the night in question, Officer Healey went to Scannell & Wholey's office and it was very dark. The officer said that he never said anything about the lights but Witness Greene tells the truth and Officer Healey is in doubt. If Officer Lafiamme couldn't tell whether a man had a revolver in his hand 75 yards away, is it fair to argue that Officer Healey, four hundred yards away, in the darkest place in Lowell could identify anyone?

"The prosecution will argue that the little Vaughn lad had Healey's money because he had a $10 bill. Any man might be accused of the crime upon that basis. Take Greene's statement as to identity. He said that neither one of the three men was as tall as the elder Vaughn. The government has not put in any evidence in rebuttal to Greene's testimony. Officer Healey testified, you will remember, that the boys were brought in to him handcuffed together, but the other officers testified differently and there you find a discrepancy that cannot be brushed away, especially when taken in with his statement that he could identify them when only seeing them in the dark. Dr. Bell has told you that his mind was clear. Why did Inspector Allen go in with Healey alone, and why afterward were the men brought in alone? It was because Healey was in doubt. Where is Allen in this case? Though he was the most important factor in the case, he is carefully kept away from the witness stand. Let us go a step farther in the line of identification. On the day of court, you will remember that Dr. Bell testified that Healey said: "I think they're the men."

"Officer Brosnan would have you believe that a bullet fired at him described a semi-circle around his body and then disappeared, never to be found.

"But to look at the defence, the fact that Robert Vaughn did not take the stand must not prejudice you against him. It is a right he has, the court will so instruct you. You have traced young Olie on that night. We find him returning home about eleven o'clock going into his room.

"All through the case the government's identity has been weak, while on the other hand, the defendants have proved an alibi."

FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Donahue took up an hour and was followed by District Attorney Wier for the government, who said in part:

"Gentlemen: Officer Healey, when he pulled out his revolver to fire at a coward, a thief, and a robber, and it wouldn't go off, thought he was alone. But he wasn't alone, for the whole government was behind him. Every law-abiding citizen was there to protect him and see that this crime was avenged. I am earnest in this, because there hasn't been a more dastardly crime in the history of this country than that in which he was cowardly shot in the back and robbed. The principal witness of this case is one of the bravest men in this commonwealth. We have heroes in peace as in war. Officer Brosnan is a hero and Officer Healey is a hero. Such men are here to tell you the truth and not get convictions on perjured testimony. Officer Healey's action when his revolver refused to work was one of the most evident bravery. He grappled with his assailants, moving around and around, keeping his eye all the time on the man who was trying to shoot him in the back. When he gave up, he stood and talked with these men. He thus had the opportunity to see them and know who they were. He didn't lose consciousness at all. In some places, there would be a lynching. But we don't do that. We wait until we bring the evidence before a jury. No one but Mr. Healey knows who the two men are who assaulted him. Officer Healey says that he knows that the two men on trial are the men who assaulted him. Officer Healey shows his honesty when he says that he did not want to take an unfair advantage of them and conclusively identify them when they were brought before him at St. John's hospital. Then this identification of a man in peril—such an identification lasts to the day of death. Officer Healey saw those ruffians and will remember their faces as long as he lives. He saw them because he said he did, whether it was dark there or not.

"But it was not dark there, for it was a misty night and you know that the mist diffuses light while it goes straight up on a clear night and the very fact that it was misty and the place was the center of a circle of electric lights makes it positive that the place was not dark. Officer Healey is telling the truth when he says that he saw those men. There is no question about the identification. But for further evidence, take the night of the arrest. The man who had the revolvers shot; the man who had no revolvers didn't resist at all. That is the way of cowards and robbers when they go up against the law. When the officers went to Vaughn's room, what did he do? What would an honest man do? What was Vaughn afraid of? It wasn't because of criminal relations with the woman, because there were none. It was because he was a thief, because he had committed some crime. This man didn't dare to leave the city and up to this time Miss Barkis tells the officers, he had not been to her room? What was he there for then? Because if he remained in his father's house he had no means of escape. The Vaughn's tenement was so close to the next building that a person could not get down between them. But if he took a room in the other tenement he had a chance to escape by the window onto the roof of the shed.

"The man whom the officers arrested on this night had two revolvers of 38 calibre. The man who shot Healey had two 38-calibre revolvers.

"That man is one of the most desperate men in this commonwealth and he must have committed some grave crime to make him so desperate. His actions are his confession. He was one of the assailants of Officer Healey.

"What about Olin?

"And remember here, gentlemen, these are not two barroom bums who go about robbing under the impulse of the moment, but are two educated criminals.

"Little Olie tried to play the good little boy as he had not the fear of identification that the brother had and when confronted by the officers, he said: 'I have no brothers.'

"Their father and mother are here. Put yourself in their places and you would be tempted to come in and do as they have done. Miss Barkis protected the men with two revolvers and was harboring a criminal and did her best to allow this man to escape armed with two revolvers on his course of destruction. You don't know her relation with one of these men that might tempt her to come in here and try, as the parents did, to protect him.

"You can almost believe every word that they said and you can still believe the story of the government. They only live a mile from the scene of the shooting and two young men like them can get there in five minutes.

"But where is Miss Vaughn, the sister? Why isn't she put on the stand? Were they afraid she'd tell the truth?

"Robert and Olin are both found about this time with a $10 bill each upon his person and Officer Healey lost four $10 bills. Isn't that consistent with guilt? Two men who have not worked for some time go sporting $10 bills the week after the robbery.

"Robert Vaughn shot Healey in the leg and Olin shot him in the back. Are you going to take the responsibility of letting those men go free? Be brave in rendering your verdict."

JURY CHARGED.

Judge Bond though it was past adjournment time, charged the jury briefly at the conclusion of District Attorney Wier's remarks. The charge was brief and explanatory of the law bearing on the particular charges of robbery and being armed and intent to kill. "When a person," he said, "takes a deadly weapon and shoots at another in such away that he might kill him, you have the right to say that he intended to kill. It is necessary for the government to show that the men were there before you return a verdict of guilty. You may consider the conduct of a person after the act has been committed."

The court explained finally the nature of an alibi and stated that in many cases every portion of the alibi may be true, except the date and without the date being true, the alibi has no weight.

The jury retired at 4.30.

A SEALED VERDICT.

After the jury had retired Judge Bond transacted some minor business and waited until shortly after five o'clock. The prisoners were kept in the cage in the court room, and the spectators remained, many expecting that a verdict would be returned in short order. The possibilities from the jury room were discussed on all sides, and it was agreed that the case had been most carefully put in, and the counsel for the defence were congratulated on the fine manner in which they conducted their case. Robert Vaughn was highly pleased at the effort of his counsel, and said so.

At five o'clock court adjourned, and the prisoners were taken back to the house of correction across the way, handcuffed together, and surrounded by a crowd of curious sightseers.

Shortly after six o'clock, the jury having been out one hour and a half, returned a sealed verdict, which will be opened on Monday morning at the opening of court.

It is not improbable that the disclosure of the verdict will be followed by surprising developments.

The other counts against them for alleged assault against Robert on Inspector Lafiamme and Lieut. Brosnan and three counts, jointly, of breaking and entering, are scheduled for next week.

Patient—"Oh, doctor I'm so sick. I must have caught a terrible disease. Where on earth did I get it?"

Doctor—"I don't know, but the last man I treated for the same trouble, got it in Lawrence."

A COFFEE LIVER

Peculiar Effects of the Beverage,

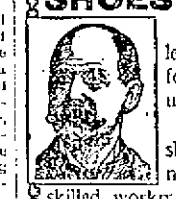

Unfortunately I was the unwilling possessor of a hopelessly torpid liver, which kept growing more and more hopeless as the years went by. It finally became impossible for me to obtain sleep at night unless absolute stillness reigned.

Living in the city I was disturbed many times at night so that finally I was sent to the country, and there the least bark of a dog or the sound of a cow bell broke up my light repose and put me into a desperately nervous condition. Matters grew rapidly worse, and finally culminated in a severe illness. When I was convalescent the doctor positively forbade my using coffee, and recommended Postum Cereal Food Coffee.

This was a terrible blow as I was a coffee fiend but I was weak enough, to be sensible, and so I determined to try Postum, although I went at it very unwillingly. I determined to know that it was made right, so I read the directions carefully and made the first cup myself. I was amazed at the rich, brown liquid that steamed forth from the coffee pot that day at luncheon and still more amazed, when upon tasting it, I found I had a most delightful beverage with a delicious coffee flavor.

It is needless to say that Postum appeared upon my table from that time on. As the days went by, I gradually noticed a change for the better, in point of health. It took some time to recovered from the rack of the nervous system caused by coffee, but I became more and more conscious that I was sleeping soundly and improving steadily. Naturally my irritability disappeared. I find myself now with twice, yes, ten times, the ability for enjoyment that I previously had.

One of my friends, upon learning that I had been healed by leaving off Coffee and using Postum, exclaimed and wondered how I could drink "that stuff." I replied that we were very fond of it indeed, actually preferring it to any brand of coffee, whereupon she remarked that coffee was such a beautiful clear liquid and had such a delicious taste, while Postum was muddy and flat. I saw at once that my friend had failed to have her Postum boiled properly and determined to give her some good Postum. She is very easily prejudiced, so, shortly after when she came to visit me at the lake, I asked her to try some new coffee and for two weeks I served Postum to her, she believing all this time that she was drinking a very high priced and expensive brand of coffee. When at the end of her visit I told her that she had been having Postum Food Coffee two and sometimes three times a day all of the period of her visit, she took the joke in good part and said: "If that is true, I am already a member of the Postum army and I will never resign." Wise Merchants

The merchants of Lowell are not fools. Of course they were not as wise once as they are now, but their wisdom came through experience.

While they always bought their merchandise by measure and weight, they used to buy advertising space in the local papers by sympathy and guess work. They don't buy it that way now. They buy space on the basis of circulation, estimating the price per inch per thousand papers circulated.

On this basis, they know what they get and they know that THE SUN is by far the cheapest medium in the city. THE SUN has a larger circulation than any two other papers in Lowell. It is

Lowell's Greatest Newspaper

France has a new cabinet, but if it follows the general custom in France it will be shortlived.

Admiral Dewey's salary is to be $13,500 a year, whether he is at sea or on shore, and most people will admit that, considering the peculiar character of his duties on some occasions, his salary is none too large.

Had Philip Lambelo, who robbed a Boston bank of $10,000, shown as much skill in evading the police as he did in taking the money he might have had the pleasure of spending his boodle. The detectives who caught him should get a slice of that $10,000.

It is about time the sympathetic ladies of Dover, N. H., should begin to send bouquets to Mr. Harry Hough, now being honored for his ingenuity as a bank robber. He stands next to Joe Kelley in the admiration of some men and many women of peculiar tastes.

When we read of the Czar as the great advocate of disarmament in Europe and at the same time find that his agents are ordering field batteries and rapid fire guns in this country we are reminded of Rudyard Kipling's able lines on the "Truce of the Bear."

So the Mail is exonerated from the charge of soliciting liquor sales by publishing liquor advertisements. Can it be that Judge Hadley's elaborate decision has been overruled? Which is right, Judge Hadley or Judge Bond? But that is immaterial since the decision of the latter stands.

Hon. George Fred Williams is authority for the statement that ex-Senator Gorman has no chance of getting the democratic nomination for president next year. The statement was unnecessary as anybody who knows Gorman's antecedents will realize that he is not acceptable to the democracy of the country at the present time.

The mayor of Cambridge recently vetoed an order appropriating $350 for the expenses of a junket by the roads and bridges committee in the investigation of the merits of vitrified brick pavements for streets. It seems that if the resolution for paving our streets with asphaltina without competition came before the mayor of Cambridge, it would take him but a very short time to give it his official condemnation. It is one of the cases in which the mayor was right, and the city council was wrong.

A PUBLIC SWINDLE.

The resolution to pave a portion of Mammoth road, Suffolk street and a portion of Bridge street has been signed by Mayor Crowley, despite all protests, on account of barring competition. Thus the sum of $27,000 is to be expended on Westford street and $33,000 on the three streets mentioned and all to be given to one company without admitting competition on the work or the material. Not for twenty years has there been such a high handed piece of public robbery practiced upon the voters as in this asphaltina deal all approved by Mayor Crowley in spite of public protests and remonstrances and after refusing a hearing to competing companies. It is an outrage which the voters can ponder upon at leisure between now and next December. If any such palpable swindle as this is legal under the city charter then the sooner the city charter is amended so as to secure competition, the better for the citizens in general.

GEN. OTIS A FAILURE.

General Otis who is conducting the war in the Philippines has demonstrated most conclusively that he cannot conquer the Filipinos. He has had a large force at his command for months past and some gallant fighting has been done by his subordinates, but the fact remains that today the Filipino army is stronger than ever before. Aguinaldo is proving himself by far the best general in Luzon, despite all the difficulties and disadvantages under which he is obliged to carry on the war. It now appears imperative upon the authorities at Washington to recall Otis. General Miles is the best soldier and commander in the country, but instead of sending him out to the Philippines, Alger and the president select Wheeler, a man advanced in years and in the natural order of things unable to endure the hardships of a prolonged campaign.

What the president should do at once is either to withdraw all our forces from the island and relinquish a sovereignty which we can't maintain, or else send out a competent general with forces sufficient to suppress the rebellion in a reasonable time. That General Otis has proved a complete failure is demonstrated by the fact that the Philippine war has cost the government to date about $63,000,000 and 664 men with 6500 wounded. Besides, it is asserted that 80 per cent. of the surviving soldiers who have fought in the Philippines will be entitled to pensions on account of diseases contracted in the service. With all this loss the area over which the United States forces have absolute control is less than 100 square miles. At present, the cost of the war is estimated at $250,000 a day, and when the 35,000 men now ordered there shall have joined the force already there, the expense will be much in excess of $300,000 per day, all of which indicates the advisability of selling out the sovereignty purchased at $20,000,000 at a discount of 75 per cent.

THE SAMPSON-SCHLEY CONTROVERSY.

The Sampson-Schley controversy has been revived in a manner that renders it imperative upon Admiral Schley to call for an inquiry or investigation by a naval board in order to protect his reputation against the latest conspiracy which seems to be somewhat of the same character as that which assails General Miles in the war department. Soon after the nominations of Sampson and Schley for admirals, the New York Sun published an account of a conversation alleged to have taken place between Admiral Schley and Lieut. Hodgson on the bridge of the Brooklyn in the heat of the battle with Cervera's fleet. The Brooklyn made a famous movement known as "the loop" the object of which, as Admiral Schley explained to the senate was to prevent the Brooklyn from blanketing the fire of the Texas, then closely following the Brooklyn in pursuit of the Spaniards.

The Washington Post recently published a denial of the New York Sun's statement, whereupon Lieut. Hellner of the navy came out with the claim that Lieut. Hodgson had detailed the conversation with Admiral Schley to him exactly as it had been reported in the Sun.

Secretary Long as the friend of Sampson, called upon both officers to sift the matter still further. The country is tired of such controversies. Admiral Schley, however, is being bitterly assailed, as the charge, if proved, would tend to show cowardice. It seems that the Sampson combine has at last succeeded in fastening a plausible charge upon the commodore. The next senate will consider the nominations and will probably go to the bottom of this matter at the same time. The public is tired listening to the conflicting statements and this latest phase of the case shows a determination to ruin Schley, just as Alger tried to ruin Miles.

The Boston police have to answer for the death of a young man named Alphonsus Garbett, who was found in an unconscious condition at one of the bridges in that city a few days ago, and locked up for drunkenness. He was sentenced to jail, and after having served his sentence it was found that he had been suffering from concussion of the brain, as a result of being knocked down by a bicycle scorcher. He is now lying at the point of death in a Chelsea hospital, and it is probable that the Boston police will have to answer for their part in pronouncing him drunk, when medical aid might have restored him to consciousness, and saved his life.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL LAST EVENING AT BAPTIST CHURCH VESTRY.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church at North Billerica, gave a very enjoyable and largely attended strawberry festival and entertainment in the vestry of the church last evening. Supper was served from 6.30 until 8 and ice cream and cake after the entertainment. The feature of the program was a series of selections on the phonograph given by Mr. Maxwell of Lowell. Mr. F. Gray Brown gave a reading and Mr. H. G. Sheldon gave a flute solo entitled "I'll Follow Thee."

Mr. William McCool of Marysville, Cal., was visiting friends in North Billerica, yesterday. Twenty-five years ago Mr. McCool was a prominent citizen of North Billerica and was prominent in political circles. He has been a resident of Marysville, Cal., for 24 years. Among the other North Billerica people at that place are Mr. Edward B. Harrison and Mrs. Patrick Brennan. While Mr. McCool is East he is the guest of his brother at Mansfield. He will return to his Western home in a few weeks.

Sales for Week Ending July 1st, '99

MONDAY AFTERNOON.

Postponed on Account of the Thunderstorm Last Tuesday to Next Monday.

Two years ago I had between thirty-five and forty lots of land on Sanders avenue, in ward eight. Sanders avenue starts in the center of Tyler Park and runs directly south across Pine street. Five of the lots have been sold, three of the lots have modern residences upon them. I have decided to advertise and sell eight of the remaining lots to whomsoever will bid the highest for them at absolute auction on Monday, June 26, 1899, at five o'clock in the afternoon.

I shall make the sale rain or shine; two-thirds of the purchase money can remain on the mortgage. The elegant and handsome residences of Mr. J. A. Coram, Mr. E. A. Smith, and Dr. Trueworthy are near to and in plain view from the lots the new school on Pine street is not more than five or six minutes' walk, the Westford street line of electric cars is easily within seven minutes' walk through Tyler Park. There are no higher, handsomer, or more desirable lots in this choice and very beautiful part of the Highlands, yet under the existing conditions, they will not bring more than a few cents a foot. Sanders avenue is a broad, level and straight street and will eventually continue on way through to the Highlands on Chelmsford St. It is surely destined to be one of the important residential thoroughfares of this part of our city. It is just such opportunities as this sale presents that make profitable and successful real estate transactions. Ten years ago the land on Foster, Marlboro and Gibson streets was not nearly as attractive or inviting as the lots I here offer, yet today with the march of improvements on these streets, land is easily worth a quarter a foot.

My lots contain from 7020 to 8712 square feet of land each, with frontages from 62 to 66 feet each.

They are level, the view is unobstructed in all directions, the lots are south of Pine street will be sold no matter what they bring: you can see them anytime. The purchaser of each lot must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $50 as soon as each lot is struck off. Mr. Conant tells me that my lots are the best lots to buy he has offered this year.

M. M. DOYLE,

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

Assignee's sale of 83,853 square feet of land on the Ayer farm, Middlesex Village, adjoining and just west of No. 1953 Middlesex street. The land is known as the A. A. Coburn lot, was originally purchased in two lots. The lots have areas of 41,850 and 42,003 square feet, the frontages are 100 feet. The premises are high, dry, pleasantly situated and quite desirable.

On Tuesday, June 27, 1899, promptly at five o'clock in the afternoon, rain or shine, I shall positively sell without limit or reserve, to the highest bidders at absolute auction, the real estate designated at Lots 18 and 19 on "A plan of lots in Middlesex Village belonging to Dr. James C. Ayer, surveyed April, 1871. A. Osgood, surveyor."

The electric cars on the Middlesex Village line run to Wood street every seven and one-half minutes and Wood street is not five minutes' walk from the premises. The North Chelmsford electric cars run every fifteen minutes and pass the premises. The premises at the time Mr. Coburn bought them were considered the choicest lots on the Ayer or Howard Farm and today the lots offer the handsomest opportunity to build several residences there is in Middlesex Village or this part of Lowell. There are now several fine places adjoining the land. Easy to reach, quiet, healthy, pleasant and attractive, they should tempt many a buyer who would better his surroundings and do so at a reasonable outlay.

The purchaser of each lot must deposit with or secure to the auctioneer $200 as soon as each lot is struck off. Make what inquiries you like in regard to the lots at the office of the auctioneers, but bear in mind the lots are to be sold.

FREDERICK B. BLANCHARD, Assignee.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Executors' and heirs' sale of the BENJ. RUSHWORTH ESTATE, numbered 239, 241 and 243 Lawrence street. Cottage block of three houses and 8470 square feet of land.

On the twenty-eighth day of June, 1899, at five o'clock in the afternoon, it is our purpose to sell to the highest bidder at public auction the real estate situated as above stated and extending through from Ames street to Richmond street.

The houses have five rooms and cellar each, are supplied with water, water closets and sewerage; are in good order and repair; are never idle; one tenant has been an occupant for 16 years; the income from the property is $30 a month; the tenants are anxious to remain. The block makes three very pleasant and comfortable homes. The lot has a frontage of 91 feet on Lawrence street, 110 feet on Ames street, 78 feet on Richmond street and a total area of 8470 square feet. There is ample room on the Lawrence street front for another block, the space at present being occupied by fruit trees and vines. The present block has sufficient yard room in the rear.

The estate as a whole is a good one; no tenement property in Lowell is better located. Mills, factories, business and numerous small industries are close enough at hand; all city advantages and conveniences are at the premises. You can buy on easy terms.

The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $150 as soon as the property is struck off. The sale will take place rain or shine. Make all inquiries at the office of the auctioneers.

BENJ. W. RUSHWORTH and

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Executors' and Heirs' Sale of the WM. CLEWORTH TENEMENT PROPERTY, Nos. 75, 77 and 79 and 87 Cushing Street.

DOUBLE COTTAGE. - - - COTTAGE HOUSE

TWO TENEMENT HOUSE

AND 6975 SQUARE FEET OF LAND.

On Thursday, June 29th, 1899, promptly at five o'clock in the afternoon, regardless of the weather and to the highest bidder at absolute auction, I shall sell the real estate as above located and as herewith described.

THE DOUBLE COTTAGE is numbered 75 and 77, each house has seven rooms and each house is a pleasant and comfortable home. One tenant has been an occupant for eight years.

THE COTTAGE is numbered 79, has seven rooms and two sheds, and the present tenant is very anxious to remain.

THE TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE is numbered 87, each tenement has five rooms and shed and is occupied by a first class tenant.

Each tenement in this estate has a water closet, is supplied with city water and sewerage, each one has been well cared for and kept up. The property rents for $48 a month and there has not been a loss of $50 in rent on account of idleness for the past five years.

The property is a first class renting estate is excellently situated; is very conveniently arranged; is planned to get the greatest income for the least expenditure in repairs; can never be worth less; is the sort of renting property that always proves a satisfactory investment; it can always be sold. But for the fact that part of the heirs desire their money, it would not be sold at this time. As executor and one of the heirs I was very loathe to give my consent to part with so good a paying and easily cared for property.

The lot has a frontage of 95 feet and affords lots of yard room for the several tenants.

The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $250 as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms liberal.

JOHN CLEWORTH as Executor
and for Heirs of Wm. Cleworth.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON,

I have positively decided to dispose of my real estate on Fulton street without reserve at public auction.

THE ESTATE consists of a two-flat house, and 2790 square feet of land. Each house has five rooms, pantry, water closet, city water and sewerage. Each house is well laid out and arranged, has ample closet room and is in good condition, particularly the upper flat.

The lot has ample yard room for a garden, is fenced and level.

The property is numbered 59 Fulton street. The sale will take place Friday, June 30, 1899, at half past five o'clock in the afternoon. Sale rain or shine. No limit. $1650 can remain on bank mortgage at five per cent. interest. The rental is $15 a month and the flats are always in demand. I never owned a more desirable or more satisfactory parcel of renting property. I sell only for the best of reasons and can conscientiously recommend the estate to the most conservative buyers.

The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $175 as soon as the property is struck off.

JOHN WARBURTON.

WATERPROOF MAN

Nabbed by the Police of Manchester

STAYED IN CEMETERY IN THAT CITY

And Scared Many Women and Girls.

Lowell for some time had in its midst a "Peeping Tom" or waterproof man who operated principally in the Highland district. Women were grossly insulted and badly frightened. The Lowell police were notified and were close on trail of the recreant who made his escape to New Hampshire. Intelligence now comes from Manchester that such a character has come to the "end of his rope" in that city. Says the Manchester Union of yesterday:

For a week past West Manchester has had a "water proof man." His operations have annoyed and alarmed many women and girls and have aroused the indignation of their husbands, brothers and fathers, some of whom have conducted stillhunts for the fellow with the intention of giving him a sound trashing.

A suspect is now occupying cell thirteen in the central police station.

The waterproof man unlike the others of his specie who have been known in Manchester, has had rather peculiar methods. In the first place he has operated in broad day light and not on the streets as most of them have. Instead, he confined his performances to a cemetery keeping company with the tombstones until a victim appeared.

St. Joseph's Catholic cemetery on Milford street has been the scene of his appearances and in the selection of the place he showed himself both cool and calculating. The cemetery is isolated and is frequented by few visitors. Women often go there alone to place flowers on the graves or to visit the resting place of some friend or loved one.

In nearly every instance this waterproof man has jumped out suddenly on some lone woman or girl and gone through this disgusting antics. Most of the women have been badly frightened.

So far as can be learned, he has offered violence to no one, but has confined himself to mere appearances and has not laid hands on any one.

The police were notified of the presence and performances of the fellow two or three days ago and have since been on the lookout for him. He managed to keep well out of their way.

On Thursday morning, Policeman Bean arrested on Milford street near the cemetery a young fellow supposed to be the one wanted. He was given a ride in the patrol wagon and when booked gave his name as John Gagnon and said he lived on 26 Boynton street.

He is slender, dark, of medium height and not too prepossessing.

Much interest is evinced in Lowell on the outcome of the Harvard—Yale race.

Several Lowell people were in attendance at the Harvard commencement exercises this week.

Despite the popularity of golf and tennis, croquet still has its admirers—especially in Tewksbury.

Equestrian exercise is gaining favor in Lowell as elsewhere and there are many ladies in town who ride daily.

Will the boys and girls about to graduate from the high school stand ready to assert that "school days are the happiest of life?"

The princess of Wales has been given a patchwork quilt by its maker, Mrs. E. Shane, who is over 76 years of age. The quilt, which is made of 1100 octagonal bits of cotton print, represents one year's work.

It is rather hard on a prospective bridegroom to have the man who was to act as head usher at the nuptial ceremony to be the first to secure a marriage license and capture the bride, as was the case in Cambridge.

These are sad times for the girl babies. An unfortunate, helpless feminine infant in Kansas has been named Funstonia, and now an epidemic of Deweydrops, Hobsonettas, Wheelerines and Otisannas may be expected. And, as if the names themselves were not calamity enough, these victimized young ladies will be dated from 1899 all their lives and there will be no concealing their ages when the sear and yellow leaf stage is approaching. There ought to be a society to protect babies from being burdened with such names by limiting the mischievous propensities of inconsiderate parents.

PRETTY PICTURE

A group of young ladies of the Shaw hosiery make a pretty picture in the noon hour partaking of their dinner on the hosiery lawn facing Chelmsford street. They come from distant parts of the city and eat their meal in the cool and bracing air and have a picnic in miniature form, even if for only one hour. The move is a wise one and could be emulated with good results by other Lowell factory employes.

PEACE CONFERENCE

Hears Proposals From Russian Delegates.

M. de Staal Appeals to Delegates to Devote Their Energy to Arrest Continual Increase in Cost of Armed Peace.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

THE HAGUE, June 23.—M. De Staal, president of the peace conference at a meeting of the committee, introduced the Russian proposals looking to the arrest of armaments and read a declaration disclaiming all intention of proposing a reduction of the armaments at present. But, he added, he was of the opinion that if a standstill could be agreed upon, a reduction would soon come of itself. All the powers, he explained had conferred with the Czar relative to the immense evils of armed peace and he, now appealed to them to devote their energies toward the arrest of the continual increase in the cost of armed peace which he asserted cost more than a tremendous war.

Colonel Gillsk, of the Russian delegation, moved that the powers should enter into an understanding for the term of say five years, not to increase the effectiveness of the peace footing of their forces with the exception of the colonial troops and not to increase the amount of their military budgets, beyond their present figure.

TRAIN WRECKED

It Struck an Ox on the Track.

THE COLLISION DERAILED THE TRAIN.

Fireman Hickey Was Badly Injured.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

COLLINSVILLE, Conn., June 23.—An east bound midnight freight train on the Central New England railroad was wrecked near Canton, two miles from here, early this morning, in a peculiar manner. A stray ox wandered onto the tracks and was struck by the freight locomotive. The animal was instantly killed, its body being almost cut in two. The engine and eight cars, however, were derailed, and a portion of the wreckage caught fire. Engineer Timothy Farrell of East Hartford, was caught under the wreckage, and it required the work of three hours to extricate him. Greatly to the surprise of his rescuers it was found that he was not badly injured. Fireman Daniel Hickey was thrown some distance, and sustained internal injuries. Traffic is blocked, but passengers are being transferred around the wreck.

AT CAPE TOWN

ENGLAND MUST NOW ACT PROMPTLY.

The Tensions There is Extreme.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONDON, June 23.—A dispatch from Cape Town says:

The tension is extreme. Business is at a standstill and the general feeling is that England must promptly bring matters to an issue. The league will have no difficulty in preventing meetings supporting Sir Alfred Milner's attitude, the desire being to refrain from embarrassing the imperial authorities.

The Orange government is urging the Transvaal to make further concessions. Many people consider that Sir Alfred Milner's franchise proposals are useless without the granting of 12 seats in the mining centres and the right to speak English in the Volksraad. Otherwise it will be impossible to select representative men. Failing this concession, the Joannesburgers say they prefer a treaty providing security and judicial and educational reforms.

SPOKE TO PUPILS

Pres-Elect Hadley of Yale at Hill House School

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 23.—President elect Arthur T. Hadley of Yale University delivered the commencement address before Hill House High school here today. In the course of his address, Prof. Hadley arraigned the public office system of the nation and said that the only cure for the selfish violation of trust committed to representatives in office was the creation of a strong public sentiment. That sentiment should be fostered in the common school system and children should be taught that a civic responsibility rests upon them. The creation of monopolies which are selfish in import he also arraigned as being robbery as bold as that where the widow's portion is taken. Civil service reform in spirit must be the panacea by which the next generation must work out the salvation of the political system of the United States, he said.

A BIG COMBINE

With a Capital of Six Million Dollars.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 23.—An extensive brewery combine has been effected in Paterson, N. J., taking in all of the breweries of Passaic county, involving $6,000,000 capital.

Some time ago English capitalists attempted to consolidate all the Paterson breweries, but the Hinchcliffe Brothers, who operate one of the largest breweries there, refused to go into that combine. Recently, negotiations were renewed, and the outcome is a new combine to be known as the Paterson Brewing and Maud Malting company. The consolidation of these breweries will result in the closing of many saloons in Paterson. These saloons heretofore have been kept up by brewing firms, but under the new arrangement, the saloon keepers will have to take out and pay for their own licenses.

PRESIDENT DWIGHT'S REPORT.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 23.—The last report of President Dwight of Yale University, issued today, covers the last 18 months of his administration. He touches at the outset of the report upon the work of Yale in the Spanish war, the favorable decision for Yale in the tax suit, and the good condition of the finances, as managed by Treasurer Farnam. In speaking of wealth and fine new dormitories at Yale, he scouts the idea that these are foes of Yale democracy and says that the true Yale spirit is that which measures a man by what he is rather than by what he was. He criticizes with some severity the elective system at the college, and says that in connection with the lecture system it tends to impair the personal relations of students and instructors, and suggests that personal relations, if possible, be renewed. Written examinations are deprecated as being unjust to the student, because they are mechanical and severe, and do not allow the instructor to judge of the student's personal powers or weaknesses when he is examined.

The gifts mentioned in the report amount to $500,000, including those funds subscribed in the bi-centennial scheme, which at the date of the report amounted to about $480,000. The president makes a short reference to his successor, Prof. Hadley, who, he says, begins his college administration under the best auspices.

FOR WIFE-MURDER

Joseph Hill Given a Preliminary Hearing

HE WAS HELD WITHOUT BAIL

For October Session of the Grand Jury.

STORY OF JOSEPHINE WASHINGTON.

Says She Saw the Murder Committed.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 23.—Joseph Hill, who is charged with the murder of his wife, Mary E. Hill, Hyannisport, one week ago, was given a preliminary hearing in the First District court here today. After several witnesses had given testimony, the defendant was held without bail for the October session of the grand jury.

The first witness, Robert H. Faunce of Sandwich, medical examiner, testified that he called to see the body of Mrs. Hill on Friday night, June 16, soon after the murder occurred. He performed an autopsy the next day and found that one pistol shot had caused six wounds. A second shot had passed through the neck causing death.

Elmer W. Phinney of Hyannisport, said that he saw a man near the scene of the murder on the night of the 16th. The man was going towards the spot where a few minutes afterward the body of Mrs. Hill was found. Soon after the man disappeared from view of witness, two shots were heard. He went over to the hill and saw a body on the road which he recognized as Mrs. Hill.

Josephine Washington, the 11-year old neice of the murdered woman, who was with her aunt, when she was killed, testified that she and her sister saw Hill shoot his wife.

The next witness was Nellie E. Burchell of Hyannisport, a servant at the Kerr Cottage, situated near the scene of the tragedy. She said she saw Mrs. Hill and two girls on the road on the evening of the 16th. She saw Hill emerge from some bushes and heard him call his wife. A few moments later, witness said she saw Hill shoot and the woman fall.

Rebecca Cahoon, mother of the prisoner, testified that her son came to her house at 8 o'clock Friday night and during a conversation, the son said: "Oh, mother, I want to kiss you for the last time. I have shot Mamie."

After the hearing was closed, the defendant was held for the grand jury, without bail.

JUDGE HANFORD

GIVES DECISION THAT RAISES AN ISSUE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

SEATTLE, Washn., June 23.—United States Judge Hanford has rendered a decision which raises an issue with the treasury department. He granted a writ of habeas corpus to T. Yamasaka, a Japanese arrested by Immigration Inspector Walker on the charge of being a pauper and entering the United States clandestinely.

Judge Hanford ruled that while the courts have no jurisdiction to review the act of the superintendent of immigration or the inspectors acting under him in excluding immigrants upon their arrival and before they have been landed from the vessel after an immigrant has entered the United States and actually set foot upon its soil and attained his liberty, he cannot be turned back except upon a judicial inquiry into his right to remain in the United States and further held that the law makes no provision for such inquiry.

The socialist deputies are also at variance regarding the entry of General the Marquis de Gallifet into the cabinet and a portion of that party has decided to found a new group to be entitled "Revolutionary Socialists."

GLORIA

IS NOT A MEDICINE.

A nice new woman often said
She wished the horrid men all dead.
She drunk some GLORIA, then changed her mind,
Same as some other womankind.
And immediately published a personal ad.
For any old man that can be had.
Friends met with her and drank GLORIA there,
And voted the wicked men to spare;
All suggested the ad. to increase
Till everyone had a man apiece.
Then all drink GLORIA often as you can,
For it raises the value of fallen man.

THIS WONDERFUL WOMAN WAS THE PIONEER OF WOMEN'S RIGHTS IN AMERICA; SHE IS DESCRIBED BY SUSAN B. ANTHONY AS "THE WOMAN ORATOR OF THE AGE;" SHE HAS SWAYED THOUSANDS WITH THE POWER OF HER INTELLECT AND THE SWEETNESS AND STRENGTH OF A VOICE HENRY WARD BEECHER DESCRIBED AS "SILVERY BELLS."

MRS. ELIZABETH CADY STANTON, WHO, AT THE AGE OF EIGHTY-FOUR, WRITES A VIGOROUS LETTER OF ADVICE TO OUR WOMEN READERS.

HOW TO GROW OLD GRACEFULLY.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton Discloses the Secret of a Happy and Healthy Old Age.

The answer involves a primal question as to the starting point. How to reach the end of a ten-mile walk depends upon the vigor with which one started, the state of the road, the weather, the companions and the object of the journey.

So it is in life.

With two generations of ancestors with sound minds in sound bodies, with the advantages of good society and thorough education, one is well equipped for health and happiness and success in life.

What a good foundation is to a fine edifice, that is birth and education to character, though great souls now and then appear to rise superior to all disadvantages.

I attribute my vigorous old age in part to advantageous circumstances, in part to a happy, hopeful temperament, a keen sense of humor, sympathies for all my fellow beings and a deep interest in all the vital questions of the hour.

One must have an earnest purpose in life, beyond personal ambition and family aggrandizement.

Self-centered characters do not possess the necessary elements of a high development.

If one would have a happy old age, the first condition is a sound body; to that end we all know that exercise, diet, dress, sanitary conditions, are all important.

Born on the hills in Fulton County, 400 feet above the Mohawk Valley, I enjoyed pure air to start with. With walks of five or ten miles, and rides on horseback of many more, oftimes before breakfast; skating, coasting, sleigh-riding with boys as well as girls, for in our old academies we had coeducation everywhere, we enjoyed abundant means for fun and frolic.

In those days the languages and mathematics were not thought to be too strong intellectual pabulum for girls. Five years in all my studies and plays in the constant companionship of boys, I count as one of the happiest periods of my girlhood.

Thus the girls acquired strength, courage and self-assertion, and the boys courtesy, refinement and self-control.

Thus youth passed with comparative freedom, and the foundation was laid for health and intellectual development.

Wifehood and motherhood brought their duties, without the usual disabilities that feeble women, ignorant of the laws of health, endure. Nature does her best at all periods of woman's life to make each change one of added health and happiness.

Those obedient to her laws rejoice in every step from youth to age. Fifty is the heyday of her intellectual life. Then the vital forces used in reproduction are garnered in the brain, giving new ideas and adding force, clearness and beauty to thought. There comes eloquence of expression, and she finds a wider field for her sympathies. She has new interests in the great world which is the future home of her children, in which she is now to labor to make it fit for them to live in.

Now the wise woman sees she has new duties in the state, to build up a government for the benefit of the whole people. She has duties in the church to save her children from all the harrowing superstitions that have so long oppressed the human mind. This work finds her able to meet it.

This is a hasty picture of my life; and now, in my eighty-fourth year, life is as sweet to me as ever. I have no pains or aches, no regrets or forebodings for myself; all my sorrows are for the troubles of others.

My philosophy is to live in the present; regrets for the past are vain, the page is turned, there is no remedy for what is done. As to the future, anxieties are equally vain; we do not know what one day will bring forth; what we hope or fear may never occur; the present is all that is ours.

It is the general opinion that with age must come decrepitude, that its inevitable accompaniments are wigs and spectacles, ear trumpets and false teeth, weak knees, asthma, neuralgia and rheumatism.

This is by no means the case.

I know sound old gentlemen on the shady side of eighty, that read without spectacles, whose hearing is as keen as a rabbit's, who can walk as briskly as most men of forty, and have as keen a zest as ever in all there is in life worth enjoying.

One of the most celebrated dancing masters in Western New York, Mr. Cobleigh, played on his violin and danced as lightly as a boy of sixteen long after he was seventy years old.

I have no doubt, if we kept up gymnastic exercises and diligent rubbing every day, we should retain our suppleness of limb and motion to a good old age.

I suppose the time will never come when women or men either will delight in crow's feet, wrinkles or gray hairs, but the time will come—aye, and now is—when they will view these blemishes as but a petty price to pay for the joy of added wisdom, for the deeper joy of closer contact with humanity, and for the deepest joy of worthy work well done.

THE PLAN FOR A COLLAR AND DEEP REVER AS DRAWN BY OUR ARTIST UNDER THE DIRECTION OF A FASHIONABLE NEW YORK TAILOR.

GETTING READY.

And if our senses are not so keen as in youth, our spiritual eyes behold the unfolding of many glories we never saw before. We hear the music in the air, the harmonies of nature unheeded in the early days, and the interior life grows brighter as the years roll on, the horizon of thought broadens, new vistas open to unknown paths, we see visions and dream dreams of celestial harmony and happiness, and of the complete fulfillment of all our earth-born plans and purposes.

They are begun in youth in doubt and weakness, but finished at last in faith and victory.

"For age is opportunity no less,
Than youth itself, though in another dress;
And as the evening twilight fades away
The sky is filled with stars invisible by day."

HOW TO MAKE A SHIRT WAIST.

Our Artist Draws Diagrams of Very Pretty New Collars and Revers for Wash Waists.

REMODELLING A PLAIN ONE

A Useful Hint for the Woman who Wants Something Very Nice for Little Money.

BELTS, NECKTIES AND COLLARS.

New York, June 22.—"What is the greatest existing record of woman's progress?" demanded a woman lecturer at a popular club the other afternoon.

"The shirt waist," whispered one of the audience, under her breath.

If she had stood up and shouted her answer aloud she would have only voiced the sentiment of every woman in the room, for not even the tailor-made suit was such an evolution or so strong a protest. It is well within the memory of every grown woman when the greatest concession a woman could make to summer time was a "wash" dress, made in close style, like her woolen gowns, boned, often lined, and finished in such a way that it never looked well after its bath.

Now the duck skirt, in all colors, provides a supply of street skirts ranging from white to black, and from heavy to light; and with these skirts which, by the way, really hang better after being suitably laundered, there can be worn such a variety of shirt waists that no woman, however fastidious, can refuse one.

SHIRT WAIST SUITS.

The latest dress wrinkle, in New York, is the shirt waist suit. A skirt of brilliant red pique trimmed with white braid is purchased at a price ranging from a dollar upward. With this skirt there is purchased a plain red lawn shirt waist, also one of white mull, another of red and white plaid gingham, a fourth of red pique with white insertion, a fifth of white pique worked with big red fleur de lis and a sixth of black linen figured in scarlet.

The "suit" is complete, no matter which waist is worn, and if, to the waists is added an all red hat, the result is quite stunning. As many or as few of these waists may be purchased as the pocketbook shall dictate.

THE GREEN AND WHITE.

The waist-to-match policy is carried out with the natural or tan linen skirt, with the blue, the black, the green and the white. You will be surprised, by following this line, to see how easily and inexpensively you can procure a summer wardrobe.

A word about laundry bills! A New York woman of some cleverness discovered that it was their neatness which made the Southern girls so attractive. Labor is cheap in the South and a Southern belle, of moderate means, thinks it no extravagance to wear a fresh white gown every day. It is certainly a woman's most effective toilette—a fresh gown—and laundry bills are well worth their total.

An enterprising summer girl has discovered that the life of a shirt waist can be prolonged away from the wash tub by pressing. The pique waist, after one wearing, is folded as in the shops—be sure to learn how to do this—and is placed under a weight until next day. To a confidential friend this clever girl admitted that her waists were laid between the mattresses, precisely as her brother pressed his trousers.

FINISH AND FIGURE.

The best finish for a shirt waist is the narrow white neckband upon which a collar is buttoned. Cuffs are of the waist material; avoid the shirt waists that have white cuffs attached. They soil a day ahead of the waist itself.

The "shirt waist figure," which changes each season, and which last year was very full just above the waist line, standing out like a big puff, is high-busted and neat. There is a choice between the plain waist and the limited blouse, both being in vogue.

They have a way now of making the blouse waist so that it can be worn plain by simply drawing the fullness below the belt. The fashionable figure is rather full and must be broad across the chest by artifice if not by nature.

BELTS, BUCKLES, STOCKS.

Short-waisted persons can be comforted and assisted this year by the ribbon belt, which is in style. It is narrow and may match the waist. By matching the belt to waist a longer waist effect is obtained.

The tiniest buckles are worn upon the ribbon belts, and many women, upon economy bent, utilize handsome old buttons for the purpose. The button is sewed upon one end of the ribbon. The ribbon is drawn around the waist and pinned in place so as to show the big fancy button which acts as a finish. The neck ribbon is fastened in the same way.

Many are the soft white stocks, the chiffon bow tied in front being very becoming. A pretty bow and vest effect is obtained by tying a ribbon under the chin, leaving long ends. The ends are brought down to the waist line and tied in another big bow.

The advisability of making the shirt waist at home is still a discussed subject, the consensus of opinion being that it is cheaper and more satisfactory to buy.

COUNTERFEITING ELEGANCE.

If a really elegant waist is desired such a one as costs seven dollars and more at the best shops, a substitute can be obtained by buying a plain waist, of good cut, for one dollar or even less.

The waist can now be hemstitched at home, or trimmed with insertion or otherwise made valuable. Be sure, if you trim with insertion, to cut out the goods underneath, as the insertion, by some trick of color, looks much finer.

PEACH CAKE.

Make an ordinary cup cake. When cold cut the cake in half, cover one-half with large, mellow peaches, which should be cut into fine slices, pour over a little peach syrup from a can of the fruit, put over the remaining half and dust the cake with fine sugar. Or pour over the following icing: Mix one cup of sifted powdered sugar with two tablespoonfuls boiling water and one teaspoonful lemon juice, stir until smooth, pour the icing over the cake and let stand till cold.

PATTERN FOR A VERY SMART COLLAR AND REVER CUT IN TWO PIECES WITH SEAM IN THE MIDDLE OF THE BACK. THIS DIAGRAM CAN BE ENLARGED TO FIT THE NECK OF THE GOWN.

A HINT FOR THE HOME NEEDLE.

With Thread, Wire and Paste-Pot the Ingenious Woman can Manufacture a Becoming Summer Light.

It is the season of the year when gas is intolerable and electric light, even if obtainable, is trying and calls mosquitoes. Why not, then, resort to that beauty maker of our grandmothers, the candle, which, while it reveals, softens and discloses with smiles without the lines.

The candle of commerce these days is a joy. Unlike the "dip," it is hard and even pleasant to the fingers. By describing what you want to your grocer you can obtain a candle that positively will not drip, and which, as it burns slowly away, leaves only a slight disfiguration upon its receding sides. But beware of the candle that drips its wax freely; it brings ruin.

After the candle comes the candle shade, which can be home-made. The frames are necessary and can be purchased cheaply; or, better still, buy one for a pattern and imitate it in wire.

The stick itself can be managed in the same way. If there is not an old candelabra in the family, any dealer in artist's materials will sell you the wire framework, which can be bent to form great ornamental candelabra.

A very artistic woman recently took an old bronze stork which for years had perched upon the family mantel and attached a framework of bent wire to its wings and head, as though the stork were holding the framework in its bill. To the framework she fitted candlesticks, and into these she set the candles and fitted shades to them. The whole was intended for a dining-table ornament.

Heavy brocaded silk makes a very pretty shade, pasted upon a paper foundation. And there now come very decorative wall papers that can be used for candle shades. Half a yard of wall paper will make several shades, all varied as different parts of the pattern are used.

Silk ruffles are used to trim paper shades, and silk flowers are also used. The combination of silk and paper is always good. The woman who values her good looks these hot nights will not forget the kind words thrown by the charitable rose candle shade, and will provide herself with them.

A NEW WOMAN IN THE OLD WORLD.

Although a New York Syndicate is Said to be Negotiating for the Lakes of Killarney Rumor Still Declares That They are to be Given to Mrs. Howard Gould.

A recent dispatch from Dublin says that Howard Gould is negotiating for the purchase of the Lakes of Killarney, and that the purchase price is to be $360,000. The lakes are intended, it is said, as a gift to Mrs. Howard Gould, the beautiful young bride of the multi-millionaire, and are to be used by her as a summer home.

The purchase of the Lakes of Killarney was regarded at first as a joke, but upon reflection it was agreed that nothing more beautiful could gladden the heart of a woman. To own this beautiful locality as one's own, and to be able to walk "by Killarney's lakes and dells," without molestation, would fulfill the wildest dream of a woman's heart.

The land about Killarney does not exceed 100,000 acres, many of which are wooded lands that cannot be cultivated; others are dells that are approachable only by ladders of stone, very picturesque but not valuable to the Irish farmer. The offer, therefore, of a lump sum for that section of the country would be gladly received by the farmer.

Mrs. Howard Gould, the young woman who has such a gift within reach, is one of the most beautiful women that ever lived. Her hair is so light that it is almost silver, and her figure is slenderness itself. She has a beautiful voice and for years her favorite song has been the famous "Killarney." It was at a yachting dinner off the coast of England that Mrs. Gould was asked to sing this song for her guests. At the conclusion some one suggested that Mr. Gould should purchase the Lakes of Killarney for his wife, a suggestion which was eagerly received by Mrs. Gould and which at once engaged the attention of Mr. Gould. Before the day was over it is said that he had begun negotiations.

Mrs. Gould is likewise an accomplished woman. From being an office assistant in California she raised herself to the stage and achieved some success as an actress in England. It is noteworthy that, while in small theatres she "brought down the house," in large theatres she was less successful. This was said to be on account of her great beauty, which swayed the audience, if within range of her varied expression.

Mrs. Howard Gould did not have to assist a young husband in his poverty. Married beyond the dreams of avarice, she has been able to gratify every whim of an artistic woman. Christmas she dispensed 2,500 dinners to poor children near Five Points, New York, and later she entertained the children of the employees of the hotel at which she lives when in town.

Mrs. Gould owns the finest yacht in the world, the Niagara. She possesses the most expensive fan, an exquisite hand-painted affair. She is building the greatest mansion in New York, in which she will, it is whispered, establish a wonderful salon for artistic people. And now she may soon own the Lakes of Killarney.

It is a remarkable fact that all the Gould men have married wives of high intelligence. Miss Katharine Clemmons was undoubtedly a brilliant as well as a beautiful woman; her fencing alone would entitle her to the name of athlete. Miss Edith Kingdon, the wife of George Gould, would have made a great theatrical star had she remained in Daly's company. And Miss Shrady, daughter of Dr. Shrady, who married Edwin Gould, while too young at the time to show pronounced ability, has since been quite remarkable for the promotion of country sports, her efforts in this line having been the making of the now famous Aridsley.

If Mrs. Howard Gould accepts the Lakes of Killarney as a gift, she will maintain a game preserve and will subdivide the entire acreage into farms, upon which there will live thrifty tenants, who, instead of paying rent, will be paid monthly wages for taking care of the property. Surely an innovation in Ireland!

Meanwhile, as a home reform, Mrs. Gould is endeavoring, it is quietly said, to secure elevators for the passengers of the elevated railroads, who now must climb long flights of stairs.

A VERY EASY WAY TO MAKE A SEAMLESS YOKE FOR THE NECK OF ANY WASH WAIST; PLAID GOODS MAY BE CUT IN THE BACK IN ORDER TO FIT THE STRIPE NEATLY.

GETTING A PHOTOGRAPH.

It is one thing to say, "Go to a good photographer." But the photographer cannot do all. The woman must have previously dressed herself well and arranged her hair prettily or the photographer will be helpless.

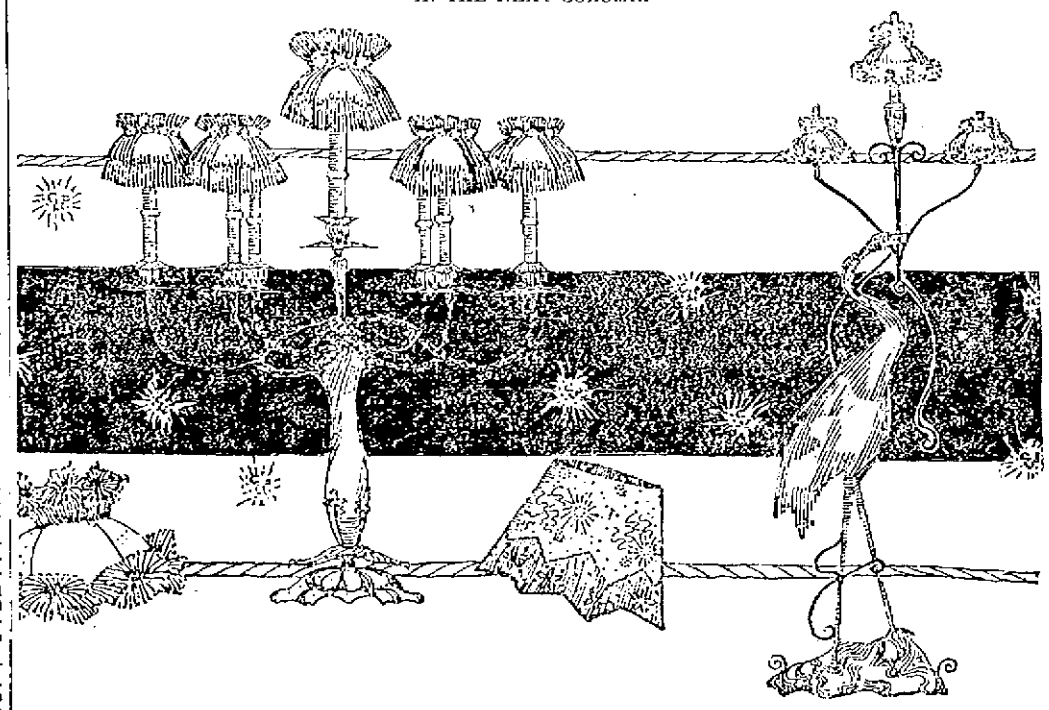

The hair should be very loosely arranged. Remember that small curls "take" well. All sorts of small articles look pretty in a picture. The bracelet, the ring, the careless curl, the tiny curl-pinster which in real life may be in questionable taste, are positively charming in a photograph.

A very graceful effect is invariably produced by draping the head. A very long scarf of white crepon drapes the head well. Let it be fastened upon the front of the gown and carried over the head like a shawl. The other end can be brought carelessly down over the left shoulder, as a Spanish mantilla. The draper will do this for you. You on your part need only dress in white with a rounded or decollette neck and short sleeves. If the neck be high, and the sleeves long, the draped effect can be obtained by gathering the scarf a little closer around the head as though one wore an evening dress for the opera. There are countless varieties of the draped photograph, all of which are good.

THE MAKING OF CANDLE SHADES IS SUCH A DAINTY FEMININE OCCUPATION THAT IT CAN BE PICKED UP AT ODD TIMES; WIRES ARE BENT AND SILK IS SHIRRED OVER THEM WITH VERY DECORATIVE RESULTS; READ THE DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING CANDLE SHADES IN THE NEXT COLUMN.

TEWKSBURY PARK

Was Illuminated Brilliantly Last Night

SCENE OF THE GRANGE LAWN PARTY

Music and Baloon Ascension Among Attractions

Myriads of lighted lanterns overtopped the pretty little park or lawn, as it is familiarly called, at Tewksbury Centre last evening, making a picture rare to behold. It was the occasion of a lawn party under the auspices of the Tewksbury Grange. Here gathered the residents of the place with a sprinkling of out-of-town people and all seemed to unite as one happy family in enjoying themselves. After exchanging greetings some ate ice cream with its accompaniments, some walked about the green, listening to the strains of sweet melody from Atwood's orchestra, some joined with Dame Gossip in a quiet siesta in a little social chit-chat, others, the youngest portion, hied to a plot where the light of the Japanese lanterns did not reach and engaged in dancing and two cake-walks, the latter to the music of "Whistling Rufus" and "Smoky Mokes." Of course, the "dear mammas" would not approve of this had they known it and the participants felt at ease that they, like the orchestra could furnish a march if even a quiet one, "a stolen march" on supposed watchful guardians. The Sun reporter, however, observed the man in the moon peeping from the direction of Fairgrieves' store toward the dance plot, winking his eye, and moving along. The Sun reporter will later on tell what this wink of the gentleman in the planetary searchlight meant.

Of the other diversions, Dr. Downs, assisted by Mr. F. J. Flemings, both of Lowell, sent up three balloons, two of which were strikingly successful. The first was named after the master of the grange, Mr. Joel Richards and it soared majestically and was roundly cheered. The second bore the name of Mr. Charles Clark and it also was successful. The third, named for Mr. George W. Trull started out brilliantly, but the streamers landed in a tree and brought it down. It was cheered just the same for the people knew that its namesake was all right, and it was all right and it was only an unfortunate trick of the wind that caused its failure.

Atwood's orchestra of Lowell furnished a most excellent program of marches, waltzes, galops, two-steps and concert music. The mosquitoes were conspicuous by their absence, being cannonaded out of town by huge cannon crackers set off at regular intervals during the night.

Every one who attended was convinced when the evening was over, that lawn parties can be made most delightful occasions and that the members of Tewksbury Grange know how to make them so.

One of the most pleasing features of the evening was the refectory arrangements. A number of tables were spread upon the lawn and thirsty and hungry patrons were refreshed by liberal quantities of ice cream, cake and other toothsome dainties. Mr. John Trull attended to the dispensing of the ice cream and Mrs. S. P. Pike had charge of the cake. The waiters were Mrs. John Trull, Mrs. George E. Crosby, Mrs. James Long, Mrs. Charles French, Miss Bertha Long, and Messrs. Charles French and Elliott French.

The candy table was presided over by Mrs. George W. Trull and Miss Nellie French.

The lemonade table received liberal patronage being in charge of Misses Edith Davis and Theresa Small, who succeeded in disposing of large quantities of the cooling fluid by their enterprise.

The attendance was all that could be desired, many coming from North Tewksbury and Billerica in carriages, while Lowell had a good representation, many arriving on the cars, while the bicycle brigade was much in evidence. Much of the success of the affair is due to the efforts of Mr. George Trull, chairman of the committee, who was very energetic in looking after the various details. He was assisted by an efficient corps of aids consisting of Mrs. Samuel P. Pike, Miss Lizzie Rogers, Miss Nellie French and Messrs. Charles French, William Farmer, William Trull and W. Frost. The decorations were executed by George Bean and William Farmer.

The affair was surely a red letter night for Tewksbury and well took the place of the much-expected band concert which failed to materialize the night previous.

DOUBT

CANNOT EXIST.

Investigation Will Only Strengthen the Proof We Give in Lowell.

There must be something stronger than imagination behind expressions of such representative citizens of Lowell as Mr. John C. Melloon, grocer and provision merchant at the corner of Bridge and 7th street, who says:

"In the spring of 1898 I was forced from severe pain in the back to procure Doan's Kidney Pills at Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store at the corner of Merrimack and Central streets and take a course of the treatment. It was speedily followed by absolute relief and up to date I have not had a symptom of a return."

A GOOD MOVEMENT in a watch is more to be desired than a handsome case, but when both can be had for a moderate price, why not get both?

We can sell you a watch of gold or silver in which beauty of exterior and accuracy of movement are combined, but the cost of which is more than reasonable.

Improved methods of manufacture and the increased skill and improved taste of the workman enable a much better watch to be made at a lower price than formerly. We have such a number and variety of these beautiful timepieces that it is impossible to describe them. A visit to the store can only do them justice.

TROLLEY PARTY

Under the Auspices of Westminster Church People

Two large electric cars, both "specials," left Merrimack square, last evening for Belle Grove, crowded even to standing room on the side and rear platforms. It was a trolley party under the auspices of the Westminster Presbyterian church, the popular pastor of which is Rev. Duncan A. MacPhie. The party was a merry one and though cramped for room in the cars took matters philosophically knowing that when it reached the destination, Siesta Cottage, that the excursionists would have a jolly good time and this verily proved the case. Mrs. MacDougall, proprietress of the cottage and her courteous assistants received the Lowellians with the right hand of good fellowship and made everything pleasant for them even to furnishing one of those excellent repasts for which she is noted. An orchestra was in attendance furnishing an enjoyable concert program and dancing was among other pleasing diversions of the happy occasion. The return was made at a reasonable hour. The successful affair was in charge of the following efficient committee of arrangements: Miss Sadie Ready, Messrs. Joseph Leach and Alix Johnston. The object of the party was to defray expenses for repairs to the church now undergoing completion and quite a large sum was realized. The trolley party many would like to have repeated later on.

FOURTH PARADE

The Time and Route Has Been Changed

THE MUSTER COMMITTEE HEARD FROM.

First General Orders of the Chief Marshal.

The Fourth of July committee held another meeting in city hall last night and by the action taken, things are back to where they were about a week ago. The important items of business were the changing of hour and route of parade and time of firemen's muster.

The parade will form at 9 o'clock on the North common. The sub-committee on parade acted promptly in the matter making the change not only in time, but in the route of the parade for the announcement of the line of march previously called forth several suggestions in the interest of various sections of the city.

The first general order for the parade was written last night and is as follows:

General Order, No. 1.

June 23, 1899.

The parade will start at 9 a. m., July Fourth.

The route will be as follows: Form on North common, march to Fletcher, to Pawtucket, to Merrimack, to Bridge, to Sixth, to Read, to Fifth, to Bridge, to Merrimack, to Central, to Davis square review and dismiss.

By Order,
—BUTLER AMES,
Chief Marshal.
—CHARLES H. KIMBALL,
Chief of Staff.

There will be three grand stands built in front of the city hall. The expense of building these stands, which may amount to $100, has worried the committee a little and it was proposed at first that only one stand, for the members of the city council, be erected; but the matter will be arranged in some manner. Two years ago the lands and buildings department built large reviewing stands for the committee and then sent in the customary bill, but it was not paid.

The firemen's muster will begin on the North common at 1.30 o'clock on the Common street side.

When the question of music was under consideration, the sub-committee reported that five bands had been engaged and would, it was believed, prove sufficient.

Mr. Sturtevant reported that this included the Military Band which was only engaged for the parade at a cost of $75. This was because the band was engaged at the Fair Grounds for the rest of the day. It was later stated that Mr. James A. Murphy, the leader, refused the offer of the committee on music.

It was stated that the Lawrence battery had been engaged to fire salutes of 21 guns at morning and night and 45 at noon for $87 and expenses. The battery will arrive on the "night before," and he entertained at the American house.

The sub-committee on bell ringing and salutes had not made any arrangements for the ringing of bells because it did not have the money. Upon Mr. Sturtevant's suggestion, $20 was transferred from the music to the bell ringing account.

The children's entertainments as has been stated, will be given in the Opera House. There will be a varied program and the children will have the full service of the theatre.

Fourth of July committees always have badges. Mr. Hogan and Aldermen Chapin are a special committee to arrange a badge for this year.

The citizens will be asked to decorate their houses and places of business and notices to that effect will be published in the newspapers.

Two associations of veteran firemen have been heard from officially and four unofficially as intending to take part in the parade and muster.

A LIVELY GAME

Boston Defeated the Pirates 4 to 2

LEWIS PITCHED GREAT BALL.

Collins Played Well at Third Base.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PITTSBURG, June 24.—Although the ride from Chicago was a long and wintry one, the champions, who reached the city shortly after noon yesterday, appeared at exposition park full of life and confidence and defeated the pirates 4 to 2.

Manager Selee said he feared the ride and the terrible heat would make his men stale, but in this he was happily disappointed, for the champions played good ball and won handily. They clearly outplayed the Pittsburgs, in addition to which Donovan's men were clearly outgeneralled.

Lewis, who has been indulging in a rest, was selected to do the pitching for Boston and right well did he perform his part. Eight hits was all the locals could secure, and these for the most part were badly scattered. Tannehill, Pittsburg's best pitcher, was on the rubber but his delivery did not seem to have any terrors for Boston.

There were several pretty plays made during the game. Collins, as usual, came in for considerable applause by reason of a regular three-ringed circus stop of a sizzling grounder. Frisbie, too, was in the game long enough to demonstrate his fitness for the position he has been called upon to fill. He was taken out, not on account of any bad playing but because Manager Selee thought a right hand batsman would be more likely to land on one of Tannehill's benders just when a hit was needed and Selee was right.

The change was made in the seventh inning. Collins had been disposed of when Duffy hit safely to middle field, and went all the way to third, when McCreery permitted the ball to pass beyond him. Frisbie then came to bat and had swung at two of Tannehill's outcurves when Manager Selee took him out and sent Jimmie Stafford to bat.

The fact that he entered the contest heavily handicapped did not seem to bother Stafford in the least, for the very first ball sent up by Tannehill he landed on for a single, sending Duffy over the plate with the run that placed Boston in the lead.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Boston	0	0	0	1	0	0	2	1	0—4
Pittsburg	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	0—2

Earned runs, Pittsburg 2, Boston 3. Two-base hit, McCarthy. Three-base hit, Madison. Sacrifice hit, McCarthy. Stolen base, Williams. Double play, Ely, O'Brien and Clark 2. First on balls off Lewis. Struck out, by Lewis 3. Time 2h. Umpires, Lynch and Connolly.

Louisville 8; Washington 3.
Cincinnati 8, Baltimore 3.
Chicago 3, Brooklyn 2.
New York 8, Cleveland 2.

The fact that Hon. John D. Long, secretary of the navy, was present and addressed the gathering gave additional interest to the occasion. The interior of the church was handsomly trimmed with beautiful roses, blossoms, and mounds of foliage. "America."

Supt. Thomas presented Hon. John D. Long, who was greeted with loud applause. He said:

"I assure you it is worth a much longer journey than I have taken to be with you here today. To come into the heart of Massachusetts and see the familiar orchards under this balmy June sky is a boom in itself. I regret that for the last four years I have been unable to be with you as I had in the previous years, but every June when I received the invitation from the trustees, my heart turned towards old Westford and to its pleasant memories and old associations. I cannot witness such exercises as these without recalling the past. I come with the accumulation of rich memories of the high minded and good men and women who made this academy what it is today, where is possible the best development for the cultivation of the moral and intellectual mind. Some one has said that the happiest time in life are the school days. They are happy but they should not be the happiest. The later days should be the happiest days because in addition to one's own happiness he has accumulated the happiness of others. It is a good thing to lay up riches, but the best things to lay up are riches of the mind, such as the students are getting here. Education is not merely a training of the mind, but a cultivation of the refining influences of the moral nature. These graduates will go out into this life of toil as sources of refinement but they should not forget the value of material things. If we devoted ourselves merely to the sentimental side, we could not have such institutions as this. Some one must do the hard work of digging the soil, and building the structure. You are going out, graduates, into the world around you; but you must not be misled by the inspiration of this graduation day. You will find the world a world of toil and hard work. It is made up of all sorts of elements, all working for one common end, the betterment of the world and the advance of civilization.

The scholar will find opportunity to apply his education and refinement in anything be it in a profession or upon the farm. Those are riches which can never leave you or be spirited away by thieves. In conclusion may I not ask you, as a representative of the government to remember as citizens, this, our common country and that the standard of the country will be whatever standard people like you can make it. "Our country, 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty."

Rev. W. D. Horton, D.D., of Boston, a former instructor of the school, was introduced and spoke in part as follows:

"Here in Westford I feel at home; here I know what friendship means. Graduates, whether you go into business or a profession, these three things are needed in America: conscience, chivalry and concentration. Conscience that you may treat your fellow man with equity; with a chivalric refinement of tastes; ready to succor those below you and to crown with culture whatsoever comes to your hand. Concentration is also essential. I believe that the thing needed today is a focus power, a purpose in life. With your talents, education and refinement you do not want simply to be good but to be good for something. Make a mark, not merely for fame, but for the benefit of mankind; be able to contribute your life and your life's ideal to your country's welfare. The question for us on the lower planes of life is not Shall our names be chiselled in immortal fame after we are gone but are we doing our duty by God, our country and mankind while we live?

Supt. Thomas made a brief address and then Secretary Long presented diplomas to the following graduates:

Latin-Scientific course, Mary Etta Gill and Blanche Katharine Gurney; English course, George Warren Butterworth, William Joseph Charlton, John Henry Decatur, Jr., Guy Roberts Decatur and Ida Florence Hartford.

CAPT. FAIRWEATHER, Commander of the Spanish War Veterans.

A rousing meeting of the Spanish Veterans was held last night and officers were chosen. Steps were taken toward the formation of a strong organization and preparations made for a feature in the Fourth of July parade. Lieut. Lewis G. Hunton presided and a nominating committee presented the following list of officers:

Commander, Lieut. Kittredge; vice commander, Lieut. McNulty; adjutant, Frank Parks; treasurer, Lieut. Rose; financial secretary, Sergt. McNamara; recording secretary, Howard Caldwell; quartermaster, Sergt. Boyle.

Messrs. Murphy, Gear and Hunt were appointed to nominate a second list to be balloted for. Privates Howe, Boucher and Sansum were appointed a committee to count ballots. The second list introduced Capt. William Fairweather as a candidate with Lieut. Kittredge for commander. Others on the list were: Vice commander, Lieut. McNulty; adjutant, Sergt. Clogston; treasurer, Lieut. Rose; financial secretary, Sergt. McNamara; recording secretary, Sergt. Howard Caldwell; quartermaster, Frank Boyle.

There being no opposition to Lieut. McNulty, Sergt. McNamara, Lieut. Rose, Sergt. Caldwell and Sergt. Boyle, the secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for them and they were declared elected.

The committee on ballots reported for the first count: Capt. Fairweather, 16; Lieut. Kittredge, 15. This did not constitute a majority for the captain and another ballot was taken. It resulted in: Capt. Fairweather, 16; Lieut. Kittredge, 14. The captain was then declared elected.

Mr. Murphy moved that the organization meet once every week. Voted.

Moved by Mr. Hunton that a committee of three to consist of the commander and two others be appointed to arrange for a meeting place and as to the night of meeting. Voted. Commander Fairweather, Lieut. McNulty, and Mr. Leighton were appointed.

It was voted to arrange a float as a feature in the July 4 parade. Lieut. Hunton agreed to pay expenses up to $20 until refunded by the organization. It was decided that the organization turn out in Khakis.

The following committee on by-laws was appointed: Messrs. Gear, Bradley, Nichols, Leighton, Clogston, Maguire, Caldwell, Meehan, Weeks. It was announced that the mayor had agreed to allow the Spanish cannon to be carried on the float.

The following committee was appointed to arrange the July 4 feature: Messrs. Hunton, Murphy, Ball, Everett, Douglass.

COLUMBIA AGROUND

Cup Defender Stuck in the Mud

An Attempt to Move Her Was Unsuccessful—Effort to Float Her Given up.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BRISTOL, R.I., June 24.—During the attempt to warp the Columbia out from her wharf to an anchorage in the bay, the yacht went aground and stuck fast in the mud. The newspaper tug which accompanied the vessel was called upon for assistance, but the effort to move the Columbia was unsuccessful. The tide was going steadily, and as it was apparent that further effort would be useless, it was decided to let the sloop rest until high water tonight. A line was run from the top-mast head to the pier, to make the boat steady, and later a gang of carpenters and painters were taken out to continue the work which has been going on in the interior of the boat.

The Columbia apparently is on a soft bed, but it is difficult to determine how deeply she is in the mud.

A few turns at the windlass, however, showed that the sloop was stuck and that their efforts were only forcing her more firmly on the shore. The tug H. C. Hart of New Bedford, was close at hand. She was asked to take a line aboard, and soon she was giving a strong pull at the sloop. The attempt amounted to nothing. Several subsequent attempts also failed to move the sloop. Meanwhile the tide was falling and gradually but perceptibly receding from the Columbia's water-line.

It was not, however, until the vessel was more than two feet higher that she would be above the water, and it was finally decided to give up the efforts to float her, and wait for another tide. The crew were put at work making things fast on deck, and a rope was run out from the mast-hear to the dock and fastened there to keep the yacht from tipping. When this work had been accomplished, the Columbia seemed to be in a very favorable position, and in no particular danger, as it was apparent that the bottom where she rested was soft, and that probably the receding tide would leave her nearly upright.

FEARFUL TRAGEDY

In Which Wm. E. Fife and Daughter Were Killed.

Their Wagon Struck by White Mountain Express and Thrown 250 Feet—Bodies Mangled—Engineer Not to Blame.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CLINTON, June 24.—One of the most shocking tragedies in this community in years occurred here last evening, when William E. Fife, the wealthiest citizen of the town and one of the most influential men in the community, and his daughter, Mrs. Dora Plummer, wife of Edwin L. Plummer, a well known merchant were killed.

Mr. Fife, who is nearly 70 years old, accompanied by Mrs. Plummer, shortly after dinner drove to Lancaster and started for home at 4.30. In returning, Mr. Fife took the back road around Lancaster Center depot. He drove down by the common toward Bailey, crossing over the B. and M. railroad tracks.

Miss M. B. S. Bailey, who lives beside the tracks, states that the horse either shied and stopped on the tracks or was pulled. The next thing she heard was a terrible crash, and she knew the White Mountain express had struck the carriage.

The engine hit the vehicle squarely on one side and dashed it in front of the engine, hurling it and the occupants some 250 feet further along and depositing them within 40 feet of the track. The carriage was demolished. The horse was never touched and dashed on home.

The locality is thickly settled and in a moment the place was crowded with horror-stricken people. Station agent Henry Chafin summoned medical examiner Dr. G. J. Tobey and all the physicians available.

The body of Mrs. Plummer was close to the track and was mutilated beyond recognition. The body of Mr. Fife lay a few feet down the embankment and was very little bruised. Dr. Tobey made a hasty examination, assisted by Dr. C. L. French and stated that death was instantaneous.

Deputy Sheriff C. A. Bartlett arrived a little later and made a rigid examination as to the cause of the accident. Investigation disclosed that the White Mountain express, due at Lancaster Centre at 5.05 was on time. It never stops at Lancaster. There is no gate or flagman at the crossing, but there is a signal bell which people close by claim to have been rung as usual.

The fatal train runs from Nashua to Worcester and was in charge of Conductor W. B. Mitchell and Engineer M. Hamilton. The latter states that he saw the team drive onto the track as he approached the station and then the horse slowed up or was stopped. He was too near to prevent a crash and with all the vigor at his command he reversed the lever of the engine but too late. The train was stopped and the tragedy at once reported to headquarters.

THE CLOSING DAY

Exercises at the Immaculate Conception School.

FINE ENTERTAINMENT PROGRAM.

Rev. Fr. Joyce, O. M. I. Addressed the Pupils.

The closing exercises of the Immaculate Conception school were held yesterday afternoon in the school hall and were as brilliant as those of eighteen years past. Rev. William D. Joyce, the beloved pastor was present, as were Rev. Fr. Lawrence, O. M. I., Lowell; Rev. John J. Duffy, O.M.I., Ottawa; Rev. Dennis Sullivan, O. M. I. and Rev. Lawrence Tighe, O. M. I. of Holy Angels' college, Buffalo, N. Y. The last three named are products of the school and every year attend the exercises.

When the curtain rose at 4 o'clock the cosy hall was filled to overflowing with the parents and friends of the children. The stage was prettily decorated with national colors in flags and bunting. The footlights were fringed with evergreens and roses.

The program was as follows:

Distribution of prizes to the primary classes; song, "Uncle Sam's Drummerboy," junior boys; drill, "The Flower Girls" juniors; recitation "The Yankee and the Dutchman," Mitchel Brosnan; operetta, "Youths Journey." The characters were as follows:

Pleasure, Catherine McGovern; Celesta, Josephine Kelleher; Youth, Mary Cahill; Conscience, Caroline Downey; Sport, Louisa Lennon; Joy, Margaret Knowles; Reason, Mary Hammersly; Religion, Jane Mack; Falsehood, Gertrude Carroll; Folly, Mary Queenan; Shame, Elizabeth Queenan.

March, instrumental, Miss Labelle; chorus, "Festal," senior pupils; address, Mary Hammersly; song "Move About Softly," Minims; reading of special prizes to those of senior and junior pupils; song, "The Hunters," senior pupils (boys); "World in Miniature, juniors; recitation, "A House in the Moon," Grace Fee; vacation song, junior girls.

Every number on the program was a feature, the ability displayed by the participants being surprising. The choruses were well balanced and the solos were well rendered. The recitations showed that the good sisters give considerable attention to elocution. During the course of the entertainment the pastor, Rev. Wm. D Joyce was presented a basket of beautiful flowers, the gift of the pupils in observance of his feast day which comes tomorrow.

At the close Fr. Joyce addressed the pupils wishing them a happy vacation. He also called attention to the fact that much was due to the preserverance and hard work of the sisters. He hoped to see all who were leaving the school for vacation days return in September ready for another good year's work.

The special prizes were awarded as follows:

WOLCOTT WON

Defeating Dan Creedon in Twenty Rounds

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Joe Walcott, the pugilistic freak from the Barbadoes, beat Dan Creedon at the Broadway A. C., last night before an enthusiastic howling crowd of Creedon followers.

At no time during the 20 rounds of fighting did Creedon look like a winner but on several occasions the negro had him going. Walcott could not knock him out and the old Australian stood the beating well and was game to the end.

Look out for changes in the B. & M. time table which goes into effect on Monday.

THE SUN EXTRA

DAN DONAHUE WON

Was Too Much for Humane Society.

CHARGED WITH CRUELTY TO A HORSE.

Proved by Expert Testimony His Innocence.

TOO MANY GUNS FOR PROSECUTING AGENT

And Taught Covernment Witnesses Law Points.

The continued case of Arthur Garland for larceny was dismissed without going to trial.

Edward Warren charged with drunkenness and assault pleaded not guilty and was continued until Wednesday next for trial.

Peter Labrie was adjudged guilty of drunkenness and was fined $5.

The case of Daniel J. Donahue, Esq., charged with cruelty to a horse in having the animal too highly checked on the afternoon of May 7 at Harmony Grove, was next called. State Agent of the Humane society, Lemuel B. Burrill, represented the government and Lawyers Donahue and Fay the defendant.

The first witness was Dexter A. Proctor of Tyngsboro who stated that about 3.30 o'clock on the afternoon of May 7 while leaning against a bicycle rack in Harmony Grove, Tyngsboro, his attention was called to a hay horse whose head appeared to him as being in an unnatural position. He really thought that the horse was unmercifully checked and so expressed himself to the owner. Lawyer Donahue then asked him what interest he had in the horse and he (the witness) replied that he and everybody should have an interest in the cause of humanity. "Lawyer Donahue," said the witness, "then told me to mind my own business and called me names that I didn't like."

Witness was urged by Lawyer Donahue to give the name he was called but finally being ordered by court said: "He called me a hayseed."

There was great laughter in court, the judge laughed too and Billy Bumps rapped for order.

The cross-examination by Lawyer Donahue of witness was decidedly sharp mixing the witness up and several times confusing him. The witness failed, however to identify the overdrawn check in court as one used on horse on the day in question. He testified that the Donahue horse's head was overdrawn several degrees higher than the ordinary horse. After several tilts with the state officer and exposing the latter's ignorance of law points and endeavoring to make the witness admit that he (Donahue) called witness a "red-headed hayseed." The other two witnesses for the government were called in the persons of Frederick Andrews and George W. Brown. Their testimony was simply corroborative and the government here rested its case.

Lawyer Donahue then endeavored to show by the government witnesses and by points of law which he cited that no case had been made out against him and asked for acquittal but not because he is a lawyer to show him any clemency. While bickering over the point in question and as the government prosecution was entering an interposition Lawyer Donahue said he would waive everything and proceed with the case.

Lawyer Donahue was the first witness called for the defence and the examining counsel was Peter A. Fay for the defence.

Other witnesses for the defence were Dr. McCann, Jack Wright, Con Desmond, Martin T. Mack, Charles Donahue. There were several others also. The defendant was found not guilty and was discharged.

THE SUN LATEST! 5 O'CLOCK

A SEALED VERDICT

Rendered by Jury in the Vaughn Case.

ROBERT VAUGHN.

Verdict Returned at 6 O'clock Last Evening—The Defense Was an Alibi—The Closing Scenes in the Healey Portion of the Case.

Promptly at 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning, court came in for the second day of the Vaughn case, and the first witness called was Bartholomew Scannell, Jr., of the firm of Scannell & Wholey, who testified that he locked the doors and windows of his father's office on the afternoon of March 4.

Inspector Laflamme, recalled, testified that he had known the Vaughns for 12 years and they are brothers.

He was cross-examined by Lawyer Donahue as to his visit to the hospital with the Vaughns for the purpose of ascertaining if Officer Healy could identify them. The Vaughns, he said, were handcuffed, one to Inspector Allen, and one to Inspector Donaldson. When in the room they were brought to the foot of Healey's bed.

"After we left the room," he continued, 'the elder Vaughn was handcuffed to me, and Inspector Allen went into the room. I don't know whether he closed the door. He was in with Healey two or three minutes, and then he came out. After he came out I went into Healey's room again with the taller Vaughn, and Healey looked at him. Healey said, 'Haven't I seen you before?' but Vaughn didn't answer. Healey said he thought he had seen him before. Healey did not say, 'They look more like the men than any one I've seen that I remember.' Healey said that he would like to see them again and hear them talk.'"

SUPT. G. R. DAVIS.

Supt. G. R. Davis testified: "I had a conversation with Robert in the inspector's office on the night of his arrest. He sat with his finger over the cuspidore. It was bleeding and he said the officers shot him. He said he had been in Lowell three weeks. He declined to tell where he was on the Saturday night previous. I conversed with Olin Vaughn and he said that he was home the Saturday night previous. He said he had no brother, and when Robert Vaughn was shown to him, he said Robert was a stranger to him."

On cross-examination, witness was asked how many men he had arrested for this offence and upon the district attorney's objection, it was ruled out.

Continuing in the cross-examination witness said: "When Healey and Vaughn met in the guard room on the day of the trial they were together three or four minutes before they spoke. Vaughn spoke first. The Vaughns stood up all the time in the guard room. This was three weeks after Healey had seen the men at the hospital. I saw Healey about a dozen times at the hospital, but I only spoke of the case to him once."

Mr. Donahue's question as to whether any local papers with pictures of the Vaughns in them got into Healey's room, was excluded.

Supt. Davis further said: "When Vaughn and Healey met, Robert put out his hand and said, 'I hope you will not be prejudiced against me by what you have seen or heard.' Healey replied, 'you are the man who assaulted me, and I'll testify to the truth and nothing more.'"

This closed the government's case in the case against the Vaughns for assaulting Healey.

THE DEFENCE.

Lawyer Donahue then opened the case for the defence, saying: "There will be no attempt to deny that a very serious assault was committed upon Officer Healey but we propose to show by all the evidence we can that these boys were at home on the night of and the hour of that assault.

If you were placed in a similar position to the Vaughns you would immediately go to the place where you were at the time when the alleged crime took place for the evidence to show your innocence. And now we will go to the home of the Vaughns and bring in the family of the defendants and others to show that these boys were not there."

Ten witnesses were sworn for the defence, seven of them women.

THOMAS A. GREEN.

The first witness called was Thomas A. Green, the lamplighter who was a government witness in the lower court. He testified: "I was brought down to the police station, and taken into the cells by Inspector Allen. I saw the Vaughns, and when I came out, I spoke with Allen. I was at Scannell & Wholey's about midnight on the night of the assault. About one minute to 1 o'clock I heard the shots fired. When I was on Tanner street, before the shooting I saw three men going toward Scannell & Wholey's. It was very dark and misty. There are three lights on Tanner street, one almost directly in front of Scannell & Wholey's and an electric light about 250 yards from Cambridge. You can't see this light from Scannell & Wholey's in the lower court I had a talk with Healey in which he asked me if the lights were lit or out and I replied they were out.

"I pass Scannell & Wholey's every night that there is no moonlight. It was very dark that night. There is white clay in front of Scannell & Wholey's office. Later I was coming down Harvard street when I met Healey coming down the street, a boy holding his arm. Healey was weak and sat down. I asked him what had happened and he said that he had been shot. A hack then came along and I put Healey in it. I could not tell who the men were whom I saw. I heard Officer Healey say that the smaller man was nine yards away from him. Neither of them was as tall as Robert.

Cross-examined by district Attorney Wier witness again gave the locations of the lights in the vicinity. In front of Scannell & Wholey's is an office. I saw three men before I got to the last lights near Cambridge street. When I saw the first I was a few yards away. They came in the direction of Scannell & Wholey's. I afterward went to the police station to see them. I spoke with the chief regarding the men I had seen and I examined the men at the police station. I told the chief that the shorter of the Vaughns looked like the shortest of the party which I saw on Tanner street.

On re-direct examination, Mr. Green was shown several photographs of the streets he traversed.

PRISONER'S FATHER.

Olin Vaughn, Sr. father of the prisoner was then called and he testified: "I am the father of the prisoners and I have lived in Farrell & Conaton's building since the first of last December. I remember the night of the arrest. Olin was at home. On the Saturday night previous Olin was out on the street until 11 o'clock and then came in. His health was not good. My wife, my brother and the girls were there. His bedroom door is opposite mine and we heard him going to bed shortly before 12 o'clock and he did not go out up to the time I went to sleep."

On cross examination Mr. Vaughn said: "I hire five rooms on the second floor and all are connected but one. The two boys did not sleep together. Robert slept in the other part of the house in Miss Barker's tenement. The boys were not working at the time, I have one daughter. She has worked at dressmaking. I was working at the time but not steadily.

In the early winter I had worked in Boston, Robert had been home about three weeks when the trouble occurred."

"I don't remember if I worked on the Saturday in question. I remember having had breakfast, but I don't remember where I went after breakfast. I don't remember anything that happened that day up to five o'clock. I went home a little after four, and shortly before six my brother came up. Olie came up in the house just before my brother. After supper we read the papers and then went out about 8.30, and came in at half past ten. A few minutes after I came in, Olie came in. My brother slept in Room 2. I looked at my clock when Olie went to bed because my wife said it was getting late. Olie is 19 years old and Robert 26. I knew that Olie was in bed at 12 o'clock that night.

"Robert had supper with us that night, coming in with Miss Backus and Miss Mooney. That night when we were talking, Olie asked about getting a chance to learn the bricklayers' trade.

"On Sunday morning I went to the bakeshop and heard that there had been an assault on an officer. The woman said it was in the papers."

When asked what paper it was in, witness replied that the woman in the bakeshop told him. His daughter was at home that night. She had been sleeping with a woman in Varnum's block periodically.

Redirectly examined: "Mrs. Hammond has the keys and the locking up of the building. There are no fire escapes and no means of getting out, besides the stairs. My family have no keys to any of the doors that I know of."

Cross-examined: "My daughter, that night slept in the room usually occupied by Olie. Olie slept in a cot bed in the sitting room. When I went to bed she was in with Miss Backus. I didn't know she was going to sleep there until the next morning. Sometimes she slept at home in a cot bed, other times at Miss Backus, and again over at Miss Rourke's in Centralville.

"The next morning when I woke up I learned that my daughter and Miss Mooney slept in my tenement. When I got up I looked in the sitting room and saw Olie asleep in bed, his clothes on a chair. The sitting room opens into the hallway. All the outside doors have spring locks."

By Mr. Donahue: "I saw Robert Sunday. There were no marks on him or signs of anything unusual.

Recess.

MOTHER OF PRISONERS.

Mrs. Gertie Vaughn, mother of the prisoners, testified: "I am the mother of the two defendants and live with my husband in the Farrell & Conaton block. Miss Backus is my husband's cousin. I have no key to the door. On Sunday, March 5, my husband heard of the assault in the bake shop. On the night previous Olie came in to supper and went out about 7. Soon after Robert went in with Miss Backus and Miss Mooney to Miss Backus' tenement. My daughter went to Centralville and returned late. About 11 o'clock Olie was talking with the woman who had charge of the block. About 1 o'clock Robert and Miss Mooney and my daughter came in and asked me to make up the cot bed for Olie as the girls wanted to sleep together. I woke Olie up and made the cot bed, and afterward talked to him until about 2 o'clock. I remember the time, because I was taking medicine every three hours and had to take it about 1 o'clock. When the bed was made Robert went into Miss Backus' tenement. In the morning when I got up Olie and my husband were in the kitchen.

"Olie had the grip that week and was not in good health.

Cross-examined: "I saw my husband and Olie together in the kitchen between 7 and 8 o'clock Sunday. I think my husband went out to the bakery. I won't be positive. When I got breakfast, Olie, I think, was putting on his boots."

"It isn't true then that he didn't get up until 10? asked Mr. Wier.

"I think he got up at 7 and went back to bed again.

MULE SPINNERS
Of the Massachusetts Mills Quit Work
DEMAND FOR HIGHER WAGES REFUSED.
The Action Endorsed at a Union Meeting.

The mule spinners of the Massachusetts mills to the number of twenty, went on strike yesterday afternoon. They left the mill in a body at 4.30, because refusal of Agent Southworth to grant them an increase in wages. The trouble has been brewing for some time past, as the spinners claim that they are paid about 10 per cent. less per pound, or hank, than the mule spinners of other corporations, and they claim, moreover, that a similar condition of affairs exists throughout the entire Massachusetts mills. At a meeting of the mule spinners' union, last week, the matter was discussed, and a committee was appointed to wait upon Agent Southworth and to take whatever action it might see fit. The committee waited upon the agent last Monday, and he requested that he be given until yesterday to reply. His reply came yesterday, and proved to be an emphatic refusal of the demand. The agent stated, moreover, that he would remove the mules from the mills rather than grant the request. Upon receiving the reply the spinners promptly quit work.

A special meeting of the union was held last evening at which the committee submitted its report. The action of the strikers was endorsed and it was arranged to have another special meeting next Monday evening to devise ways and means for the support of the strikers during the time they remain out. It is claimed that the grievance is an old one, and that the Massachusetts has paid lower wages than any of the other corporations for a number of years.

As the mill is running nights at the present time the strike comes at an inopportune time for the mill men, but the absence of the spinners will not be felt as keenly there as it would on some of the other corporations, owing to the number of looms on ring spun yarn. However, there are certain grades of cloth manufactured by this corporation upon which yarn on the cops is absolutely necessary. These grades of cloth, it is claimed, command higher prices on the market than the cloth manufactured from ring spun yarn.

The mules in the Massachusetts mills on which the striking spinners worked are being taken out as a result of the strike. The work of removing the machinery will it is begun at once.

FRANK NULTY, Who Killed His Sweetheart.

This nineteen-year-old boy, who, after having shot seventeen-year-old Mamie Remley, tried to kill himself, is on trial for his life today in the criminal branch of the supreme court in New York.

Back to the only man I love,
Back to the one I think most of;
Happy I'll be when I can see
My dear little, sweet loved one.

Even the stars all seem to say,
There'll come a day, not far away,
So be of light heart, although far apart
I will take you back some day.
Mamie Remley.

On the district attorney's table, in the criminal branch of the supreme court today, rests among other documents this poem. It is bloodstained, for it was found clutched in the left hand of the boy murderer when the police found him lying unconscious across the body of his victim.

MAMIE REMLEY, Who Was Killed by Her Lover.

She had a quarrel with Frank Nulty and returned his engagement ring. He called at her home with a valentine, which she had written him, in his hand and meeting her in the hallway, he shot and killed her. He then shot himself but did not inflict a mortal wound.

A SEALED VERDICT.

MISS NELLIE MOONEY.

Miss Nellie Mooney, a Worcester dressmaker, testified:

I am a dressmaker for Ellen Wood, 10 Winslow street, Worcester. I was in Lowell from January until March 6, when I had to return to Worcester.

"On Saturday night, I think it was half past one when I returned. I slept with Miss Vaughn that night. I never slept with her before or since. Mr. Robert Vaughn and Miss Barkis were with me. We talked all evening and a long time after I heard the clock strike one and I said: 'Oh, it must be half past 12 o'clock.'"

Cross examined: "I think I saw Mrs. Vaughn a year ago. I came to Lowell on Jauary 7 and went away on March 7. I worked as a waitress on East Merrimack street for two week. I was in Miss Barkis' room all evening and I ate supper at Mrs. Vaughn's. I never met either of the boys before. Miss Vaughn asked us to supper.

Miss Vaughn came in late and wanted me to stay with her that night. I used to sleep with Miss Barkis. Robert was up at one o'clock. I didn't know where Robert slept that night unless he slept in number 2 which he always did.

MISS LIZZIE MERRIAM

Miss Lizzie Merriam, a young girl testified: I was with Olie Vaughn on that Saturday night until 10 minutes of eight, having met him after seven o'clock at the corner of Dutton and Merrimack streets. We were listening to a band at Music Hall.

MISS MINNIE HOGAN.

Miss Minnie Hogan testified: "I was with Olie Vaughn at the corner of Merrimack street and Central streets on that Saturday night. He left me at a quarter past 10 o'clock.

Cross-examined: "Olie took out his watch and told me the time. I retired at 11 o'clock.

MISS LIZZIE BARKIS.

Miss Lizzie Barkis, a lodging house keeper in the Farrell & Conaton building testified: "I let rooms in the Farrell & Conaton block. I am a cousin of the elder Mr. Vaughn. I have a little brother who requires my care and he sleeps with me. I have 15 rooms in the block and keep three for myself, letting all the rest. On Saturday night, March 4, Miss Mooney and Robert Vaughn were at my house. They returned late. I fixed the time because Miss Mooney called attention to the clock striking half past 12."

Cross-examined: "Sometimes Miss Mooney slept with my little brother and I and sometimes in a cot bed.

Robert had been staying at my house then for five weeks and I never told the officers that he did not stay at my house until the Monday preceding the arrest. I talked with the chief after they had taken the boys. I believe the chief asked me a question but I refused to answer any other questions because the other officers insulted me."

On re-direct examination: The officers insulted me by insinuating that we were having improper relations."

WILLIAM VAUGHN.

William Vaughn, a Boston bricklayer, uncle of the boys, said: "I went to my brother's house in Lowell, on March 4, Saturday and stayed there until Sunday afternoon. I fixed the date because I had been sick for about nine months. I saw Olie at supper. I went to bed about one o'clock that night and slept with Robert. I got up at 7 and left Robert in bed. I did not wake up during the night."

ALICE E. HAMMOND.

Alice E. Hammond, who takes care of the rooms in the Farrell & Conaton block, testified: "I met Olin Vaughn in the hall about 10 o'clock on the night of March 4."

OLIN VAUGHN.

Olin Vaughn, the younger defendant, took the stand with the same coolness that has characterized him since the beginning and said:

"I have been in jail about four months. After supper on the night of March 4, I left the house about seven o'clock and stood with Miss Merriam listening to the band. About eight o'clock I went down to Merrimack and Central streets and met Miss Hogan, and walked up Merrimack to Cabot, and then back. I walked home with her to Hudson street and I returned to my home about 11 o'clock. I met Mrs. Hammond and after speaking with her went to bed. I went into my regular chamber and went to sleep. I was awakened by my mother who asked me to give my bed to my sister and Miss Mooney, and I got up and went into the cot bed. I got up at 7 o'clock Sunday morning and stayed in the house all morning. The first I heard of the assault was when my father returned from the bakeshop. On Sunday evening I went to church on Church street. On the night we were arrested, I didn't hear any shooting. Mr. Allen and Mr. Donaldson woke me up and searched my room. My clothing was not searched. About an hour after they went away they returned and arrested me."

Cross-examined: "The chief did not ask me where I was on Saturday night. After the officers had left my room, Miss Backus told me that Robert had stepped out on the roof and we all went to bed. I did not know that Robert had any revolvers. Miss Backus said he would come back as soon as the officers went. I supposed he was staying on the roof. I didn't care where he was. I did not suppose the officers were going to arrest him. I suppose he got on the roof to avoid them."

Vaughn then admitted having been in court for assault and battery, trespass and obstructing the streets when the records were put in.

Noon recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

In rebuttal, District Attorney Wier put on Supt. Davis, who testified: "On the night of the arrests, I spoke with Olin asking him where he was on the 4th and 5th of March and Olin said he would tell when he got in court. I also talked with Miss Backus the night of the arrest. I asked her how long Robert Vaughn had occupied that room in her tenement and she answered that he had been there only since the Monday before. She said she did not know where Robert was on the night of March 4." Inspector Donaldson corroborated his testimony.

FOR THE DEFENCE.

Lawyer Donahue then began his argument introducing it with remarks upon the seriousness of the crime and the duty of jurors in the matter. Continuing he said in part: "If one of you men were accused of a crime on a certain night, what would you do? You would go to your home for those who saw you that night to assist you in proving your innocence. In my cross examination of the officers, I was severe through my zeal to do my duty and not that I did not sympathize with the officer. Now, men differ in abilities, and while some can recognize faces readily, others cannot and there are many cases on record in which defendants have been decided guilty when time has shown them to be innocent.

"On the night in question, Officer Healey went to Scannell & Wholey's office and it was very dark. The officer said that he never said anything about the lights but Witness Greene tells the truth and Officer Healey is in doubt. If Officer Laflamme couldn't tell whether a man had a revolver in his hand 75 yards away, is it fair to argue that Officer Healey, four hundred yards away, in the darkest place in Lowell could identify anyone?

"The prosecution will argue that the little Vaughn lad had Healey's money because he had a $10 bill. Any man might be accused of the crime upon that basis. Take Greene's statement as to identity. He said that neither one of the three men was as tall as the elder Vaughn. The government has not put in any evidence in rebuttal to Greene's testimony. Officer Healey testified, you will remember, that the boys were brought in to him handcuffed together, but the other officers testified differently and there you find a discrepancy that cannot be brushed away, especially when taken in with his statement that he could identify them when only seeing them in the dark. Dr. Bell has told you that his mind was clear. Why did Inspector Allen go in with Healey alone, and why afterward were the men brought in doubt. It was because Healey was in doubt. Where is Allen in this case? Though he was the most important factor in the case, he is carefully kept away from the witness stand. Let us go a step farther in the line of identification. On the day of court, you will remember that Dr. Bell testified that Healey said: "I think they're the men."

"Officer Brosnan would have you believe that a bullet fired at him described a semi-circle around his body and then disappeared, never to be found.

"But to look at the defence, the fact that Robert Vaughn did not take the stand must not prejudice you against him. It is a right he has, the court will so instruct you. You have traced young Olie on that night. We find him returning home about eleven o'clock going into his room.

"All through the case the government's identity has been weak, while on the other hand, the defendants have proved an alibi."

FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Donahue took up an hour and was followed by District Attorney Wier for the government, who said in part:

"Gentlemen: Officer Healey, when he pulled out his revolver to fire at a coward, a thief, and a robber, and it wouldn't go off, thought he was alone. But he wasn't alone, for the whole government was behind him. Every law-abiding citizen was there to protect him and see that this crime was avenged. I am earnest in this, because there hasn't been a more dastardly crime in the history of this country than that in which he was cowardly shot in the back and robbed. The principal witness of this case is one of the bravest men in this commonwealth. We have heroes in peace as in war. Officer Brosnan is a hero and Officer Healey is a hero. Such men are here to tell you the truth and not get convictions on perjured testimony. Officer Healey's action when his revolver refused to work was one of the most evident bravery. He grappled with his assailants, moving around and around, keeping his eye all the time on the man who was trying to shoot him in the back. When he gave up, he stood and talked with these men. He thus had the opportunity to see them and know who they were. He didn't lose consciousness at all. In some places, there would be a lynching. But we don't do that. We wait until we bring the evidence before a jury. No one but Mr. Healey knows who the two men are who assaulted him. Officer Healey says that he knows that the two men on trial are the men who assaulted him. Officer Healey shows his honesty when he says that he did not want to take an unfair advantage of them and conclusively identify them when they were brought before him at St. John's hospital. Then this identification of a man in peril such an identification lasts to the day of death. Officer Healey saw those ruffians and will remember their faces as long as he lives. He saw them because he said he did, whether it was dark there or not.

"But it was not dark there, for it was a misty night and you know that the mist diffuses light while it goes straight up on a clear night and the very fact that it was misty and the place was the center of a circle of electric lights makes it positive that the place was not dark. Officer Healey is telling the truth when he says that he saw those men. There is no question about the identification. But for further evidence, take the night of the arrest. The man who had the revolvers shot; the man who had no revolvers didn't resist at all. That is the way of cowards and robbers when they go up against the law. When the officers went to Vaughn's room, what did he do? What would an honest man do? What was Vaughn afraid of? It wasn't because of criminal relations with the woman, because there were none. It was because he was a thief, because he had committed some crime. This man didn't dare to leave the city and up to this time Miss Barkis tells the officers, he had not been to her room? What was he there for then? Because if he remained in his father's house he had no means of escape. The Vaughn's tenement was so close to the next building that a person could not get down between them. But if he took a room in the other tenement he had a chance to escape by the window onto the roof of the shed.

"The man whom the officers arrested on this night had two revolvers of 38 calibre. The man who shot Healy had two 38-calibre revolvers.

"That man is one of the most desperate men in this commonwealth and he must have committed some grave crime to make him so desperate. His actions are his confession. He was one of the assailants of Officer Healey.

"What about Olin?

"And remember here, gentlemen, these are not two barroom bums who go about robbing under the impulse of the moment, but are two educated criminals.

"Little Olie tried to play 'the good little boy' as he had not the fear of identification that the brother had and when confronted by the officers, he said: 'I have no brothers.'

"Their father and mother are here. Put yourself in their places and you would be tempted to come in and do as they have done. Miss Barkis protected the men with two revolvers and was harboring a criminal and did her best to allow this man to escape armed with two revolvers on his course of destruction. You don't know her relation with one of these men that might tempt her to come in here and try, as the parents did, to protect him.

"You can almost believe every word that they said and you can still believe the story of the government. They only live a mile from the scene of the shooting and two young men like them can get there in five minutes.

"But where is Miss Vaughn, the sister? Why isn't she put on the stand? Were they afraid she'd tell the truth?

"Robert and Olin are both found about this time with a $10 bill each upon his person and Officer Healey lost four $10 bills. Isn't that consistent with guilt? Two men who have not worked for some time go sporting $10 bills the week after the robbery.

"Robert Vaughn shot Healey in the leg and Olin shot him in the back. Are you going to take the responsibility of letting those men go free? Be brave in rendering your verdict."

JURY CHARGED.

Judge Bond though it was past adjournment time, charged the jury briefly at the conclusion of District Attorney Wier's remarks. The charge was brief and explanatory of the law bearing on the particular charges of robbery and being armed and intent to kill. "When a person," he said, "takes a deadly weapon and shoots at another in such away that he might kill him, you have the right to say that he intended to kill. It is necessary for the government to show that the men were there before you return a verdict of guilty. You may consider the conduct of a person after the act has been committed."

The court explained finally the nature of an alibi and stated that in many cases every portion of the alibi may be true, except the date and without the date being true, the alibi has no weight.

The jury retired at 4.30.

A SEALED VERDICT.

After the jury had retired Judge Bond transacted some minor business and waited until shortly after five o'clock. The prisoners were kept in the cage in the court room, and the spectators remained, many expecting that a verdict would be returned in short order. The possibilities from the jury room were discussed on all sides, and it was agreed that the case had been most carefully put in, and the counsel for the defence were congratulated on the fine manner in which they conducted their case. Robert Vaughn was highly pleased at the effort of his counsel, and said so.

At five o'clock court adjourned, and the prisoners were taken back to the house of correction across the way, handcuffed together, and surrounded by a crowd of curious sightseers.

Shortly after six o'clock, the jury having been out one hour and a half, returned a sealed verdict, which will be opened on Monday morning at the opening of court.

It is not improbable that the disclosure of the verdict will be followed by surprising developments.

The other counts against them for alleged assault against Robert on Inspector Lallamme and Lieut. Brosnan and three counts, jointly, of breaking and entering, are scheduled for next week.

A COFFEE LIVER

Peculiar Effects of the Beverage.

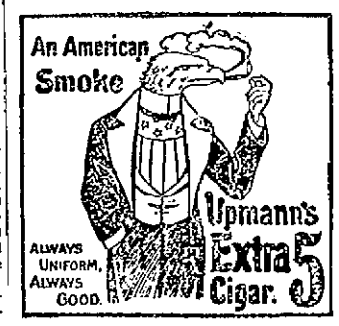

Unfortunately I was the unwilling possessor of a hopelessly torpid liver, which kept growing more and more hopeless as the years went by. It finally became impossible for me to obtain sleep at night unless absolute stillness reigned.

Living in the city I was disturbed many times at night so that finally I was sent to the country, and there the least bark of a dog or the sound of a cow bell broke up my light repose and put me into a desperately nervous condition. Matters grew rapidly worse, and finally culminated in a severe illness. When I was convalescent the doctor positively forbade my using coffee, and recommended Postum Cereal Food Coffee.

This was a terrible blow as I was a coffee fiend but I was weak enough, to be sensible, and so I determined to try Postum, although I went at it very unwillingly. I determined to know that it was made right, so I read the directions carefully and made the first cup myself. I was amazed at the rich, brown liquid that steamed forth from the coffee pot that day at luncheon and still more amazed, when upon tasting it, I found I had a most delightful beverage with a delicious coffee flavor.

It is needless to say that Postum appeared upon my table from that time on. As the days went by, I gradually noticed a change for the better, in point of health. It took some time to recover from the rack of the nervous system caused by coffee, but I became more and more conscious that I was sleeping soundly and improving steadily. Naturally my irritability disappeared. I find myself now with twice, yes, ten times, the ability for enjoyment that I previously had.

One of my friends, upon learning that I had been healed by leaving off Coffee and using Postum, exclaimed and wondered how I could drink 'that stuff." I replied that we were very fond of it indeed, actually preferring it to any brand of coffee, whereupon she remarked that coffee was such a beautiful clear liquid and had such a delicious taste, while Postum was muddy and flat. I saw at once that my friend had failed to have her Postum boiled properly and determined to give her some good Postum. She is very easily prejudiced, so, shortly after when she came to visit me at the lake, I asked her to try some new coffee and for two weeks I served Postum to her, she believing all this time that she was drinking a very high priced and expensive brand of coffee. When at the end of her visit I told her that she had been having Postum Food Coffee two and sometimes three times a day all of the period of her visit, she took the joke in good nart and said: "If that is true, I am already a member of the Postum army and I will never resign." 5 O'CLOCK

Rendered by Jury in the Vaughn Case.

ROBERT VAUGHN.

Verdict Returned at 6 O'clock Last Evening—The Defense Was an Alibi—The Closing Scenes in the Healey Portion of the Case.

Promptly at 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning, court came in for the second day of the Vaughn case, and the first witness called was Bartholomew Scannell, Jr., of the firm of Scannell & Wholey, who testified that he locked the doors and windows of his father's office on the afternoon of March 4.

Inspector Laflamme, recalled, testified that he had known the Vaughns for 12 years and they are brothers.

He was cross-examined by Lawyer Donahue as to his visit to the hospital with the Vaughns for the purpose of ascertaining if Officer Healy could identify them. The Vaughns, he said, were handcuffed, one to Inspector Allen, and one to Inspector Donaldson. When in the room they were brought to the foot of Healey's bed.

"After we left the room," he continued, "the elder Vaughn was handcuffed to me, and Inspector Allen went into the room. I don't know whether he closed the door. He was in with Healey two or three minutes, and then he came out. After he came out I went into Healey's room again with the taller Vaughn, and Healey looked at him. Healey said, 'Haven't I seen you before?' but Vaughn didn't answer. Healey said he thought he had seen him before. Healey did not say, 'They look more like the men than any one I've seen that I remember.' Healey said that he would like to see them again and hear them talk.'"

SUPT. G. R. DAVIS.

Supt. G. R. Davis testified: "I had a conversation with Robert in the inspector's office on the night of his arrest. He sat with his finger over the cuspidore. It was bleeding and he said the officers shot him. He said he had been in Lowell three weeks. He declined to tell where he was on the Saturday night previous. I conversed with Olin Vaughn and he said that he was home the Saturday night previous. He said he had no brother, and when Robert Vaughn was shown to him, he said Robert was a stranger to him."

On cross-examination, witness was asked how many men he had arrested for this offence and upon the district attorney's objection, it was ruled out.

Continuing in the cross-examination, witness said: "When Healey and Vaughn met in the guard room on the day of the trial they were together three or four minutes before they spoke. Vaughn spoke first. The Vaughns stood up all the time in the guard room. This was three weeks after Healey had seen the men at the hospital. I saw Healey about a dozen times at the hospital, but I only spoke of the case to him once."

Mr. Donahue's question as to whether any local papers with pictures of the Vaughns in them got into Healey's room, was excluded.

Supt. Davis further said: "When Vaughn and Healey met, Robert put out his hand and said, 'I hope you will not be prejudiced against me by what you have seen or heard.' Healey replied, 'you are the men who assaulted me, and I'll testify to the truth and nothing more.'"

This closed the government's case in the case against the Vaughns for assaulting Healey.

THE DEFENCE.

Lawyer Donahue then opened the case for the defence, saying: "There will be no attempt to deny that a very serious assault was committed upon Officer Healey but we propose to show by all the evidence we can that these boys were at home on the night of and the hour of that assault.

If you were placed in a similar position to the Vaughns you would immediately go to the place where you were at the time when the alleged crime took place for the evidence to show your innocence. And now we will go to the home of the Vaughns and bring in the family of the defendants and others to show that these boys were not there."

Ten witnesses were sworn for the defence, seven of them women.

THOMAS A. GREEN.

The first witness called was Thomas A. Green, the lamplighter who was a government witness in the lower court. He testified: "I was brought down to the police station, and taken into the cells by Inspector Allen. I saw the Vaughns, and when I came out, I spoke with Allen. I was at Scannell & Wholey's about ten minutes on the night of the assault. About one minute to 1 o'clock I heard the shots fired. When I was on Tanner street, before the shooting I saw three men going toward Scannell & Wholey's. It was very dark and misty. There are three lights on Tanner street, one almost directly in front of Scannell & Wholey's and an electric light about 250 yards from Cambridge. You can't see this light from Scannell & Wholey's. In the lower court I had a talk with Healey in which he asked me if the lights were lit or out and I replied they were out.

"I pass Scannell & Wholey's every night that there is no moonlight. It was very dark that night. There is white clay in front of Scannell & Wholey's office. Later I was coming down Harvard street when I met Healey coming down the street, a boy holding his arm. Healey was weak and sat down. I asked him what had happened and he said that he had been shot. A hack then came along and I put Healey in it. I could not tell who the men were whom I saw. I heard Officer Healey say that the smaller man was nine yards away from him. Neither of them was as tall as Robert.

Cross-examined by district Attorney Wier witness again gave the locations of the lights in the vicinity. In front of Scannell & Wholey's is an office. I saw three men before I got to the last lights near Cambridge street. When I saw the first I was a few yards away. They came in the direction of Scannell & Wholey's. I afterward went to the police station to see them. I spoke with the chief regarding the men I had seen and I examined the men at the police station. I told the chief that the shorter of the Vaughns looked like the smartest of the party which I saw on Tanner street.

On re-direct examination, Mr. Green was shown several photographs of the streets he traversed.

PRISONER'S FATHER.

Olin Vaughn, Sr. father of the prisoner was then called and he testified: "I am the father of the prisoners and I have lived in Farrell & Conaton's building since the first of last December. I remember the night of the arrest. Olin was at home. On the Saturday night previous Olin was out on the street until 11 o'clock and then came in. His health was not good. My wife, my brother and the girls were there. His bedroom door is opposite mine and we heard him going to bed shortly before 12 o'clock and he did not go out up to the time I went to sleep."

On cross examination Mr. Vaughn said: "I hire five rooms on the second floor and all are connected but one. The two boys did not sleep together. Robert slept in the other part of the house in Miss Barker's tenement. The boys were not working at the time, I have one daughter. She has worked at dressmaking. I was working at the time but not steadily.

In the early winter I had worked in Boston, Robert had been home about three weeks when the trouble occurred."

"I don't remember if I worked on the Saturday in question. I remember having had breakfast, but I don't remember where I went after breakfast. I don't remember anything that happened that day up to five o'clock. I went home a little after four, and shortly before six my brother came up. Olie came up in the house just before my brother. After supper we read the papers and then went out about 8.30, and came in at half past ten. A few minutes after I came in, Olie came in. My brother slept in Room 2. I looked at my clock when Olie went to bed because my wife said it was getting late. Olie is 19 years old and Robert 26. I knew that Olie was in bed at 12 o'clock that night.

"Robert had supper with us that night, coming in with Miss Backus and Miss Mooney. That night when we were talking, Olie asked about getting a chance to learn the bricklayers' trade.

"On Sunday morning I went to the bakeshop and heard that there had been an assault on an officer. The woman said it was in the papers."

When asked what paper it was in, witness replied that the woman in the bakeshop told him. His daughter was at home that night. She had been sleeping with a woman in Varnum's block periodically.

Redirectly examined: "Mrs. Hammond has the keys and the locking up of the building. There are no fire escapes and no means of getting out besides the stairs. My family have no keys to any of the doors that I know of."

Cross-examined: "My daughter, that night slept in the room usually occupied by Olie. Olie slept in a cot bed in the sitting room. When I went to bed she was in with Miss Backus. I didn't know she was going to sleep there until the next morning. Sometimes she slept at home in a cot bed, other times at Miss Backus, and again over at Miss Rourke's in Centralville.

"The next morning when I woke up I learned that my daughter and Miss Mooney slept in my tenement. When I got up I looked in the sitting room and saw Olie asleep in bed, his clothes on a chair. The sitting room opens into the hallway. All the outside doors have spring locks."

By Mr. Donahue: "I saw Robert Sunday. There were no marks on him or signs of anything unusual.

Recess.

MOTHER OF PRISONERS.

Mrs. Gertie Vaughn, mother of the prisoners, testified: "I am the mother of the two defendants and live with my husband in the Farrell & Conaton block. Miss Backus is my husband's cousin. I have no key to the door. On Sunday, March 5, my husband heard of the assault in the bake shop. On the night previous Olie came in to supper and went out about 7. Soon after Robert went in with Miss Backus and Miss Mooney to Miss Backus' tenement. My daughter went to Centralville and returned late. About 11 o'clock Olie was talking with the woman who had charge of the block. About 1 o'clock Robert and Miss Mooney and my daughter came in and asked me to make up the cot bed for Olie as the girls wanted to sleep together. I woke Olie up and made the cot bed, and afterward talked to him until about 2 o'clock. I remember the time, because I was taking medicine every three hours and had to take it about 1 o'clock. When the bed was made Robert went into Miss Backus' tenement. In the morning when I got up Olie and my husband were in the kitchen.

"Olie had the grip that week and was not in good health.

Cross-examined: "I saw my husband and Olie together in the kitchen between 7 and 8 o'clock Sunday. I think my husband went out to the bakery. I won't be positive. When I got breakfast, Olie, I think, was putting on his boots."

"It isn't true then that he didn't get up until 10? asked Mr. Wier.

"I think he got up at 7 and went back to bed again.

MULE SPINNERS
Of the Massachusetts Mills Quit Work
DEMAND FOR HIGHER WAGES REFUSED.
The Action Endorsed at a Union Meeting.

The mule spinners of the Massachusetts mills to the number of twenty, went on strike yesterday afternoon. They left the mill in a body at 4.30, because refusal of Agent Southworth to grant them an increase in wages. The trouble has been brewing for some time past, as the spinners claim that they are paid about 10 per cent. less per pound, or hank, than the mule spinners of other corporations, and they claim, moreover, that a similar condition of affairs exists throughout the entire Massachusetts mills. At a meeting of the mule spinners' union, last week, the matter was discussed, and a committee was appointed to wait upon Agent Southworth and to take whatever action it might see fit. The committee waited upon the agent last Monday, and he requested that he be given until yesterday to reply. His reply came yesterday, and proved to be an emphatic refusal of the demand. The agent stated, moreover, that he would remove the mules from the mills rather than grant the request. Upon receiving the reply the spinners promptly quit work.

A special meeting of the union was held last evening at which the committee submitted its report. The action of the strikers was endorsed and it was arranged to have another special meeting next Monday evening to devise ways and means for the support of the strikers during the time they remain out. It is claimed that the grievance is an old one, and that the Massachusetts has paid lower wages than any of the other corporations for a number of years.

As the mill is running nights at the present time the strike comes at an inopportune time for the mill men, but the absence of the spinners will not be felt as keenly there as it would on some of the other corporations, owing to the number of looms on ring spun yarn. However, there are certain grades of cloth manufactured by this corporation upon which yarn on the cops is absolutely necessary. These grades of cloth, it is claimed, command higher prices on the market than the cloth manufactured from ring spun yarn.

The mules in the Massachusetts mills on which the striking spinners worked are being taken out as a result of the strike. The work of removing the machinery will be begun at once.

FRANK NULTY, Who Killed His Sweetheart.

This nineteen-year-old boy, who, after having shot seventeen-year-old Mamie Remley, tried to kill himself, is on trial for his life today in the criminal branch of the supreme court in New York.

Back to the only man I love,
Back to the one I think most of;
Happy I'll be when I can see
My dear little, sweet loved one.

Even the stars all seem to say,
There'll come a day, not far away,
So be of light heart, although far apart
I will take you back some day.
Mamie Remley.

On the district attorney's table, in the criminal branch of the supreme court today, rests among other documents this poem. It is bloodstained, for it was found clutched in the left hand of the boy murderer when the police found him lying unconscious across the body of his victim.

MAMIE REMLEY, Who Was Killed by Her Lover.

She had a quarrel with Frank Nulty and returned his engagement ring. He called at her home with a valentine, which she had written him, in his hand and meeting her in the hallway, he shot and killed her. He then shot himself but did not inflict a mortal wound.

A SEALED VERDICT.

MISS NELLIE MOONEY.

Miss Nellie Mooney, a Worcester dressmaker, testified:

I am a dressmaker for Ellen Wood, 10 Winslow street, Worcester. I was in Lowell from January until March 6, when I had to return to Worcester.

"On Saturday night, I think it was half past one when I returned. I slept with Miss Vaughn that night. I never slept with her before or since. Mr. Robert Vaughn and Miss Barkis were with me. We talked all evening and a long time after I heard the clock strike one and I said: 'Oh, it must be half past 12 o'clock.'"

Cross examined: "I think I saw Mrs. Vaughn a year ago. I came to Lowell on January 7 and went away on March 7. I worked as a waitress on East Merrimack street for two week. I was in Miss Barkis' room all evening and I ate supper at Mrs. Vaughn's. I never met either of the boys before. Miss Vaughn asked us to supper..

Miss Vaughn came in late and wanted me to stay with her that night. I used to sleep with Miss Barkis. Robert was up at one o'clock. I didn't know where Robert slept that night unless he slept in number 2 which he always did.

MISS LIZZIE MERRIAM

Miss Lizzie Merriam, a young girl testified: I was with Olie Vaughn on that Saturday night until 10 minutes of eight, having met him after seven o'clock at the corner of Dutton and Merrimack streets. We were listening to a band at Music Hall.

MISS MINNIE HOGAN.

Miss Minnie Hogan testified: "I was with Olie Vaughn at the corner of Merrimack street and Central streets on that Saturday night. He left me at a quarter past 10 o'clock.

Cross-examined: "Olie took out his watch and told me the time. I retired at 11 o'clock.

MISS LIZZIE BARKIS.

Miss Lizzie Barkis, lodging house keeper in the Farrell & Conaton building testified: "I let rooms in the Farrell & Conaton block. I am a cousin of the elder Mr. Vaughn. I have a little brother who requires my care and he sleeps with me. I have 15 rooms in the block and keep three for myself, letting all the rest. On Saturday night, March 4, Miss Mooney and Robert Vaughn were at my house. They returned late. I fixed the time because Miss Mooney called attention to the clock striking half past 12."

Cross-examined: "Sometimes Miss Mooney slept with my little brother and I and sometimes in a cot bed.

Robert had been staying at my house than for five weeks and I never told the officers that he did not stay at my house until the Monday preceding the arrest. I talked with the chief after they had taken the boys. I believe the chief asked me a question but I refused to answer any other questions because the other officers insulted me."

On re-direct examination: The officers insulted me by insinuating that we were having improper relations."

WILLIAM VAUGHN.

William Vaughn, a Boston bricklayer, uncle of the boys, said: "I went to my brother's house in Lowell, on March 4, Saturday and stayed there until Sunday afternoon. I fixed the date because I had been sick for about nine months. I saw Olie at supper. I went to bed about one o'clock that night and slept with Robert. I got up at 7 and left Robert in bed. I did not wake up during the night."

ALICE E. HAMMOND.

Alice E. Hammond, who takes care of the rooms in the Farrell & Conaton block, testified: "I met Olin Vaughn in the hall about 10 o'clock on the night of March 4."

OLIN VAUGHN.

Olin Vaughn, the younger defendant, took the stand with the same coolness that has characterized him since the beginning and said:

"I have been in jail about four months. After supper on the night of March 4, I left the house about seven o'clock and stood with Miss Merriam listening to the band. About eight o'clock I went down to Merrimack and Central streets and met Miss Hogan, and walked up Merrimack to Cabot, and then back. I walked home with her to Hudson street and I returned to my home about 11 o'clock. I met Mrs. Hammond and after speaking with her went to bed. I went into my regular chamber and went to sleep. I was awakened by my mother who asked me to give my bed to my sister and Miss Mooney, and I got up and went into the cot bed. I got up at 7 o'clock Sunday morning and stayed in the house all morning. The first I heard of the assault was when my father returned from the bakeshop. On Sunday evening I went to church on Church street. On the night we were arrested, I didn't hear any shooting. Mr. Allen and Mr. Donaldson woke me up and searched my room. My clothing was not searched. About an hour after they went away they returned and arrested me."

Cross-examined: "The chief did not ask me where I was on Saturday night. After the officers had left my room, Miss Backus told me that Robert had stepped out on the roof and we all went to bed. I did not know that Robert had any revolvers. Miss Backus said he would come back as soon as the officers went. I supposed he was staying on the roof. I didn't care where he was. I did not suppose the officers were going to arrest him. I suppose he got on the roof to avoid them."

Vaughn then admitted having been in court for assault and battery, trespass and obstructing the streets when the records were put in.

Noon recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

In rebuttal, District Attorney Wier put on Supt. Davis, who testified: "On the night of the arrests, I spoke with Olin asking him where he was on the 4th and 5th of March and Olin said he would tell when he got in court. I also talked with Miss Backus the night of the arrest. I asked her how long Robert Vaughn had occupied that room in her tenement and she answered that he had been there only since the Monday before. She said she did not know where Robert was on the night of March 4." Inspector Donaldson corroborated his testimony.

FOR THE DEFENCE.

Lawyer Donahue then began his argument introducing it with remarks upon the seriousness of the crime and the duty of jurors in the matter. Continuing he said in part: 'If one of you men were accused of a crime on a certain night, what would you do? You would go to your home for those who saw you that night to assist you in proving your innocence. In my cross examination of the officers, I was severe through my zeal to do my duty and not that I did not sympathize with the officer. Now, men differ in abilities, and while some can recognize faces readily, others cannot and there are many cases on record in which defendants have been decided guilty when time has shown them to be innocent.

"On the night in question, Officer Healey went to Scannell & Wholey's office and it was very dark. The officer said that he never said anything about the lights but Witness Greene tells the truth and Officer Healey is in doubt. If Officer Laflamme couldn't tell whether a man had a revolver in his hand 75 yards away, is it fair to argue that Officer Healey, four hundred yards away, in the darkest place in Lowell could identify anyone?

"The prosecution will argue that the little Vaughn lad had Healey's money because he had a $10 bill. Any man might be accused of the crime upon that basis. Take Greene's statement as to identity. He said that neither one of the three men was as tall as the elder Vaughn. The government has not put in any evidence in rebuttal to Greene's testimony. Officer Healey testified, you will remember, that the boys were brought in to him handcuffed together, but the other officers testified differently and there you find a discrepancy that cannot be brushed away, especially when taken in with his statement that he could identify them when only seeing them in the dark. Dr. Bell has told you that his mind was clear. Why did Inspector Allen go in with Healey alone, and why afterward were the men brought in alone? It was because Healey was in doubt. Where is Allen in this case? Though he was the most important factor in the case, he is carefully kept away from the witness stand. Let us go a step farther in the line of identification. On the day of court, you will remember that Dr. Bell testified that Healey said: "I think they're the men."

"Officer Brosnan would have you believe that a bullet fired at him described a semi-circle around his body and then disappeared, never to be found.

"But to look at the defence, the fact that Robert Vaughn did not take the stand must not prejudice you against him. It is a right he has, the court will so instruct you. You have traced young Olie on that night. We find him returning home about eleven o'clock going into his room.

"All through the case the government's identity has been weak, while on the other hand, the defendants have proved an alibi."

FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Donahue took up an hour and was followed by District Attorney Wier for the government, who said in part:

"Gentlemen: Officer Healey, when he pulled out his revolver to fire at a coward, a thief, and a robber, and it wouldn't go off, thought he was alone. But he wasn't alone, for the whole government was behind him. Every law-abiding citizen was there to protect him and see that this crime was avenged. I am earnest in this, because there hasn't been a more dastardly crime in the history of this country than that in which he was cowardly shot in the back and robbed. The principal witness of this case is one of the bravest men in this commonwealth. We have heroes in peace as in war. Officer Brosnan is a hero and Officer Healey is a hero. Such men are here to tell you the truth and not get convictions on perjured testimony. Officer Healey's action when his revolver refused to work was one of the most evident bravery. He grappled with his assailants, moving around and around, keeping his eye all the time on the man who was trying to shoot him in the back. When he gave up, he stood and talked with these men. He thus had the opportunity to see them and know who they were. He didn't lose consciousness at all. In some places, there would be a lynching. But we don't do that. We wait until we bring the evidence before a jury. No one but Mr. Healey knows who the two men are who assaulted him. Officer Healey says that he knows that the two men on trial are the men who assaulted him. Officer Healey shows his honesty when he says that he did not want to take an unfair advantage of them and conclusively identify them when they were brought before him at St. John's hospital. Then this identification of a man in peril—such an identification lasts to the day of death. Officer Healey saw those ruffians and will remember their faces as long as he lives. He saw them because he said he did, whether it was dark there or not.

"But it was not dark there, for it was a misty night and you know that the mist diffuses light while it goes straight up on a clear night and the very fact that it was misty and the place was the center of a circle of electric lights makes it positive that the place was not dark. Officer Healey is telling the truth when he says that he saw those men. There is no question about the identification. But for further evidence, take the night of the arrest. The man who had the revolvers shot; the man who had no revolvers didn't resist at all. That is the way of cowards and robbers when they go up against the law. When the officers went to Vaughn's room, what did he do? What would an honest man do? What was Vaughn afraid of? It wasn't because of criminal relations with the woman, because there were none. It was because he was a thief, because he had committed some crime. This man didn't dare to leave the city and up to this time Miss Barkis tells the officers, he had not been to her room? What was he there for then? Because if he remained in his father's house he had no means of escape. The Vaughn's tenement was so close to the next building that a person could not get down between them. But if he took a room in the other tenement he had a chance to escape by the window onto the roof of the shed.

"The man whom the officers arrested on this night had two revolvers of 38 calibre. The man who shot Healhad two 38-calibre revolvers.

"That man is one of the most desperate men in this commonwealth and he must have committed some grave crime to make him so desperate. His actions are his confession. He was one of the assailants of Officer Healey.

"What about Olin?

"And remember here, gentlemen, these are not two barroom bums who go about robbing under the impulse of the moment, but are two educated criminals.

"Little Olie tried to play the good little boy as he had not the fear of identification that the brother had and when confronted by the officers, he said: 'I have no brothers.'

"Their father and mother are here. Put yourself in their places and you would be tempted to come in and do as they have done. Miss Barkis protected the men with two revolvers and was harboring a criminal and did her best to allow this man to escape armed with two revolvers on his course of destruction. You don't know her relation with one of these men that might tempt her to come in here and try, as the parents did, to protect him.

"You can almost believe every word that they said and you can still believe the story of the government. They only live a mile from the scene of the shooting and two young men like them can get there in five minutes.

"But where is Miss Vaughn, the sister? Why isn't she put on the stand? Were they afraid she'd tell the truth?

"Robert and Olin are both found about this time with a $10 bill each upon his person and Officer Healey lost four $10 bills. Isn't that consistent with guilt? Two men who have not worked for some time go sporting $10 bills the week after the robbery.

"Robert Vaughn shot Healey in the leg and Olin shot him in the back. Are you going to take the responsibility of letting those men go free? Be brave in rendering your verdict."

JURY CHARGED.

Judge Bond though it was past adjournment time, charged the jury briefly at the conclusion of District Attorney Wier's remarks. The charge was brief and explanatory of the law bearing on the particular charges of robbery and being armed and intent to kill. "When a person," he said, "takes a deadly weapon and shoots at another in such away that he might kill him, you have the right to say that he intended to kill. It is necessary for the government to show that the men were there before you return a verdict of guilty. You may consider the conduct of a person after the act has been committed."

The court explained finally the nature of an alibi and stated that in many cases every portion of the alibi may be true, except the date and without the date being true, the alibi has no weight.

The jury retired at 4.30.

A SEALED VERDICT.

After the jury had retired Judge Bond transacted some minor business and waited until shortly after five o'clock. The prisoners were kept in the cage in the court room, and the spectators remained, many expecting that a verdict would be returned in short order. The possibilities from the jury room were discussed on all sides, and it was agreed that the case had been most carefully put in, and the counsel for the defence were congratulated on the fine manner in which they conducted their case. Robert Vaughn was highly pleased at the effort of his counsel, and said so.

At five o'clock court adjourned, and the prisoners were taken back to the house of correction across the way, handcuffed together, and surrounded by a crowd of curious sightseers.

Shortly after six o'clock, the jury having been out one hour and a half, returned a sealed verdict, which will be opened on Monday morning at the opening of court.

It is not improbable that the disclosure of the verdict will be followed by surprising developments.

The other counts against them for alleged assault against Robert on Inspector Laflamme and Lieut. Brosnan and three counts, jointly, of breaking and entering, are scheduled for next week.

A COFFEE LIVER

Peculiar Effects of the Beverage,

Unfortunately I was the unwilling possessor of a hopelessly torpid liver, which kept growing more and more hopeless as the years went by. It finally became impossible for me to obtain sleep at night unless absolute stillness reigned.

Living in the city I was disturbed many times at night so that finally I was sent to the country, and there the least bark of a dog or the sound of a cow bell broke up my light repose and put me into a desperately nervous condition. Matters grew rapidly worse, and finally culminated in a severe illness. When I was convalescent the doctor positively forbade my using coffee, and recommended Postum Cereal Food Coffee.

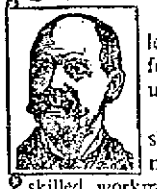

This was a terrible blow as I was a coffee fiend but I was weak enough to be sensible, and so I determined to try Postum, although I went at it very unwillingly. I determined to know that it was made right, so I read the directions carefully and made the first cup myself. I was amazed at the rich, brown liquid that steamed forth from the coffee pot that day at luncheon and still more amazed, when upon tasting it, I found I had a most delightful beverage with a delicious coffee flavor.

It is needless to say that Postum appeared upon my table from that time on. As the days went by, I gradually noticed a change for the better, in point of health. It took some time to recover from the rack of the nervous system caused by coffee, but I became more and more conscious that I was sleeping soundly and improving steadily. Naturally my irritability disappeared. I find myself now with twice, yes, ten times, the ability for enjoyment that I previously had.

One of my friends, upon learning that I had been healed by leaving off Coffee and using Postum, exclaimed and wondered how I could drink 'that stuff." I replied that we were very fond of it indeed, actually preferring it to any brand of coffee, whereupon she remarked that coffee was such a beautiful clear liquid and had such a delicious taste, while Postum was muddy and flat. I saw at once that my friend had failed to have her Postum boiled properly and determined to give her some good Postum. She is very easily prejudiced, so, shortly after when she came to visit me at the lake, I asked her to try some new coffee and for two weeks I served Postum to her, she believing all this time that she was drinking a very high priced and expensive brand of coffee. When at the end of her visit I told her that she had been having Postum Food Coffee two and sometimes three times a day all of the period of her visit, she took the joke in good part and said: "If that is true, I am already a member of the Postum army and I will never resign." Wise Merchants

The merchants of Lowell are not fools. Of course they were not as wise once as they are now, but their wisdom came through experience.

While they always bought their merchandise by measure and weight, they used to buy advertising space in the local papers by sympathy and guess work. They don't buy it that way now. They buy space on the basis of circulation, estimating the price per inch per thousand papers circulated.

On this basis, they know what they get and they know that THE SUN is by far the cheapest medium in the city. THE SUN has a larger circulation than any two other papers in Lowell. It is

Lowell's Greatest Newspaper

France has a new cabinet, but if it follows the general custom in France it will be shortlived.

Admiral Dewey's salary is to be $13,500 a year, whether he is at sea or on shore, and most people will admit that, considering the peculiar character of his duties on some occasions, his salary is none too large.

Had Philip Lambelo, who robbed a Boston bank of $10,000, shown as much skill in evading the police as he did in taking the money he might have had the pleasure of spending his boodle. The detectives who caught him should get a slice of that $10,000.

It is about time the sympathetic ladies of Dover, N. H., should begin to send bouquets to Mr. Harry Hough, now being honored for his ingenuity as a bank robber. He stands next to Joe Kelley in the admiration of some men and many women of peculiar tastes.

When we read of the Czar as the great advocate of disarmament in Europe and at the same time find that his agents are ordering field batteries and rapid fire guns in this country we are reminded of Rudyard Kipling's able lines on the "Truce of the Bear."

So the Mail is exonerated from the charge of soliciting liquor sales by publishing liquor advertisements. Can it be that Judge Hadley's elaborate decision has been overruled? Which is right, Judge Hadley or Judge Bond? But that is immaterial since the decision of the latter stands.

Hon. George Fred Williams is authority for the statement that ex-Senator Gorman has no chance of getting the democratic nomination for president next year. The statement was unnecessary as anybody who knows Gorman's antecedents will realize that he is not acceptable to the democracy of the country at the present time.

The mayor of Cambridge recently vetoed an order appropriating $350 for the expenses of a junket by the roads and bridges committee in the investigation of the merits of vitrified brick pavements for streets. It seems that if the resolution for paving our streets with asphaltina without competition came before the mayor of Cambridge, it would take him but a very short time to give it his official condemnation. It is one of the cases in which the mayor was right, and the city council was wrong.

A PUBLIC SWINDLE.

The resolution to pave a portion of Mammoth road, Suffolk street and a portion of Bridge street has been signed by Mayor Crowley, despite all protests, on account of barring competition. Thus the sum of $27,000 is to be expended on Westford street and $43,-600 on the three streets mentioned and all to be given to one company without admitting competition on the work or the material. Not for twenty years has there been such a high handed piece of public robbery practiced upon the voters as in this asphaltina deal all approved by Mayor Crowley in spite of public protests and remonstrances and after refusing a hearing to competing companies. It is an outrage which the voters can ponder upon at leisure between now and next December. If any such palpable swindle as this is legal under the city charter then the sooner the city charter is amended so as to secure competition, the better for the citizens in general.

GEN. OTIS A FAILURE.

General Otis who is conducting the war in the Philippines has demonstrated most conclusively that he cannot conquer the Filipinos. He has had a large force at his command for months past and some gallant fighting has been done by his subordinates, but the fact remains that today the Filipino army is stronger than ever before. Aguinaldo is proving himself by far the best general in Luzon, despite all the difficulties and disadvantages under which he is obliged to carry on the war. It now appears imperative upon the authorities at Washington to recall Otis. General Miles is the best soldier and commander in the country, but instead of sending him out to the Philippines, Alger and the president select Wheeler, a man advanced in years and in the natural order of things unable to endure the hardships of a prolonged campaign.

What the president should do at once is either to withdraw all our forces from the island and relinquish a sovereignty which we can't maintain, or else send out a competent general with forces sufficient to suppress the rebellion in a reasonable time. That General Otis has proved a complete failure is demonstrated by the fact that the Philippine war has cost the government to date about $53,000,000 and 664 men with 6500 wounded. Besides, it is asserted that 80 per cent. of the surviving soldiers who have fought in the Philippines will be entitled to pensions on account of diseases contracted in the service. With all this loss the area over which the United States forces have absolute control is less than 100 square miles. At present, the cost of the war is estimated at $280,000 a day, and when the 35,000 men now ordered there shall have joined the force already there, the expense will be much in excess of $350,000 per day, all of which indicates the advisability of selling out the sovereignty purchased at $20,000,000 at a discount of 75 per cent.

THE SAMPSON-SCHLEY CONTROVERSY.

The Sampson-Schley controversy has been revived in a manner that renders it imperative upon Admiral Schley to call for an inquiry or investigation by a naval board in order to protect his reputation against the latest conspiracy which seems to be somewhat of the same character as that which assails General Miles in the war department. Soon after the nominations of Sampson and Schley for admirals, the New York Sun published an account of a conversation alleged to have taken place between Admiral Schley and Lieut. Hodgson on the bridge of the Brooklyn in the heat of the battle with Cervera's fleet. The Brooklyn made a famous movement known as "the loop" the object of which, as Admiral Schley explained to the senate was to prevent the Brooklyn from blanketing the fire of the Texas, then closely following the Brooklyn in pursuit of the Spaniards.

The Washington Post recently published a denial of the New York Sun's statement, whereupon Lieut. Hellner of the navy came out with the claim that Lieut. Hodgson had detailed the conversation with Admiral Schley to him exactly as it had been reported in the Sun.

Secretary Long as the friend of Sampson, called upon both officers to sift the matter still further. The country is tired of such controversies. Admiral Schley, however, is being bitterly assailed, as the charge, if proved, would tend to show cowardice. It seems that the Sampson combine has at last succeeded in fastening a plausible charge upon the commodore. The next senate will consider the nominations and will probably go to the bottom of this matter at the same time. The public is tired listening to the conflicting statements and this latest phase of the case shows a determination to ruin Schley, just as Alger tried to ruin Miles.

The Boston police have to answer for the death of a young man named Alphonsus Garbett, who was found in an unconscious condition at one of the bridges in that city a few days ago, and locked up for drunkenness. He was sentenced to jail, and after having served his sentence it was found that he had been suffering from concussion of the brain, as a result of being knocked down by a bicycle scorcher. He is now lying at the point of death in a Chelsea hospital, and it is probable that the Boston police will have to answer for their part in pronouncing him drunk, when medical aid might have restored him to consciousness, and saved his life.

NORTH BILLERICA

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL LAST EVENING AT BAPTIST CHURCH VESTRY.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church at North Billerica, gave a very enjoyable and largely attended strawberry festival and entertainment in the vestry of the church last evening. Supper was served from 6.30 until 8 and ice cream and cake after the entertainment. The feature of the program was a series of selections on the phonograph given by Mr. Maxwell of Lowell. Mr. F. Gray Brown gave a reading and Mr. H. G. Sheldon gave a flute solo entitled "I'll Follow Thee."

Mr. William McCool of Marysville, Cal., was visiting friends in North Billerica, yesterday. Twenty-five years ago Mr. McCool was a prominent citizen of North Billerica and was prominent in political circles. He has been a resident of Marysville, Cal., for 24 years. Among the other North Billerica people at that place are Mr. Edward B. Harrigan and Mrs. Patrick Brennan. While Mr. McCool is East he is the guest of his brother at Mansfield. He will return to his Western home in a few weeks.

Miss Ethel Fletcher is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ingalls.

Sales for Week Ending July 1st, '99

MONDAY AFTERNOON.

Postponed on Account of the Thunderstorm Last Tuesday to Next Monday.

Two years ago I had between thirty-five and forty lots of land on Sanders avenue, in ward eight. Sanders avenue starts in the center of Tyler Park and runs directly south across Pine street. Five of the lots have been sold, three of the lots have modern residences upon them. I have decided to advertise and sell eight of the remaining lots to whomsoever will bid the highest for them at absolute auction on Monday, June 26, 1899, at five o'clock in the afternoon.

I shall make the sale rain or shine; two-thirds of the purchase money can remain on the mortgage. The elegant and handsome residences of Mr. J. A. Coram, Mr. E. A. Smith, and Dr. Trueworthy are near to and in plain view from the lots the new school on Pine street is not more than five or six minutes' walk, the Westford street line of electric cars is easily within seven minutes' walk through Tyler Park. There are no higher, handsomer, or more desirable lots in this choice and very beautiful part of the Highlands, yet under the existing conditions, they will not bring more than a few cents a foot. Sanders avenue is a broad, level and straight street and will eventually continue on way through to the Highlands on Chelmsford St. It is surely destined to be one of the important residential thoroughfares of this part of our city. It is just such opportunities as this sale presents that make profitable and successful real estate transactions. Ten years ago the land on Foster, Marlboro and Gibson streets was not nearly as attractive or inviting as the lots I here offer, yet today with the march of improvements on these streets, land is easily worth a quarter a foot.

My lots contain from 7920 to 8712 square feet of land each, with frontages from 62 to 65 feet each.

They are level, the view is unobstructed in all directions, the lots are south of Pine street will be sold no matter what they bring; you can see them anytime. The purchaser of each lot must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $50 as soon as each lot is struck off. Mr. Conant tells me that my lots are the best lots to buy he has offered this year.

M. M. DOYLE,

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

Assignee's sale of 83,863 square feet of land on the Ayer farm, Middlesex Village, adjoining and just west of No. 1053 Middlesex street. The land is known as the A. A. Coburn lot, was originally purchased in two lots. The lots have areas of 41,880 and 42,003 square feet, the frontages are 100 feet. The premises are high, dry, pleasantly situated and quite desirable.

On Tuesday, June 27, 1899, promptly at five o'clock in the afternoon, rain or shine, I shall positively sell without limit or reserve, to the highest bidders at absolute auction, the real estate designated at Lots 18 and 19 on "A plan of lots in Middlesex Village belonging to Dr. James C. Ayer, surveyed April, 1874. A. Osgood, surveyor."

The electric cars on the Middlesex Village line run to Wood street every seven and one-half minutes and Wood street is not five minutes' walk from the premises. The North Chelmsford electric cars run every fifteen minutes and pass the premises. The premises at the time Mr. Coburn bought them were considered the choicest lots on the Ayer or Howard Farm and today the lots offer the handsomest opportunity to build several residences there is in Middlesex Village or this part of Lowell. There are now several fine places adjoining the land. Easy to reach, quiet, healthy, pleasant and attractive, they should tempt many a buyer who would better his surroundings and do so at a reasonable outlay.

The purchaser of each lot must deposit with or secure to the auctioneer $200 as soon as each lot is struck off. Make what inquiries you like in regard to the lots at the office of the auctioneers, but bear in mind the lots are to be sold.

FREDERICK B. BLANCHARD, Assignee.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Executors' and heirs' sale of the BENJ. RUSHWORTH ESTATE, numbered 239, 241 and 243 Lawrence street. Cottage block of three houses and 8470 square feet of land.

On the twenty-eighth day of June, 1899, at five o'clock in the afternoon, it is our purpose to sell to the highest bidder at public auction the real estate situated as above stated and extending through from Ames street to Richmond street.

The houses have five rooms and cellar each, are supplied with water, water closets and sewerage; are in good order and repair; are never idle; one tenant has been an occupant for 15 years; the income from the property is $30 a month; the tenants are anxious to remain. The block makes three very pleasant and comfortable homes. The lot has a frontage of 94 feet on Lawrence street, 110 feet on Ames street, 75 feet on Richmond street and a total area of 8470 square feet. There is ample room on the Lawrence street front for another block, the space at present being occupied by fruit trees and vines. The present block has sufficient yard room in the rear.

The estate as a whole is a good one; no tenement property in Lowell is better located. Mills, factories, business and numerous small industries are close enough at hand; all city advantages and conveniences are at the premises. You can buy on easy terms.

The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $450 as soon as the property is struck off. The sale will take place rain or shine. Make all inquiries at the office of the auctioneers.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Executors' and Heirs' Sale of the WM. CLEWORTH TENEMENT PROPERTY, Nos. 75, 77 and 79 and 87 Cushing Street.

DOUBLE COTTAGE. - - - COTTAGE HOUSE
AND 6975 SQUARE FEET OF LAND.

On Thursday, June 29th, 1899, promptly at five o'clock in the afternoon, regardless of the weather and to the highest bidder at absolute auction, I shall sell the real estate as above located and as herewith described.

THE DOUBLE COTTAGE is numbered 75 and 77, each house has seven rooms and each house is a pleasant and comfortable home. One tenant has been an occupant for eight years.

THE COTTAGE is numbered 79, has seven rooms and two sheds, and the present tenant is very anxious to remain.

THE TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE is numbered 87, each tenement has five rooms and shed and is occupied by a first class tenant.

Each tenement in this estate has a water closet, is supplied with city water and sewerage, each one has been well cared for and kept up. The property rents for $18 a month and there has not been a loss of $50 in rent on account of idleness for the past five years.

The property is a first class renting estate is excellently situated; is very conveniently arranged; is planned to get the greatest income for the least expenditure in repairs; can never be worth less; is the sort of renting property that always proves a satisfactory investment; it can always be sold. But for the fact that part of the heirs desire their money, it would not be sold at this time. As executor and one of the heirs I was very loathe to give my consent to part with so good a paying and easily cared for property.

The lot has a frontage of 95 feet and affords lots of yard room for the several tenants.

The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $550 as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms liberal.

JOHN CLEWORTH as Executor
and for Heirs of Wm. Cleworth.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON,

I have positively decided to dispose of my real estate on Fulton street without reserve at public auction.

THE ESTATE consists of a two-flat house, and 2790 square feet of land. Each house has five rooms, pantry, water closet, city water and sewerage. Each house is well laid out and arranged, has ample closet room and is in good condition, particularly the upper flat.

The lot has ample yard room for a garden, is fenced and level.

The property is numbered 59 Fulton street. The sale will take place Friday, June 30, 1899, at half past five o'clock in the afternoon. Sale rain or shine. No limit. $1000 can remain on bank mortgage at five per cent. interest. The rental is $15 a month and the flats are always in demand. I never owned a more desirable or more satisfactory parcel of renting property. I sell only for the best of reasons and can conscientiously recommend the estate to the most conservative buyers.

The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $175 as soon as the property is struck off.

WATERPROOF MAN

Nabbed by the Police of Manchester

STAYED IN CEMETERY IN THAT CITY

And Scared Many Women and Girls.

Lowell for some time had in its midst a "Peeping Tom" or waterproof man who operated principally in the Highland district. Women were grossly insulted and badly frightened. The Lowell police were notified and were close on trail of the recreant who made his escape to New Hampshire. Intelligence now comes from Manchester that such a character has come to the "end of his rope" in that city. Says the Manchester Union of yesterday:

For a week past West Manchester has had a "water proof man." His operations have annoyed and alarmed many women and girls and have aroused the indignation of their husbands, brothers and fathers, some of whom have conducted stillhunts for the fellow with the intention of giving him a sound trashing.

A suspect is now occupying cell thirteen in the central police station.

The waterproof man unlike the others of his specie who have been known in Manchester, has had rather peculiar methods. In the first place he has operated in broad day light and not on the streets as most of them have. Instead, he confined his performances to a cemetery keeping company with the tombstones until a victim appeared.

St. Joseph's Catholic cemetery on Milford street has been the scene of his appearances and in the selection of the place he showed himself both cool and calculating. The cemetery is isolated and is frequented by few visitors. Women often go there alone to place flowers on the graves or to visit the resting place of some friend or loved one.

In nearly every instance this waterproof man has jumped out suddenly on some lone woman or girl and gone through this disgusting antics. Most of the women have been badly frightened.

So far as can be learned, he has offered violence to no one, but has confined himself to mere appearances and has not laid hands on any one.

The police were notified of the presence and performances of the fellow two or three days ago and have since been on the lookout for him. He managed to keep well out of their way.

On Thursday morning, Policeman Bean arrested on Milford street near the cemetery a young fellow supposed to be the one wanted. He was given a ride in the patrol wagon and when booked gave his name as John Gagnon and said he lived on 26 Boynton street. He is slender, dark, of medium height and not too prepossessing.

It is rather hard on a prospective bridegroom to have the man who was to act as head usher at the nuptial ceremony to be the first to secure a marriage license and capture the bride, as was the case in Cambridge.

These are sad times for the girl babies. An unfortunate, helpless feminine infant in Kansas has been named Funstonic, and now an epidemic of Deweydrops, Hobsonettas, Wheelerines and Otisannas may be expected. And, as if the names themselves were not calamity enough, these victimized young ladies will be dated from 1899 all their lives and there will be no concealing their ages when the sear and yellow leaf stage is approaching. There ought to be a society to protect babies from being burdened with such names by limiting the mischievous propensities of inconsiderate parents.

PRETTY PICTURE

A group of young ladies of the Shaw hosiery make a pretty picture in the noon hour partaking of their dinner on the hosiery lawn facing Chelmsford street. They come from distant parts of the city and eat their meal in the cool and bracing air and have a picnic in miniature form, even if for only one hour. The move is a wise one and could be emulated with good results by other Lowell factory employes.

PEACE CONFERENCE

Hears Proposals From Russian Delegates.

M. de Staal Appeals to Delegates to Devote Their Energy to Arrest Continual Increase in Cost of Armed Peace.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

THE HAGUE, June 23.—M. De Staal, president of the peace conference at a meeting of the committee, introduced the Russian proposals looking to the arrest of armaments and read a declaration disclaiming all intention of proposing a reduction of the armaments at present. But, he added, he was of the opinion that if a standstill could be agreed upon, a reduction would soon come of itself. All the powers, he explained had conferred with the Czar relative to the immense evils of armed peace and he, now appealed to them to devote their energies toward the arrest of the continual increase in the cost of armed peace which he asserted cost more than a tremendous war.

Colonel Gillsk, of the Russian delegation, moved that the powers should enter into an understanding for the term of say five years, not to increase the effectiveness of the peace footing of their forces with the exception of the colonial troops and not to increase the amount of their military budgets, beyond their present figure.

TRAIN WRECKED

It Struck an Ox on the Track.

THE COLLISION DERAILED THE TRAIN.

Fireman Hickey Was Badly Injured.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

COLLINSVILLE, Conn., June 23.—An east bound midnight freight train on the Central New England railroad was wrecked near Canton, two miles from here, early this morning, in a peculiar manner. A stray ox wandered onto the tracks and was struck by the freight locomotive. The animal was instantly killed, its body being almost cut in two. The engine and eight cars, however, were derailed, and a portion of the wreckage caught fire. Engineer Timothy Farrell of East Hartford, was caught under the wreckage, and it required the work of three hours to extricate him. Greatly to the surprise of his rescuers it was found that he was not badly injured. Fireman Daniel Hickey was thrown some distance, and sustained internal injuries. Traffic is blocked, but passengers are being transferred around the wreck.

AT CAPE TOWN

ENGLAND MUST NOW ACT PROMPTLY.

The Tensions There is Extreme.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONDON, June 23.—A dispatch from Cape Town says:

The tension is extreme. Business is at a standstill and the general feeling is that England must promptly bring matters to an issue. The league will have no difficulty in preventing meetings supporting Sir Alfred Milner's attitude, the desire being to refrain from embarrassing the imperial authorities.

The Orange government is urging the Transvaal to make further concessions. Many people consider that Sir Alfred Milner's franchise proposals are useless without the granting of 12 seats in the mining centres and the right to speak English in the Volksraad. Otherwise it will be impossible to select representative men. Failing this concession, the Joannesburgers say they prefer a treaty providing security and judicial and educational reforms.

SPOKE TO PUPILS

Pres-Elect Hadley of Yale at Hill House School

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 23.—President elect Arthur T. Hadley of Yale University delivered the commencement address before Hill House High school here today. In the course of his address, Prof. Hadley arraigned the public office system of the nation and said that the only cure for the selfish violation of trust committed to representatives in office was the creation of a strong public sentiment. That sentiment should be fostered in the common school system and children should be taught that a civic responsibility rests upon them. The creation of monopolies which are selfish in import he also arraigned as being robbery as bold as that where the widow's portion is taken. Civil service reform in spirit must be the panacea by which the next generation must work out the salvation of the political system of the United States, he said.

A BIG COMBINE

With a Capital of Six Million Dollars.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 23.—An extensive brewery combine has been effected in Paterson, N. J., taking in all of the breweries of Passaic county, involving $6,000,000 capital.

Some time ago English capitalists attempted to consolidate all the Paterson breweries, but the Hinchcliffe Brothers, who operate one of the largest breweries there, refused to go into that combine. Recently, negotiations were renewed, and the outcome is a new combine to be known as the Paterson Brewing and Maud Malting company. The consolidation of these breweries will result in the closing of many saloons in Paterson. These saloons heretofore have been kept up by brewing firms, but under the new arrangement, the saloon keepers will have to take out and pay for their own licenses.

PRESIDENT DWIGHT'S REPORT.
By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 23.—The last report of President Dwight of Yale University, issued today, covers the last 18 months of his administration. He touches at the outset of the report upon the work of Yale in the Spanish war, the favorable decision for Yale in the tax suit, and the good condition of the finances, as managed by Treasurer Farnam. In speaking of wealth and fine new dormitories at Yale, he scouts the idea that these are foes of Yale democracy and says that the true Yale spirit is that which measures a man by what he is rather than by what he was. He criticizes with some severity the elective system at the college, and says that in connection with the lecture system it tends to impair the personal relations of students and instructors, and suggests that personal relations, if possible, be renewed. Written examinations are deprecated as being unjust to the student, because they are mechanical and severe, and do not allow the instructor to judge of the student's personal powers or weaknesses when he is examined.

The gifts mentioned in the report amount to $500,000, including those funds subscribed in the bi-centennial scheme, which at the date of the report amounted to about $430,000. The president makes a short reference to his successor, Prof. Hadley, who, he says, begins his college administration under the best auspices.

FOR WIFE-MURDER

Joseph Hill Given a Preliminary Hearing

HE WAS HELD WITHOUT BAIL

For October Session of the Grand Jury.

STORY OF JOSEPHINE WASHINGTON.

Says She Saw the Murder Committed.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 23.—Joseph Hill, who is charged with the murder of his wife, Mary E. Hill, Hyannisport, one week ago, was given a preliminary hearing in the First District court here today. After several witnesses had given testimony, the defendant was held without bail for the October session of the grand jury.

The first witness, Robert H. Faunce of Sandwich, medical examiner, testified that he called to see the body of Mrs. Hill on Friday night, June 16, soon after the murder occurred. He performed an autopsy the next day and found that one pistol shot had caused six wounds. A second shot had passed through the neck causing death.

Elmer W. Phinney of Hyannisport, said that he saw a man near the scene of the murder on the night of the 16th. The man was going towards the spot where a few minutes afterward the body of Mrs. Hill was found. Soon after the man disappeared from view of witness, two shots were heard. He went over to the hill and saw a body on the road which he recognized as Mrs. Hill.

Josephine Washington, the 14-year old neice of the murdered woman, who was with her aunt, when she was killed, testified that she and her sister saw Hill shoot his wife.

The next witness was Nellie E. Burchell of Hyannisport, a servant at the Kerr Cottage, situated near the scene of the tragedy. She said she saw Mrs. Hill and two girls on the road on the evening of the 16th. She saw Hill emerge from some bushes and heard him call his wife. A few moments later, witness said she saw Hill shoot and the woman fall.

Rebecca Cahoon, mother of the prisoner, testified that her son came to her house at 8 o'clock Friday night and during a conversation, the son said: "Oh, mother, I want to kiss you for the last time. I have shot Mamie."

After the hearing was closed, the defendant was held for the grand jury, without bail.

JUDGE HANFORD

GIVES DECISION THAT RAISES AN ISSUE.
By Associated Press to The Sun.

SEATTLE, Washn., June 23.—United States Judge Hanford has rendered a decision which raises an issue with the treasury department. He granted a writ of habeas corpus to T. Yamasaka, a Japanese arrested by Immigration Inspector Walker on the charge of being a pauper and entering the United States clandestinely.

Judge Hanford ruled that while the courts have no jurisdiction to review the act of the superintendent of immigration or the inspectors acting under him in excluding immigrants upon their arrival and before they have been landed from the vessel after an immigrant has entered the United States and actually set foot upon its soil and attained his liberty, he cannot be turned back except upon a judicial inquiry into his right to remain in the United States and further held that the law makes no provision for such inquiry.

Waldeck Rosseau, during the day and it is asserted he handed the later his resignation. The progressive republicans have held a meeting under the presidency of M. Meline. Considerable diversity of opinion was developed. One faction decided to oppose the new cabinet owing to the presence of M. Millrand in the ministry. The socialist deputies are also at variance regarding the entry of General the Marquis de Gallifet into the cabinet and a portion of that party has decided to found a new group to be entitled "Revolutionary Socialists."

GLORIA

IS NOT A MEDICINE.

A nice new woman often said
She wished the horrid men all dead.
She drank some GLORIA, then changed her mind,
Same as some other womankind,
And immediately published a personal ad.
For any old man that can be had.
Friends met with her and drank GLORIA there,
And voted the wicked men to spare;
All suggested the ad. to increase
Till everyone had a man apiece.
Then all drink GLORIA often as you can.
For it raises the value of fallen man.

THIS WONDERFUL WOMAN WAS THE PIONEER OF WOMEN'S RIGHTS IN AMERICA; SHE IS DESCRIBED BY SUSAN B. ANTHONY AS "THE WOMAN ORATOR OF THE AGE;" SHE HAS SWAYED THOUSANDS WITH THE POWER OF HER INTELLECT AND THE SWEETNESS AND STRENGTH OF A VOICE HENRY WARD BEECHER DESCRIBED AS "SILVERY BELLS."

MRS. ELIZABETH CADY STANTON, WHO, AT THE AGE OF EIGHTY-FOUR, WRITES A VIGOROUS LETTER OF ADVICE TO OUR WOMEN READERS.

HOW TO GROW OLD GRACEFULLY.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton Discloses the Secret of a Happy and Healthy Old Age.

The answer involves a primal question as to the starting point. How to reach the end of a ten-mile walk depends upon the vigor with which one started, the state of the road, the weather, the companions and the object of the journey.

So it is in life.

With two generations of ancestors with sound minds in sound bodies, with the advantages of good society and thorough education, one is well equipped for health and happiness and success in life.

What a good foundation is to a fine edifice, that is birth and education to character, though great souls now and then appear to rise superior to all disadvantages.

I attribute my vigorous old age in part to advantageous circumstances, in part to a happy, hopeful temperament, a keen sense of humor, sympathies for all my fellow beings and a deep interest in all the vital questions of the hour.

One must have an earnest purpose in life, beyond personal ambition and family aggrandizement.

Self-centered characters do not possess the necessary elements of a high development.

If one would have a happy old age, the first condition is a sound body; to that end we all know that exercise, diet, dress, sanitary conditions, are all important.

Born on the hills in Fulton County, 400 feet above the Mohawk Valley, I enjoyed pure air to start with. With walks of five or ten miles, and rides on horseback of many more, oftimes before breakfast; skating, coasting, sleigh-riding with boys as well as girls, for in our old academies we had coeducation everywhere, we enjoyed abundant means for fun and frolic.

In those days the languages and mathematics were not thought to be too strong intellectual pabulum for girls. Five years in all my studies and plays in the constant companionship of boys, I count as one of the happiest periods of my girlhood.

Thus the girls acquired strength, courage and self-assertion, and the boys courtesy, refinement and self-control.

Thus youth passed with comparative freedom, and the foundation was laid for health and intellectual development.

Wifehood and motherhood brought their duties, without the usual disabilities that feeble women, ignorant of the laws of health, endure. Nature does her best at all periods of woman's life to make each change one of added health and happiness.

Those obedient to her laws rejoice in every step from youth to age. Fifty is the heyday of her intellectual life. Then the vital forces used in reproduction are garnered in the brain, giving new ideas and adding force, clearness and beauty to thought. There comes eloquence of expression, and she finds a wider field for her sympathies. She has new interests in the great world which is the future home of her children, in which she is now to labor to make it fit for them to live in.

Now the wise woman sees she has new duties in the state, to build up a government for the benefit of the whole people. She has duties in the church to save her children from all the harrowing superstitions that have so long oppressed the human mind. This work finds her able to meet it.

This is a hasty picture of my life; and now, in my eighty-fourth year, life is as sweet to me as ever. I have no pains or aches, no regrets or forebodings for myself; all my sorrows are for the troubles of others.

My philosophy is to live in the present; regrets for the past are vain, the page is turned, there is no remedy for what is done. As to the future, anxieties are equally vain; we do not know what one day will bring forth; what we hope or fear may never occur; the present is all that is ours.

It is the general opinion that with age must come decrepitude, that its inevitable accompaniments are wigs and spectacles, ear trumpets and false teeth, weak knees, asthma, neuralgia and rheumatism.

This is by no means the case.

I know sound old gentlemen on the shady side of eighty, that read without spectacles, whose hearing is as keen as a rabbit's, who can walk as briskly as most men of forty, and have as keen a zest as ever in all there is in life worth enjoying.

One of the most celebrated dancing masters in Western New York, Mr. Cobleigh, played on his violin and danced as lightly as a boy of sixteen long after he was seventy years old.

I have no doubt, if we kept up gymnastic exercises and diligent rubbing every day, we should retain our suppleness of limb and motion to a good old age.

I suppose the time will never come when women or men either will delight in crow's feet, wrinkles or gray hairs, but the time will come—aye, and now is—when they will view these blemishes as but a petty price to pay for the joy of added wisdom, for the deeper joy of closer contact with humanity, and for the deepest joy of worthy work well done.

THE PLAN FOR A COLLAR AND DEEP REVER AS DRAWN BY OUR ARTIST UNDER THE DIRECTION OF A FASHIONABLE NEW YORK TAILOR.

GETTING READY.

And if our senses are not so keen as in youth, our spiritual eyes behold the unfolding of many glories we never saw before. We hear the music in the air, the harmonies of nature unheeded in the early days, and the inner or life grows brighter as the years roll on, the horizon of thought broadens, new vistas open to unknown paths, we see visions and dream dreams of celestial harmony and happiness, and of the complete fulfillment of all our earth-born plans and purposes.

They are begun in youth in doubt and weakness, but finished at last in faith and victory.

"For age is opportunity no less,
Than youth itself, though in another dress;
And as the evening twilight fades away
The sky is filled with stars invisible by day."

HOW TO MAKE A SHIRT WAIST.

Our Artist Draws Diagrams of Very Pretty New Collars and Revers for Wash Waists.

REMODELLING A PLAIN ONE

A Useful Hint for the Woman who Wants Something Very Nice for Little Money.

BELTS, NECKTIES AND COLLARS.

New York, June 22.—"What is the greatest existing record of woman's progress?" demanded a woman lecturer at a popular club the other afternoon.

"The shirt waist," whispered one of the audience, under her breath.

If she had stood up and shouted her answer aloud she would have only voiced the sentiment of every woman in the room, for not even the tailor-made suit was such an evolution or so strong a protest. It is well within the memory of every grown woman when the greatest concession a woman could make to summer time was a "wash" dress, made in close style, like her woolen gowns, boned, often lined, and finished in such a way that it never looked well after its bath.

Now the duck skirt, in all colors, provides a supply of street skirts ranging from white to black, and from heavy to light; and with these skirts which, by the way, really hang better after being suitably laundered, there can be worn such a variety of shirt waists that no woman, however fastidious, can refuse one.

SHIRT WAIST SUITS.

The latest dress wrinkle, in New York, is the shirt waist suit. A skirt of brilliant red pique trimmed with white braid is purchased at a price ranging from a dollar upward. With this skirt there is purchased a plain red lawn shirt waist, also one of white mull, another of red and white plaid gingham, a fourth of red pique with white insertion, a fifth of white pique worked with big red fleur de lis and a sixth of black linen figured in scarlet.

The "suit" is complete, no matter which waist is worn, and if, to the waists is added an all red hat, the result is quite stunning. As many or as few of these waists may be purchased as the pocketbook shall dictate.

THE GREEN AND WHITE.

The waist-to-match policy is carried out with the natural or tan linen skirt, with the blue, the black, the green and the white. You will be surprised, by following this line, to see how easily and inexpensively you can procure a summer wardrobe.

A word about laundry bills! A New York woman of some cleverness discovered that it was their neatness which made the Southern girls so attractive. Labor is cheap in the South and a Southern belle, of moderate means, thinks it no extravagance to wear a fresh white gown every day. It is certainly a woman's most effective toilette—a fresh gown—and laundry bills are well worth their total.

An enterprising summer girl has discovered that the life of a shirt waist can be prolonged away from the wash tub by pressing. The pique waist, after one wearing, is folded as in the shops—be sure to learn how to do this—and is placed under a weight until next day. To a confidential friend this clever girl admitted that her waists were laid between the mattresses, precisely as her brother pressed his trousers.

FINISH AND FIGURE.

The best finish for a shirt waist is the narrow white neckband upon which a collar is buttoned. Cuffs are of the waist material; avoid the shirt waists that have white cuffs attached. They soil a day ahead of the waist itself.

The "shirt waist figure," which changes each season, and which last year was very full just above the waist line, standing out like a big puff, is high-busted and neat. There is a choice between the plain waist and the tucked blouse, both being in vogue.

They have a way now of making the blouse waist so that it can be worn plain by simply drawing the fullness below the belt. The fashionable figure is rather full and must be broad across the chest by artifice if not by nature.

BELTS, BUCKLES, STOCKS.

Short-waisted persons can be comforted and assisted this year by the ribbon belt, which is in style. It is narrow and may match the waist. By matching the belt to waist a longer waist effect is obtained.

The tiniest buckles are worn upon the ribbon belts, and many women, upon economy bent, utilize handsome old buttons for the purpose. The button is sewed upon one end of the ribbon. The ribbon is drawn around the waist and pinned in place so as to show the big fancy button which acts as a finish. The neck ribbon is fastened in the same way.

Many are the soft white stocks, the chiffon bow tied in front being very becoming. A pretty bow and vent effect is obtained by tying a ribbon under the chin, leaving long ends. The ends are brought down to the waist line and tied in another big bow.

The advisability of making the shirt waist at home is still a discussed subject, the consensus of opinion being that it is cheaper and more satisfactory to buy.

COUNTERFEITING ELEGANCE.

If a really elegant waist is desired such a one as costs seven dollars and more at the best shops, a substitute can be obtained by buying a plain waist, of good cut, for one dollar or even less.

The waist can now be hemstitched at home, or trimmed with insertion or otherwise made valuable. Be sure, if you trim with insertion, to cut out the goods underneath, as the insertion, by some trick of color, looks much finer.

PEACH CAKE.

Make an ordinary cup cake. When cold cut the cake in half, cover one-half with large, mellow peaches, which should be cut into fine slices, pour over a little peach syrup from a can of the fruit, put over the remaining half and dust the cake with fine sugar. Or pour over the following icing: Mix one cup of sifted powdered sugar with two tablespoonfuls boiling water and one teaspoonful lemon juice, stir until smooth, pour the icing over the cake and let stand till cold.

PATTERN FOR A VERY SMART COLLAR AND REVER CUT IN TWO PIECES WITH SEAM IN THE MIDDLE OF THE BACK. THIS DIAGRAM CAN BE ENLARGED TO FIT THE NECK OF THE GOWN.

A HINT FOR THE HOME NEEDLE.

With Thread, Wire and Paste-Pot the Ingenious Woman can Manufacture a Becoming Summer Light.

It is the season of the year when gas is intolerable and electric light, even if obtainable, is trying and calls mosquitoes. Why not, then, resort to that beauty maker of our grandmothers, the candle, which, while it reveals, softens and discloses with smiles without the lines.

The candle of commerce these days is a joy. Unlike the "dip," it is hard and even pleasant to the fingers. By describing what you want to your grocer you can obtain a candle that positively will not drip, and which, as it burns slowly away, leaves only a slight disfiguration upon its receding sides. But beware of the candle that drips its wax freely; it brings ruin.

After the candle comes the candle shade, which can be home-made. The frames are necessary and can be purchased cheaply; or, better still, buy one for a pattern and imitate it in wire.

The stick itself can be managed in the same way. If there is not an old candelabra in the family, any dealer in artist's materials will sell you the wire framework, which can be bent to form great ornamental candelabra.

A very artistic woman recently took an old bronze stork which for years had perched upon the family mantel and attached a framework of bent wire to its wings and head, as though the stork were holding the framework in its bill. To the framework she fitted candlesticks, and into these she set the candles and fitted shades to them. The whole was intended for a dining-table ornament.

Heavy brocaded silk makes a very pretty shade, pasted upon a paper foundation. And there now come very decorative wall papers that can be used for candle shades. Half a yard of wall paper will make several shades, all varied as different parts of the pattern are used.

Silk ruffles are used to trim paper shades, and silk flowers are also used. The combination of silk and paper is always good. The woman who values her good looks these hot nights will not forget the kind colors thrown by the charitable rose candle shade, and will provide herself with them.

A NEW WOMAN IN THE OLD WORLD.

Although a New York Syndicate is Said to be Negotiating for the Lakes of Killarney Rumor Still Declares That They are to be Given to Mrs. Howard Gould.

A recent dispatch from Dublin says that Howard Gould is negotiating for the purchase of the Lakes of Killarney, and that the purchase price is to be $300,000. The lakes are intended, it is said, as a gift to Mrs. Howard Gould, the beautiful young bride of the multi-millionaire, and are to be used by her as a summer home.

The purchase of the Lakes of Killarney was regarded at first as a joke, but upon reflection it was agreed that nothing more beautiful could gladden the heart of a woman. To own this beautiful locality as one's own, and to be able to walk "by Killarney's lakes and dells," without molestation, would fulfill the wildest dream of a woman's heart.

The land about Killarney does not exceed 100,000 acres, many of which are wooded lands that cannot be cultivated; others are dells that are approachable only by ladders of stone, very picturesque but not valuable to the Irish farmer. The offer, therefore, of a lump sum for that section of the country would be gladly received by the farmer.

Mrs. Howard Gould, the young woman who has such a gift within reach, is one of the most beautiful women that ever lived. Her hair is so light that it is almost silver, and her figure is slenderness itself. She has a beautiful voice and for years her favorite song has been the famous "Killarney." It was at a yachting dinner off the coast of England that Mrs. Gould was asked to sing this song for her guests. At the conclusion some one suggested that Mr. Gould should purchase the Lakes of Killarney for his wife, a suggestion which was eagerly received by Mrs. Gould and which at once engaged the attention of Mr. Gould. Before the day was over it is said that he had begun negotiations.

Mrs. Gould is likewise an accomplished woman. From being an office assistant in California she raised herself to the stage and achieved some success as an actress in England. It is noteworthy that, while in small theatres she "brought down the house," in large theatres she was less successful. This was said to be on account of her great beauty, which swayed the audience, if within range of her varied expression.

Mrs. Howard Gould did not have to assist a young husband in his poverty. Married beyond the dreams of avarice, she has been able to gratify every whim of an artistic woman. Christmas she dispensed 2,500 dinners to poor children near Five Points, New York, and later she entertained the children of the employees of the hotel at which she lives when in town.

Mrs. Gould owns the finest yacht in the world, the Niagara. She possesses the most expensive fan, an exquisite hand-painted affair. She is building the greatest mansion in New York, in which she will, it is whispered, establish a wonderful salon for artistic people. And now she may soon own the Lakes of Killarney.

It is a remarkable fact that all the Gould men have married wives of high intelligence. Miss Katharine Clemmons was undoubtedly a brilliant as well as a beautiful woman; her fencing alone would entitle her to the name of athlete. Miss Edith Kingdon, the wife of George Gould, would have made a great theatrical star had she remained in Daly's company. And Miss Shrady, daughter of Dr. Shrady, who married Edwin Gould, while too young at the time to show pronounced ability, has since been quite remarkable for the promotion of country sports, her efforts in this line having been the making of the now famous Ardsley.

If Mrs. Howard Gould accepts the Lakes of Killarney as a gift, she will maintain a game preserve and will subdivide the entire acreage into farms, upon which there will live thrifty tenants, who, instead of paying rent, will be paid monthly wages for taking care of the property. Surely an innovation in Ireland!

Meanwhile, as a home reform, Mrs. Gould is endeavoring, it is quietly said, to secure elevators for the passengers of the elevated railroads, who now must climb long flights of stairs.

A VERY EASY WAY TO MAKE A SEAMLESS YOKE FOR THE NECK OF ANY WASH WAIST; PLAID GOODS MAY BE CUT IN THE BACK IN ORDER TO FIT THE STRIPE NEATLY.

GETTING A PHOTOGRAPH.

It is one thing to say, "Go to a good photographer." But the photographer cannot do all. The woman must have previously dressed herself well and arranged her hair prettily or the photographer will be helpless.

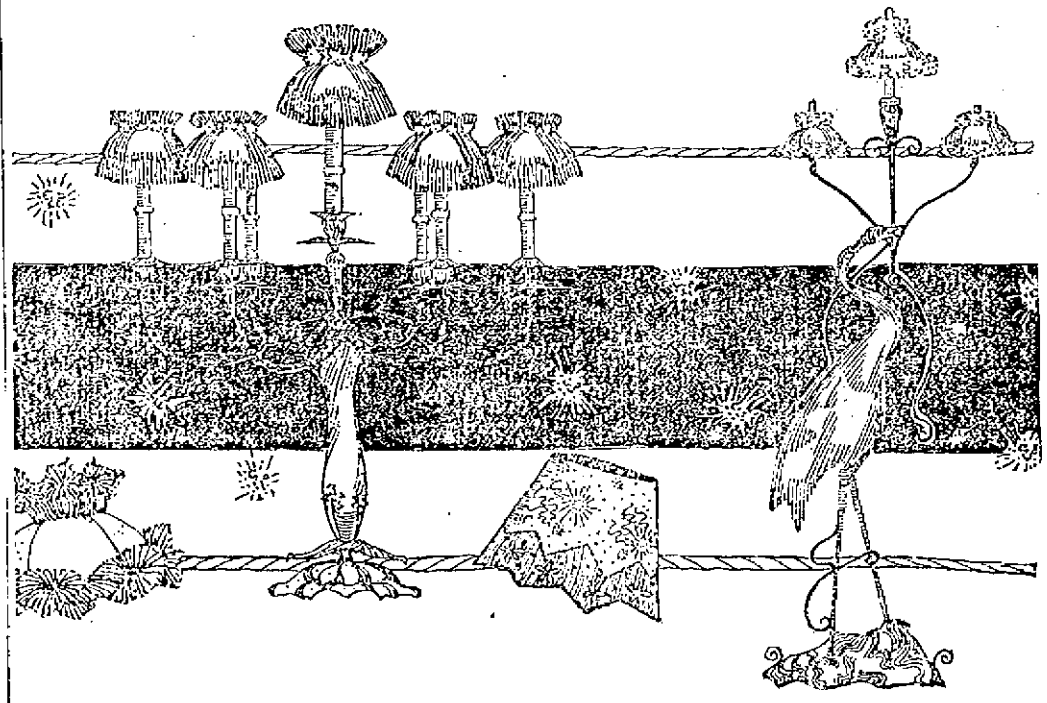

The hair should be very loosely arranged. Remember that small curls "take" well. All sorts of small articles look pretty in a picture. The bracelet, the ring, the careless curl, the tiny courtplaster which in real life may be in questionable taste, are positively charming in a photograph.

A very graceful effect is invariably produced by draping the head. A very long scarf of white crepon drapes the head well. Let it be fastened upon the front of the gown and carried over the head like a shawl. The other end can be brought carelessly down over the left shoulder, as a Spanish mantilla. The draper will do this for you. You on your part need only dress in white with a rounded or decollette neck and short sleeves. If the neck be high, and the sleeves long, the draped effect can be obtained by gathering the scarf a little closer around the head as though one wore an evening dress for the opera. There are countless varieties of the draped photograph, all of which are good.

THE MAKING OF CANDLE SHADES IS SUCH A DAINTY FEMININE OCCUPATION THAT IT CAN BE PICKED UP AT ODD TIMES; WIRES ARE BENT AND SILK IS SHIRRED OVER THEM WITH VERY DECORATIVE RESULTS; READ THE DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING CANDLE SHADES IN THE NEXT COLUMN.

TEWKSBURY PARK

Was Illuminated Brilliantly Last Night

SCENE OF THE GRANGE LAWN PARTY

Music and Baloon Ascension Among Attractions

Myriads of lighted lanterns overtopped the pretty little park or lawn, as it is familiarly called, at Tewksbury Centre last evening, making a picture rare to behold. It was the occasion of a lawn party under the auspices of the Tewksbury Grange. Here gathered the residents of the place with a sprinkling of out-of-town people and all seemed to unite as one happy family in enjoying themselves. After exchanging greetings some ate ice cream with its accompaniments, some walked about the green, listening to the strains of sweet melody from Atwood's orchestra, some joined with Dame Gossip in a quiet siesta in a little social chit-chat, others, the youngest portion, hied to a plot where the light of the Japanese lanterns did not reach and engaged in dancing and two cake-walks, the latter to the music of "Whistling Rufus" and "Smoky Mokes." Of course, the "dear mammas" would not approve of this had they known it and the participants felt at ease that they, like the orchestra could furnish a march if even a quiet one, "a stolen march" on supposed watchful guardians. The Sun reporter, however, observed the man in the moon peeping from the direction of Fairgrieves' store toward the dance plot, winking his eye, and moving along. The Sun reporter will later on tell what this wink of the gentleman in the planetary searchlight meant.

Of the other diversions, Dr. Downs, assisted by Mr. F. J. Flemings, both of Lowell, sent up three balloons, two of which were strikingly successful. The first was named after the master of the grange, Mr. Joel Richards and it soared majestically and was roundly cheered. The second bore the name of Mr. Charles Clark and it also was successful. The third, named for Mr. George W. Trull started out brilliantly, but the streamers landed in a tree and brought it down. It was cheered just the same for the people knew that its namesake was all right, and it was all right and it was only an unfortunate trick of the wind that caused its failure.

Atwood's orchestra of Lowell furnished a most excellent program of marches, waltzes, galops, two-steps and concert music. The mosquitoes were conspicuous by their absence, being cannonaded out of town by huge cannon crackers set off at regular intervals during the night.

Every one who attended was convinced when the evening was over, that lawn parties can be made most delightful occasions and that the members of Tewksbury Grange know how to make them so.

One of the most pleasing features of the evening was the refectory arrangements. A number of tables were spread upon the lawn and thirsty and hungry patrons were refreshed by liberal quantities of ice cream, cake and other toothsome dainties. Mr. John Trull attended to the dispensing of the ice cream and Mrs. S. P. Pike had charge of the cake. The waiters were Mrs. John Trull, Mrs. George E. Crosby, Mrs. James Long, Mrs. Charles French, Miss Bertha Long, and Messrs. Charles French and Elliott French.

The candy table was presided over by Mrs. George W. Trull and Miss Nellie French.

The lemonade table received liberal patronage being in charge of Misses Edith Davis and Theresa Small, who succeeded in disposing of large quantities of the cooling fluid by their enterprise.

The attendance was all that could be desired, many coming from North Tewksbury and Billerica in carriages, while Lowell had a good representation, many arriving on the cars, while the bicycle brigade was much in evidence. Much of the success of the affair is due to the efforts of Mr. George Trull, chairman of the committee, who was very energetic in looking after the various details. He was assisted by an efficient corps of aids consisting of Mrs. Samuel P. Pike, Miss Lizzie Rogers, Miss Nellie French and Messrs. Charles French, William Farmer, William Trull and W. Frost. The decorations were executed by George Bean and William Farmer.

The affair was surely a red letter night for Tewksbury and well took the place of the much-expected band concert which failed to materialize the night previous.

DOUBT CANNOT EXIST.

Investigation Will Only Strengthen the Proof We Give in Lowell.

There must be something stronger than imagination behind expressions of such representative citizens of Lowell as Mr. John C. Melloon, grocer and provision merchant at the corner of Bridge and 7th street, who says:

"In the spring of 1898 I was forced from severe pain in the back to procure Doan's Kidney Pills at Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store at the corner of Merrimack and Central streets and take a course of the treatment. It was speedily followed by absolute relief and up to date I have not had a symptom of a return."

A GOOD MOVEMENT in a watch is more to be desired than a handsome case, but when both can be had for a moderate price, why not get both?
We can sell you a watch of gold or silver in which beauty of exterior and accuracy of movement are combined, but the cost of which is more than reasonable.
Improved methods of manufacture and the increased skill and improved taste of the workman enable a much better watch to be made at a lower price than formerly. We have such a number and variety of these beautiful timepieces that it is impossible to describe them. A visit to the store can only do them justice.

TROLLEY PARTY

Under the Auspices of Westminster Church People

Two large electric cars, both "specials," left Merrimack square, last evening for Belle Grove, crowded even to standing room on the side and rear platforms. It was a trolley party under the auspices of the Westminster Presbyterian church, the popular pastor of which is Rev. Duncan A. MacPhie. The party was a merry one and though cramped for room in the cars took matters philosophically knowing that when it reached the destination, Siesta Cottage, that the excursionists would have a jolly good time and this verily proved the case. Mrs. MacDougall, proprietress of the cottage and her courteous assistants received the Lowellians with the right hand of good fellowship and made everything pleasant for them even to furnishing one of those excellent repasts for which she is noted. An orchestra was in attendance furnishing an enjoyable concert program and dancing was among other pleasing diversions of the happy occasion. The return was made at a reasonable hour. The successful affair was in charge of the following efficient committee of arrangements: Miss Sadie Ready, Messrs. Joseph Leach and Alix Johnston. The object of the party was to defray expenses for repairs to the church now undergoing completion and quite a large sum was realized. The trolley party many would like to have repeated later on.

THIS WONDERFUL WOMAN WAS THE PIONEER OF WOMEN'S RIGHTS IN AMERICA; SHE IS DESCRIBED BY SUSAN B. ANTHONY AS "THE WOMAN ORATOR OF THE AGE;" SHE HAS SWAYED THOUSANDS WITH THE POWER OF HER INTELLECT AND THE SWEETNESS AND STRENGTH OF A VOICE HENRY WARD BEECHER DESCRIBED AS "SILVERY BELLS."

MRS. ELIZABETH CADY STANTON, WHO, AT THE AGE OF EIGHTY-FOUR, WRITES A VIGOROUS LETTER OF ADVICE TO OUR WOMEN READERS.

HOW TO GROW OLD GRACEFULLY.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton Discloses the Secret of a Happy and Healthy Old Age.

The answer involves a primal question as to the starting point. How to reach the end of a ten-mile walk depends upon the vigor with which one started, the state of the road, the weather, the companions and the object of the journey.

So it is in life.

With two generations of ancestors with sound minds in sound bodies, with the advantages of good society and thorough education, one is well equipped for health and happiness and success in life.

What a good foundation is to a fine edifice, that is birth and education to character, though great souls now and then appear to rise superior to all disadvantages.

I attribute my vigorous old age in part to advantageous circumstances, in part to a happy, hopeful temperament, a keen sense of humor, sympathies for all my fellow beings and a deep interest in all the vital questions of the hour.

One must have an earnest purpose in life, beyond personal ambition and family aggrandizement.

Self-centered characters do not possess the necessary elements of a high development.

If one would have a happy old age, the first condition is a sound body; to that end we all know that exercise, diet, dress, sanitary conditions, are all important.

Born on the hills in Fulton County, 400 feet above the Mohawk Valley, I enjoyed pure air to start with. With walks of five or ten miles, and rides on horseback of many more, oftimes before breakfast; skating, coasting, sleigh-riding with boys as well as girls, for in our old academies we had coeducation everywhere, we enjoyed abundant means for fun and frolic.

In those days the languages and mathematics were not thought to be too strong intellectual pabulum for girls. Five years in all my studies and plays in the constant companionship of boys, I count as one of the happiest periods of my girlhood.

Thus the girls acquired strength, courage and self-assertion, and the boys courtesy, refinement and self-control.

Thus youth passed with comparative freedom, and the foundation was laid for health and intellectual development.

Wifehood and motherhood brought their duties, without the usual disabilities that feeble women, ignorant of the laws of health, endure. Nature does her best at all periods of woman's life to make each change one of added health and happiness.

Those obedient to her laws rejoice in every step from youth to age. Fifty is the heyday of her intellectual life. Then the vital forces used in reproduction are garnered in the brain, giving new ideas and adding force, clearness and beauty to thought. There comes eloquence of expression, and she finds a wider field for her sympathies. She has new interests in the great world which is the future home of her children, in which she is now to labor to make it fit for them to live in.

Now the wise woman sees she has new duties in the state, to build up a government for the benefit of the whole people. She has duties in the church to save her children from all the harrowing superstitions that have so long oppressed the human mind. This work finds her able to meet it.

This is a hasty picture of my life; and now, in my eighty-fourth year, life is as sweet to me as ever. I have no pains or aches, no regrets or forebodings for myself; all my sorrows are for the troubles of others.

My philosophy is to live in the present; regrets for the past are vain, the page is turned, there is no remedy for what is done. As to the future, anxieties are equally vain; we do not know what one day will bring forth; what we hope or fear may never occur; the present is all that is ours.

It is the general opinion that with age must come decrepitude, that its inevitable accompaniments are wigs and spectacles, ear trumpets and false teeth, weak knees, asthma, neuralgia and rheumatism.

This is by no means the case.

I know sound old gentlemen on the shady side of eighty, that read without spectacles, whose hearing is as keen as a rabbit's, who can walk as briskly as most men of forty, and have as keen a zest as ever in all there is in life worth enjoying.

One of the most celebrated dancing masters in Western New York, Mr. Copleigh, played on his violin and danced as lightly as a boy of sixteen long after he was seventy years old.

I have no doubt, if we kept up gymnastic exercises and diligent rubbing every day, we should retain our suppleness of limb and motion to a good old age.

I suppose the time will never come when women or men either will delight in crow's feet, wrinkles or gray hairs, but the time will come—aye, and now is—when they will view these blemishes as but a petty price to pay for the joy of added wisdom, for the deeper joy of closer contact with humanity, and for the deepest joy of worthy work well done.

THE PLAN FOR A COLLAR AND DEEP REVER AS DRAWN BY OUR ARTIST UNDER THE DIRECTION OF A FASHIONABLE NEW YORK TAILOR.

GETTING READY.

And if our senses are not so keen as in youth, our spiritual eyes behold the unfolding of many glories we never saw before. We hear the music in the air, the harmonies of nature unheeded in the early days, and the interior life grows brighter as the years roll on, the horizon of thought broadens, new vistas open to unknown paths, we see visions and dream dreams of celestial harmony and happiness, and of the complete fulfillment of all our earth-born plans and purposes.

They are begun in youth in doubt and weakness, but finished at last in faith and victory.

"For age is opportunity no less,
Than youth itself, though in another dress;
And as the evening twilight fades away
The sky is filled with stars invisible by day."

HOW TO MAKE A SHIRT WAIST.

Our Artist Draws Diagrams of Very Pretty New Collars and Revers for Wash Waists.

REMODELLING A PLAIN ONE

A Useful Hint for the Woman who Wants Something Very Nice for Little Money.

BELTS, NECKTIES AND COLLARS.

New York, June 22.—"What is the greatest existing record of woman's progress?" demanded a woman lecturer at a popular club the other afternoon. "The shirt waist," whispered one of the audience, under her breath.

If she had stood up and shouted her answer aloud she would have only voiced the sentiment of every woman in the room, for not even the tailor-made suit was such an evolution or so strong a protest. It is well within the memory of every grown woman when the greatest concession a woman could make to summer time was a "wash" dress, made in close style, like her woolen gowns, boned, often lined, and finished in such a way that it never looked well after its bath.

Now the duck skirt, in all colors, provides a supply of street skirts ranging from white to black, and from heavy to light; and with these skirts which, by the way, really hang better after being suitably laundered, there can be worn such a variety of shirt waists that no woman, however fastidious, can refuse one.

SHIRT WAIST SUITS.

The latest dress wrinkle, in New York, is the shirt waist suit. A skirt of brilliant red pique trimmed with white braid is purchased at a price ranging from a dollar upward. With this skirt there is purchased a plain red lawn shirt waist, also one of white mull, another of red and white plaid gingham, a fourth of red pique with white insertion, a fifth of white pique worked with big red fleur de lis and a sixth of black linen figured in scarlet.

The "suit" is complete, no matter which waist is worn, and if, to the waists is added an all red hat, the result is quite stunning. As many or as few of these waists may be purchased as the pocketbook shall dictate.

THE GREEN AND WHITE.

The waist-to-match policy is carried out with the natural or tan linen skirt, with the blue, the black, the green and the white. You will be surprised, by following this line, to see how easily and inexpensively you can procure a summer wardrobe.

A word about laundry bills! A New York woman of some cleverness discovered that it was their neatness which made the Southern girls so attractive. Labor is cheap in the South and a Southern belle, of moderate means, thinks it no extravagance to wear a fresh white gown every day. It is certainly a woman's most effective toilette—a fresh gown—and laundry bills are well worth their total.

An enterprising summer girl has discovered that the life of a shirt waist can be prolonged away from the wash tub by pressing. The pique waist, after one wearing, is folded as in the shops—be sure to learn how to do this—and is placed under a weight until next day. To a confidential friend this clever girl admitted that her waists were laid between the mattresses, precisely as her brother pressed his trousers.

FINISH AND FIGURE.

The best finish for a shirt waist is the narrow white neckband upon which a collar is buttoned. Cuffs are of the waist material; avoid the shirt waists that have white cuffs attached. They soil a day ahead of the waist itself.

The "shirt waist figure," which changes each season, and which last year was very full just above the waist line, stunning out like a big puff, is high-busted and neat. There is a choice between the plain waist and the limited blouse, both being in vogue.

They have a way now of making the blouse waist so that it can be worn plain by simply drawing the fullness below the belt. The fashionable figure is rather full and must be broad across the chest by artifice if not by nature.

BELTS, BUCKLES, STOCKS.

Short-waisted persons can be comforted and assisted this year by the ribbon belt, which is in style. It is narrow and may match the waist. By matching the belt to waist a longer waist effect is obtained.

The tiniest buckles are worn upon the ribbon belts, and many women, upon economy bent, utilize handsome old buttons for the purpose. The button is sewed upon one end of the ribbon. The ribbon is drawn around the waist and pinned in place so as to show the big fancy button which acts as a finish. The neck ribbon is fastened in the same way.

Many are the soft white stocks, the chiffon bow tied in front being very becoming. A pretty bow and vest effect is obtained by tying a ribbon under the chin, leaving long ends. The ends are brought down to the waist line and tied in another big bow.

The advisability of making the shirt waist at home is still a discussed subject, the consensus of opinion being that it is cheaper and more satisfactory to buy.

COUNTERFEITING ELEGANCE.

If a really elegant waist is desired such a one as costs seven dollars and more at the best shops, a substitute can be obtained by buying a plain waist, of good cut, for one dollar or even less.

The waist can now be hemstitched at home, or trimmed with insertion or otherwise made valuable. Be sure, if you trim with insertion, to cut out the goods underneath, as the insertion, by some trick of color, looks much finer.

PEACH CAKE.

Make an ordinary cup cake. When cold cut the cake in half, cover one-half with large, mellow peaches, which should be cut into fine slices, pour over a little peach syrup from a can of the fruit, put over the remaining half and dust the cake with fine sugar. Or pour over the following icing: Mix one cup of sifted powdered sugar with two tablespoonfuls boiling water and one teaspoonful lemon juice, stir until smooth, pour the icing over the cake and let stand till cold.

PATTERN FOR A VERY SMART COLLAR AND REVER CUT IN TWO PIECES WITH SEAM IN THE MIDDLE OF THE BACK. THIS DIAGRAM CAN BE ENLARGED TO FIT THE NECK OF THE GOWN.

A HINT FOR THE HOME NEEDLE.

With Thread, Wire and Paste-Pot the Ingenious Woman can Manufacture a Becoming Summer Light.

It is the season of the year when gas is intolerable and electric light, even if obtainable, is trying and calls mosquitoes. Why not, then, resort to that beauty maker of our grandmothers, the candle, which, while it reveals, softens and discloses with smiles without the lines.

The candle of commerce these days is a joy. Unlike the "dip," it is hard and even pleasant to the fingers. By describing what you want to your grocer you can obtain a candle that positively will not drip, and which, as it burns slowly away, leaves only a slight disfiguration upon its receding sides. But beware of the candle that drips its wax freely; it brings ruin.

After the candle comes the candle shade, which can be home-made. The frames are necessary and can be purchased cheaply; or, better still, buy one for a pattern and imitate it in wire.

The stick itself can be managed in the same way. If there is not an old candelabra in the family, any dealer in artist's materials will sell you the wire framework, which can be bent to form great ornamental candelabra.

A very artistic woman recently took an old bronze stork which for years had perched upon the family mantel and attached a framework of bent wire to its wings and head, as though the stork were holding the framework in its bill. To the framework she fitted candlesticks, and into these she set the candles and fitted shades to them. The whole was intended for a dining-table ornament.

Heavy brocaded silk makes a very pretty shade, pasted upon a paper foundation. And there now come very decorative wall papers that can be used for candle shades. Half a yard of wall paper will make several shades, all varied as different parts of the pattern are used.

Silk ruffles are used to trim paper shades, and silk flowers are also used. The combination of silk and paper is always good. The woman who values her good looks these hot nights will not forget the kind colors thrown by the charitable rose candle shade, and will provide herself with them.

A NEW WOMAN IN THE OLD WORLD.

Although a New York Syndicate is Said to be Negotiating for the Lakes of Killarney Rumor Still Declares That They are to be Given to Mrs. Howard Gould.

A recent dispatch from Dublin says that Howard Gould is negotiating for the purchase of the Lakes of Killarney, and that the purchase price is to be $300,000. The lakes are intended, it is said, as a gift to Mrs. Howard Gould, the beautiful young bride of the multi-millionaire, and are to be used by her as a summer home.

The purchase of the Lakes of Killarney was regarded at first as a joke, but upon reflection it was agreed that nothing more beautiful could gladden the heart of a woman. To own this beautiful locality as one's own, and to be able to walk "by Killarney's lakes and dells," without molestation, would fulfill the wildest dream of a woman's heart.

The land about Killarney does not exceed 100,000 acres, many of which are wooded lands that cannot be cultivated; others are dells that are approachable only by ladders of stone, very picturesque but not valuable to the Irish farmer. The offer, therefore, of a lump sum for that section of the country would be gladly received by the farmer.

Mrs. Howard Gould, the young woman who has such a gift within reach, is one of the most beautiful women that ever lived. Her hair is so light that it is almost silver, and her figure is slenderness itself. She has a beautiful voice and for years her favorite song has been the famous "Killarney." It was at a yachting dinner off the coast of England that Mrs. Gould was asked to sing this song for her guests. At the conclusion some one suggested that Mr. Gould should purchase the Lakes of Killarney for his wife, a suggestion which was eagerly received by Mrs. Gould and which at once engaged the attention of Mr. Gould. Before the day was over it is said that he had begun negotiations.

Mrs. Gould is likewise an accomplished woman. From being an office assistant in California she raised herself to the stage and achieved some success as an actress in England. It is noteworthy that, while in small theatres she "brought down the house," in large theatres she was less successful. This was said to be on account of her great beauty, which swayed the audience, if within range of her varied expression.

Mrs. Howard Gould did not have to assist a young husband in his poverty. Married beyond the dreams of avarice, she has been able to gratify every whim of an artistic woman. Christmas she dispensed 2,500 dinners to poor children near Five Points, New York, and later she entertained the children of the employees of the hotel at which she lives when in town.

Mrs. Gould owns the finest yacht in the world, the Niagara. She possesses the most expensive fan, an exquisite hand-painted affair. She is building the greatest mansion in New York, in which she will, it is whispered, establish a wonderful salon for artistic people. And now she may soon own the Lakes of Killarney.

It is a remarkable fact that all the Gould men have married wives of high intelligence. Miss Katharine Clemmons was undoubtedly a brilliant as well as a beautiful woman; her fencing alone would entitle her to the name of athlete. Miss Edith Kingdon, the wife of George Gould, would have made a great theatrical star had she remained in Daly's company. And Miss Shrady, daughter of Dr. Shrady, who married Edwin Gould, while too young at the time to show pronounced ability, has since been quite remarkable for the promotion of country sports, her efforts in this line having been the making of the now famous Ardsley.

If Mrs. Howard Gould accepts the Lakes of Killarney as a gift, she will maintain a game preserve and will subdivide the entire acreage into farms, upon which there will live thrifty tenants, who, instead of paying rent, will be paid monthly wages for taking care of the property. Surely an innovation in Ireland!

Meanwhile, as a home reform, Mrs. Gould is endeavoring, it is quietly said, to secure elevators for the passengers of the elevated railroads, who now must climb long flights of stairs.

A VERY EASY WAY TO MAKE A SEAMLESS YOKE FOR THE NECK OF ANY WASH WAIST; PLAID GOODS MAY BE CUT IN THE BACK IN ORDER TO FIT THE STRIPE NEATLY.

GETTING A PHOTOGRAPH.

It is one thing to say, "Go to a good photographer." But the photographer cannot do all. The woman must have previously dressed herself well and arranged her hair prettily or the photographer will be helpless.

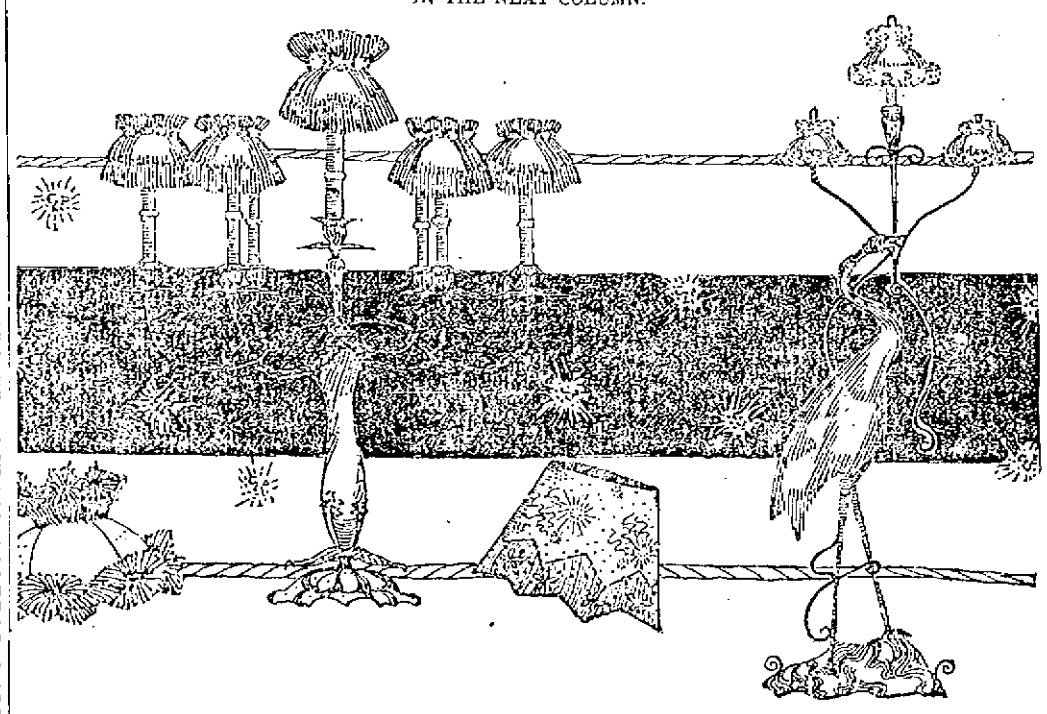

The hair should be very loosely arranged. Remember that small curls "take" well. All sorts of small articles look pretty in a picture. The bracelet, the ring, the careless curl, the tiny court-plaster which in real life may be in questionable taste, are positively charming in a photograph.

A very graceful effect is invariably produced by draping the head. A very long scarf of white crepon drapes the head well. Let it be fastened upon the front of the gown and carried over the head like a shawl. The other end can be brought carelessly down over the left shoulder, as a Spanish mantilla. The draper will do this for you. You on your part need only dress in white with a rounded or decollette neck and short sleeves. If the neck be high, and the sleeves long, the draped effect can be obtained by gathering the scarf a little closer around the head as though one wore an evening dress for the opera. There are countless varieties of the draped photograph, all of which are good.

THE MAKING OF CANDLE SHADES IS SUCH A DAINTY FEMININE OCCUPATION THAT IT CAN BE PICKED UP AT ODD TIMES; WIRES ARE BENT AND SILK IS SHIRRED OVER THEM WITH VERY DECORATIVE RESULTS; READ THE DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING CANDLE SHADES IN THE NEXT COLUMN.

TEWKSBURY PARK

Was Illuminated Brilliantly Last Night

SCENE OF THE GRANGE LAWN PARTY

Music and Baloon Ascension Among Attractions

Myriads of lighted lanterns overtopped the pretty little park or lawn, as it is familiarly called, at Tewksbury Centre last evening, making a picture rare to behold. It was the occasion of a lawn party under the auspices of the Tewksbury Grange. Here gathered the residents of the place with a sprinkling of out-of-town people and all seemed to unite as one happy family in enjoying themselves. After exchanging greetings some ate ice cream with its accompaniments, some walked about the green, listening to the strains of sweet melody from Atwood's orchestra, some joined with Dame Gossip in a quiet siesta in a little social chit-chat, others, the youngest portion, hied to a plot where the light of the Japanese lanterns did not reach and engaged in dancing and two cake-walks, the latter to the music of "Whistling Rufus" and "Smoky Mokes." Of course, the "dear mammas" would not approve of this had they known it and the participants felt at ease that they, like the orchestra could furnish a march if even a quiet one, "a stolen march" on supposed watchful guardians. The Sun reporter, however, observed the man in the moon peeping from the direction of Fairgrieves' store toward the dance plot, winking his eye, and moving along. The Sun reporter will later on tell what this wink of the gentleman in the planetary searchlight meant.

Of the other diversions, Dr. Downs, assisted by Mr. F. J. Flemings, both of Lowell, sent up three balloons, two of which were strikingly successful. The first was named after the master of the grange, Mr. Joel Richards and it soared majestically and was roundly cheered. The second bore the name of Mr. Charles Clark and it also was successful. The third, named for Mr. George W. Trull started out brilliantly, but the streamers landed in a tree and brought it down. It was cheered just the same for the people knew that its namesake was all right, and it was all right and it was only an unfortunate trick of the wind that caused its failure.

Atwood's orchestra of Lowell furnished a most excellent program of marches, waltzes, galops, two-steps and concert music. The mosquitoes were conspicuous by their absence being cannonaded out of town by huge cannon crackers set off at regular intervals during the night.

Every one who attended was convinced when the evening was over, that lawn parties can be made most delightful occasions and that the members of Tewksbury Grange know how to make them so.

One of the most pleasing features of the evening was the refectory arrangements. A number of tables were spread upon the lawn and thirsty and hungry patrons were refreshed by liberal quantities of ice cream, cake and other toothsome dainties. Mr. John Trull attended to the dispensing of the ice cream and Mrs. S. P. Pike had charge of the cake. The waiters were Mrs. John Trull, Mrs. George E. Crosby, Mrs. James Long, Mrs. Charles French, Miss Bertha Long, and Messrs. Charles French and Elliott French.

The candy table was presided over by Mrs. George W. Trull and Miss Nellie French.

The lemonade table received liberal patronage being in charge of Misses Edith Davis and Theresa Small, who succeeded in disposing of large quantities of the cooling fluid by their enterprise.

The attendance was all that could be desired, many coming from North Tewksbury and Billerica in carriages, while Lowell had a good representation, many arriving on the cars, while the bicycle brigade was much in evidence. Much of the success of the affair is due to the efforts of Mr. George Trull, chairman of the committee, who was very energetic in looking after the various details. He was assisted by an efficient corps of aids consisting of Mrs. Samuel P. Pike, Miss Lizzie Rogers, Miss Nellie French and Messrs. Charles French, William Farmer, William Trull and W. Frost. The decorations were executed by George Bean and William Farmer.

The affair was surely a red letter night for Tewksbury and well took the place of the much-expected band concert which failed to materialize the night previous.

TROLLEY PARTY

Under the Auspices of Westminister Church People

Two large electric cars, both "specials," left Merrimack square, last evening for Belle Grove, crowded even to standing room on the side and rear platforms. It was a trolley party under the auspices of the Westminster Presbyterian church, the popular pastor of which is Rev. Duncan A. MacPhie. The party was a merry one and though crammed for room in the cars took matters philosophically knowing that when it reached the destination, Siesta Cottage, that the excursionists would have a jolly good time and this verily proved the case. Mrs. MacDougall, proprietress of the cottage and her courteous assistants received the Lowellians with the right hand of good fellowship and made everything pleasant for them even to furnishing one of those excellent repasts for which she is noted. An orchestra was in attendance furnishing an enjoyable concert program and dancing was among other pleasing diversions of the happy occasion. The return was made at a reasonable hour. The successful affair was in charge of the following efficient committee of arrangements: Miss Sadie Ready, Messrs. Joseph Leach and Alix Johnston. The object of the party was to defray expenses for repairs to the church now undergoing completion and quite a large sum was realized. The trolley party many would like to have repeated later on.

FOURTH PARADE.

The Time and Route Has Been Changed

THE MUSTER COMMITTEE HEARD FROM.

First General Orders of the Chief Marshal.

The Fourth of July committee held another meeting in city hall last night and by the action taken, things are back to where they were about a week ago. The important items of business were the changing of hour and route of parade and time of firemen's muster.

The parade will form at 9 o'clock on the North common. The sub-committee on parade acted promptly in the matter making the change not only in time, but in the route of the parade for the announcement of the line of march previously called forth several suggestions in the interest of various sections of the city.

The first general order for the parade was written last night and is as follows:

General Order, No. 1.

June 23, 1899.

The parade will start at 9 a. m., July Fourth.

The route will be as follows: Form on North common, march to Fletcher, to Pawtucket, to Merrimack, to Bridge, to Sixth, to Read, to Fifth, to Bridge, to Merrimack, to Central, to Davis square review and dismiss.

By Order,
—BUTLER AMES,
Chief Marshal.
—CHARLES H. KIMBALL,
Chief of Staff.

There will be three grand stands built in front of the city hall. The expense of building these stands, which may amount to $100, has worried the committee a little and it was proposed at first that only one stand, for the members of the city council, be erected; but the matter will be arranged in some manner. Two years ago the lands and buildings department built large reviewing stands for the committee and then sent in the customary bill, but it was not paid.

The firemen's muster will begin on the North common at 1.30 o'clock on the Common street side.

When the question of music was under consideration, the sub-committee reported that five bands had been engaged and would, it was believed, prove sufficient.

Mr. Sturtevant reported that this included the Military Band which was only engaged for the parade at a cost of $75. This was because the band was engaged at the Fair Grounds for the rest of the day. It was later stated that Mr. James A. Murphy, the leader, refused the offer of the committee on music.

It was stated that the Lawrence battery had been engaged to fire salutes of 21 guns at morning and night and 45 at noon for $67 and expenses. The battery will arrive on the "night before," and be entertained at the American house.

The sub-committee on bell ringing and salutes had not made any arrangements for the ringing of bells because it did not have the money. Upon Mr. Sturtevant's suggestion, $20 was transferred from the music to the bell ringing account.

The children's entertainments as has been stated, will be given in the Opera House. There will be a varied program and the children will have the full service of the theatre.

Fourth of July committees always have badges. Mr. Hogan and Alderman Chapin are a special committee to arrange a badge for this year.

The citizens will be asked to decorate their houses and places of business and notices to that effect will be published in the newspapers.

Two associations of veteran firemen have been heard from officially and four unofficially as intending to take part in the parade and muster.

A LIVELY GAME

Boston Defeated the Pirates 4 to 2

LEWIS PITCHED GREAT BALL.

Collins Played Well at Third Base.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PITTSBURG, June 24.—Although the ride from Chicago was a long and sultry one, the champions, who reached the city shortly after noon yesterday, appeared at exposition park full of life and confidence and defeated the pirates 4 to 2.

Manager Seelee said he feared the ride and the terrible heat would make his men stale, but in this he was happily disappointed, for the champions played good ball and won handily. They clearly outplayed the Pittsburgs, in addition to which Donovan's men were clearly outgeneralled.

Lewis, who has been indulging in a rest, was selected to do the pitching for Boston and right well did he perform his part. Eight hits was all the locals could secure, and these for the most part were badly scattered. Tannehill, Pittsburg's best pitcher, was on the rubber but his delivery did not seem to have any terrors for Boston.

There were several pretty plays made during the game. Collins, as usual, came in for considerable applause by reason of a regular three-ringed circus stop of a sizzling grounder. Frisbie, too, was in the game long enough to demonstrate his fitness for the position he has been called upon to fill. He was taken out, not on account of any bad playing but because Manager Selee thought a right hand batsman would be more likely to land on one of Tannehill's benders just when a hit was needed and Selee was right.

The change was made in the seventh inning. Collins had been disposed of when Duffy hit safely to middle field, and went all the way to third, when McCreery permitted the ball to pass beyond him. Frisbie then came to bat and had swung at two of Tannehill's outcurves when Manager Selee took him out and sent Jimmie Stafford to bat.

The fact that he entered the contest heavily handicapped did not seem to bother Stafford in the least, for the very first ball sent up by Tannehill he landed on for a single, sending Duffy over the plate with the run that placed Boston in the lead.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Pittsburg	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	0—2

Earned runs, Pittsburg 2, Boston 3. Two-base hit, McCarthy. Three-base hit, Madison. Sacrifice hit, McCarthy. Stolen base, Williams. Double play, Ely, O'Brien and Clark 2. First on balls off Lewis. Struck out, by Lewis 3. Time 2h. Umpires, Lynch and Connolly.

Louisville 8; Washington 3.
Cincinnati 8, Baltimore 3.
Chicago 3, Brooklyn 2.
New York 8, Cleveland 2.

ALSO DELIVERED AN ADDRESS.

Rev. Dr. Horton of Boston Also Spoke.

The Unitarian church in Westford was crowded to its utmost capacity yesterday, when the commencement exercises of Westford academy took place.

The fact that Hon. John D. Long, secretary of the navy, was present and addressed the gathering, gave additional interest to the occasion. The interior of the church was handsomly trimmed with beautiful roses, blossoms, and mounds of foliage. In the rear of the platform was a large ground work of palm leaves with the inscription: "Festina Lente," the class motto. The program was as follows:

Addresses by Hon. John D. Long and Rev. W. D. Horton, D.D.

Conferring of diplomas.

Hon. John D. Long.

"America."

Supt. Thomas presented Hon. John D. Long, who was greeted with loud applause. He said:

"I assure you it is worth a much longer journey than I have taken to be with you here today. To come into the heart of Massachusetts and see the familiar orchards under this balmy June sky is a poem in itself. I regret that for the last four years I have been unable to be with you as I had in the previous years, but every June when I received the invitation from the trustees, my heart turned towards old Westford and to its pleasant memories and old associations. I cannot witness such exercises as these without recalling the past. I come with the accumulation of rich memories of the high minded and good men and women who made this academy what it is today, where is possible the best development for the cultivation of the moral and intellectual mind. Some one has said that the happiest time in life are the school days. They are happy but they should not be the happiest. The later days should be the happiest days because in addition to one's own happiness he has accumulated the happiness of others. It is a good thing to lay up riches, but the best things to lay up are riches of the mind, such as the students are getting here. Education is not merely a training of the mind, but a cultivation of the refining influences of the moral nature. These graduates will go out into this life of toil as sources of refinement but they should not forget the value of material things. If we devoted ourselves merely to the sentimental side, we could not have such institutions as this. Some one must do the hard work of digging the soil, and building the structure. You are going out, graduates, into the world around you; but you must not be misled by the inspiration of this graduation day. You will find the world a world of toil and hard work. It is made up of all sorts of elements, all working for one common end, the betterment of the world and the advance of civilization.

The scholar will find opportunity to apply his education and refinement in anything be it in a profession or upon the farm. Those are riches which can never leave you or be spirited away by thieves. In conclusion may I not ask you, as a representative of the government to remember as citizens, this, our common country and that the standard of the country will be whatever standard people like you can make it. "Our country, 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty."

Rev. W. D. Horton, D.D., of Boston, a former instructor of the school, was introduced and spoke in part as follows:

"Here in Westford I feel at home; here I know what friendship means. Graduates, whatever you go into business or a profession, these three things are needed in America: conscience, chivalry and concentration. Conscience that you may treat your fellow man with equity; with a chivalric refinement of tastes; ready to succor those below you and to crown with culture whatsoever comes to your hand. Concentration is also essential. I believe that the thing needed today is a focus power, a purpose in life. With your talents, education and refinement you do not want simply to be good but to be good for something. Make a mark, not merely for fame, but for the benefit of mankind; be able to contribute your life and your life's ideal to your country's welfare. The question for us on the lower planes of life is not Shall our names be chiselled in immortal fame after we are gone but are we doing our duty by God, our country and mankind while we live?

Supt. Thomas made a brief address and then Secretary Long presented diplomas to the following graduates:

Latin-Scientific course, Mary Etta Gill and Blanche Katharine Gurney; English course, George Warren Butterworth, William Joseph Charlton, John Henry Decatur, Jr., Guy Roberts Decatur and Ida Florence Hartford.

CAPT. FAIRWEATHER, Commander of the Spanish War Veterans.

A rousing meeting of the Spanish Veterans was held last night and officers were chosen. Steps were taken toward the formation of a strong organization and preparations made for a feature in the Fourth of July parade. Lieut. Lewis G. Hunton presided and a nominating committee presented the following list of officers:

Commander, Lieut. Kittredge; vice commander, Lieut. McNulty; adjutant, Frank Parks; treasurer, Lieut. Rose; financial secretary, Sergt. McNamara; recording secretary, Howard Caldwell; quartermaster, Sergt. Boyle.

Messrs. Murphy, Gear and Hunt were appointed to nominate a second list to be balloted for. Privates Howe, Boucher and Sansam were appointed a committee to count ballots. The second list introduced Capt William Fairweather as a candidate with Lieut. Kittredge for commander. Others on the list were: Vice commander, Lieut. McNulty; adjutant, Sergt. Clogston; treasurer, Lieut. Rose; financial secretary, Sergt. McNamara; recording secretary, Sergt. Howard Caldwell; quartermaster, Frank Boyle.

There being no opposition to Lieut. McNulty, Sergt. McNamara, Lieut. Rose, Sergt. Caldwell and Sergt. Boyle, the secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for them and they were declared elected.

The committee on ballots reported for the first count: Capt. Fairweather, 15; Lieut. Kittredge, 15. This did not constitute a majority for the captain and another ballot was taken. It resulted in: Capt. Fairweather, 16; Lieut. Kittredge, 14. The captain was then declared elected.

Mr. Murphy moved that the organization meet once every week. Voted.

Moved by Mr. Hunton that a committee of three to consist of the commander and two others be appointed to arrange for a meeting place and as to the night of meeting. Voted. Commander Fairweather, Lieut. McNulty and Mr. Leighton were appointed.

It was voted to arrange a float as a feature in the July 4 parade. Lieut. Hunton agreed to pay expenses up to $20 until refunded by the organization. It was decided that the organization turn out in Khakis.

The following committee on by-laws was appointed: Messrs. Gear, Bradley, Nichols, Leighton, Clogston, Maguire, Caldwell, Meehan, Weeks. It was announced that the mayor had agreed to allow the Spanish cannon to be carried on the float.

The following committee was appointed to arrange the July 4 feature: Messrs. Hunton, Murphy, Ball, Everett, Douglass.

CRANE-RILEY CASE

Motion Heard to Set Aside the Verdict.

Motion Alleges That the Foreman of the Jury Misconducted Himself and That The Sun With "Ridiculous Caricatures" of Mr. Riley Reached the Jury.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BOSTON, June 24.—Judge Bond in the Superior court today heard a motion in the breach of pormise case of Rose J. Crane vs. Patrick J. Riley, to set aside the $5000 verdict given to the plaintiff at Lowell last month and to grant a new trial.

The motion in addition to other specifications alleged that the foreman misconducted himself during the progress of the case by talking with one Charles F. Scribner of Chelmsford about the case on the second day of the trial and that a copy of the Lowell Sun of May 5 containing a "gross and ridiculous pictorial caricature of the defendant in connection with its account of the trial" got into the jury room and was commented upon by members of the jury.

The judge took the motion under advisement.

The Charity Parties Prove Grand Successes

Another Version of the Tragic Death of the Crown Prince of Austria—A Lady Pays $50 for a Cocktail.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONDON, June 24.—The Queen arrived at Windsor Castle, Friday, after spending a month at Balmoral Castle, Scotland, where the weather enabled her to enjoy constant driving, for the benefit of her health.

Great preparations are being made at Aldershot Camp for the review of the troops by Her Majesty, Monday. Most of the princes and princesses will be present.

ROYALTIES IN EVIDENCE.

Royalties were much in evidence during the past week. The Queen and the Prince of Wales won a number of prizes for horses and cattle at the Royal Agricultural Society's show at Maidstone Kent while almost daily members of the royal family have been engaged in advancing the cause of charity, opening bazaars and sales of needlework or giving garden fetes.

ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED.

Tuesday, the anniversary of Her Majesty's ascension to the throne in 1837 was a specially busy day. The Duke of Connaught reviewed the Yeomen of the Guard at Buckingham Palace. It was a brilliant society function, the royalties, Mr. Henry White, secretary of the United States embassy Mr. Carter, second secretary, and Mrs. Carter; Col. Samuel S. Sumner, the United States military attache, and Mrs. Sumner, and Lieut. Colwell, the United States naval attache, and Mrs. Colwell being among those present.

CHARITY PARTIES.

The Duchess of Albany's garden party, held in behalf of charity was the rendezvous of most of the fashionable people, including the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Marquis and Marchioness of Salisbury, Duke and Duchess of Marlboro, Lord and Lady Mount-Stephen, Lady William Beresford, Lord and Lady Strathcona and Mount Royal and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Carnegie.

Princess Christian's sale of work from the royal school of art needlework, Monday and subsequent days, was a great success. Many distinguished persons were among the sales people, including some Americans, Lady Derbnuss and Mesdames Bonynge and Bradley-Martin.

The Albert Hall bazaar, however in aid of the fund of the Charing Cross hospital, was the crowning charitable function of the season. The receipts were over $60,000. The flower stall, where the Duchess of Marlborough and Mrs. Paget were active, took in $2,000 and the American stall of Mesdames Mackay, Ronalds, Bradley-Martin, and Lady Randolph Churchill, netted $1500. Mrs. Brown Potter says a thousand drinks were sold and the tips to the ladies dispensing them aggregated $600. The greatest success of the bazaar was the American bar at which Lady Hesketh and Lady Anglesey and Mrs. Frank Mackay all Americans, assisted Mrs. Brown Potter. But the chief attraction of the bar was an array of smart young men in white bar-dress customary in America, but quite a novelty over here. They included the Duke of Manchester, Lord Yarmouth, Lord Vivian, Lord Edward Somerset, Lord Henry Somerset and Mr. Ralph Pulitzer. They were all in much demand by fashionable customers and received large tips; one lady presenting the Duke of Manchester with a £10 note ($50) in payment for a cocktail, telling him to "keep the change."

A SUCCESSFUL SEASON.

The season, on the whole is proving most successful and the shopkeepers and dress-makers are jubilant. They say they were never so busy late in the season as during the present year, one reason given being the extremely fragile character of the dress materials which are now fashionable. Instead of dresses lasting a season, as usual, ladies are obliged to have entirely new outfits in the middle of the season.

The lavish entertainments of past seasons have been surpassed this season and the sums paid to singers and pianists for private entertainments are fabulous. Madame Melba is booked for eleven private parties at which she receives about $2,100 each. Mrs. Harmsworth has issued invitations to a party early in July at which Paderewski, Melba, Susan Strong and Coquelin will all perform.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL.

The pressure of applications for admission to the International Council of Women to open June 26 and last until July has been so great that it was found necessary to change the place of meeting to the large convocation hall of Church House. An interesting feature will be the attendance of the Chinese delegates. The Countess of Aberdeen, the president of the council, has been notified by the Chinese minister of the appointment of the wife of Shen, an attache of the Chinese legation, as an official delegate. She will be accompanied by an interpreter and two other Chinese ladies and will be attended by Dr. Kang, who took a medical degree in America and Miss Kang. A number of American women of all professions will be in attendance.

BARONESS' VIEWS.

Baroness Von Suttner, who has taken an active part in the work of the council, has just arrived here from The Hague. She said to a representative of the Associated Press, yesterday evening:

"I am most hopeful of practical results from the peace conference. I have already won notable support in Austria, but it is to the great country beyond the sea that we look as the mighty propagandist of peace. I deplore as do so many Americans themselves, the necessity of appealing to arms last year. But we are not a peace-at-any-price people. We believe a righteous call to arms is still a necessity of the age, but it is impossible for me to believe that there will be any future great resort to arms among civilized people. After the splendid awaking of the Czar and with the Anglo-Saxons in the van of the movement, nothing in that direction is impossible."

CROWN PRINCE'S DEATH.

Every now and then, new versions of the tragic death of the Crown Prince of Austria are published and they always attract interest. The West End now asserts that it has obtained the true story of the tragedy of Prince Rudolph's death, gathered from an undeniable course. This version of the affair says:

As is well known, the crown prince deeply loved the Baroness Marie Vetsera. He wrote a letter to the Pope, praying for a dispensation and intercession with the emperor to allow him to relinquish his title to the throne and retire into private life. The Pope sent a letter to Emperor Francis Joseph and an agonizing interview between the father and son followed and lasted all night long. Finally, Rudolph promised to give up the baroness and the lovers met at Rudolph's shooting box at Mayerling for a last farewell. The company at dinner included Prince Philip of Coburg and Count Hoyos. The wine passed freely and the evening was passed in singing and laughter though it was remarked that the gaiety of Prince Rudolph and Baroness Marie Vetsera seemed forced. Toward one o'clock in the morning the baroness complained of being ill and retired to her bedroom. At two, after having consumed almost a decanter of brandy, Rudolph bade his friends goodnight, and entered the baroness' bedroom. The next morning, Rudolph's confidante, Braitlach, knocked at the door and there was no response. He then entered, staggered back and fainted at the ghastly sight. Lying on the sofa, completely covered with wild flowers, lay Vetsera, dead. Alongside her lay her lover, Rudolph, clutching a heavy calalry pistol, the back of his head shot off. A doctor was summoned and his evidence refutes the statement that the lovers died together. He certified that the baroness died at one o'clock from strychnine poisoning and that Rudolph died at two from a pistol shot. The baroness left four letters, addressed to the Emperor Francis-Joseph, her mother, her cousin, Baltazzi, and the Prince Rudolph. The latter was the direct cause of the crown prince's suicide. Grief-stricken at the sight of the dead woman, he found at her bedside a pencilled note wet with tears, as follows:

"My Own Beloved Rudolph: I die because I cannot live without you. You promised to make me your wife, but you have broken your word. I forgive you. If you love me, come, follow me."

The note is now in the possession of Emperor Francis Joseph. Baroness Vetsera's body was not removed to Venice, as has been asserted. It was buried in a little monastery, near Mayerling, with nothing to mark the grave."

The success predicted for Nat Goodwin in "An American Citizen" seems to have been realized. Crowded houses are the rule at the Duke of York's theatre. Although another month of the opera season remains, many of the principal singers have departed. Jean de Reszke had an enthusiastic farewell Wednesday. He has decided not to go to America, but for the season opening in San Francisco, October 2. Maurice Grau has secured Calve, Nordica, Edouard de Reszke, Van Dyke, Bispham and Pol Plancon.

McALEER—The funeral of the late Joseph McAleer, an old and highly esteemed resident of Lowell, took place this forenoon from St. Peter's church and was very largely attended by the older residents of the city being well represented. A requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Edward F. Saunders. The choir, under the direction of Mr. James E. Donnelly, rendered the Gregorian chant. At the offertory the "Pie Jesu," by Leybuch was feelingly rendered and at the conclusion of mass the "De Profundis" psalm for the dead was sung by Director Donnelly. As the remains were being conveyed from the church the hymn "Nearer, My God, to Thee," was sung by the choir. The funeral cortege which followed the remains to the Catholic cemetery comprised over twenty carriages and besides a large number of representative people walked in procession to the grave. The interment was in charge of Undertaker McDermott, and the pall bearers were Frank McCluskey, Thomas King, Edward O'Connor, James Burns and Thomas and John Quinn. A wreath of garlex leaves from the family was the only floral tribute as it was the family's request that no flowers be sent.

The Democrats of Kentucky Get Together

STONE AND GOEBEL DELEGATES SEATED.

Con. Hardin Withdrew From Gubernatorial Race

AND ASKED SUPPORT FOR NOMINEE.

Judge Redwine Named for Chairman.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 24.—After three days of waiting under temporary organization for the committee on credentials to dispose contests involving about a third of the whole delegate strength of convention, the Kentucky democrats heard the report of the committee today. Contests in 32 counties involving about 350 seats were disposed of. There were all decided in favor of Stone or Goebel delegates except in three cases. In two of these Hardin delegates were seated and in the other the delegation was divided.

Twenty minutes were allowed to each side for debate on the credentials' report. Many protests were made by representatives of unseated delegations and the family quarrels of county organizations were aired. Finally a call of the roll was reached, the question being the adoption of the minority report of the committee on credentials. The vote resulted: yeas, 328; nays, 441. The majority report of the convention was then unanimously adopted, both sides cheered and the first rays of harmony broke upon the convention after a week of wrangling and bitterness which several times threatened to result in a split.

The applause had barely subsided when General Hardin emerged from the crowd on the stage and started another demonstration. The time had come, he said, when an expression from him was necessary to the united party. With a few cordial words of thanks to his followers he announced his withdrawal from the race for governor and appealed earnestly for the undivided support of the party in behalf of the nominee.

The committee on organization then reported. It recommended the continuance of the temporary organization with Judge Redwine as chairman and it was unanimously adopted.

The report of the committee on resolutions was then read.

A NEW CABINET

Was Formed to Defend the Republic.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PARIS, June 24.—The cabinet has sent a circular to the prefects, saying that the new ministry has been formed to defend the public and that it puts aside all partisan feeling which example, it is pointed out, should be followed by the prefects. The latter are urged to inform the government promptly of all acts affecting respect of established institutions and public order and to be ready in case of need to act promptly on their own responsibility. The prefects are also warned to let by-gones be by-gones and to perform their duties with the utmost precision.

A SEALED VERDICT

Rendered by Jury in the Vaughn Case.

ROBERT VAUGHN.

Verdict Returned at 6 O'clock Last Evening—The Defense Was an Alibi—The Closing Scenes in the Healey Portion of the Case.

Promptly at 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning, court came in for the second day of the Vaughn case, and the first witness called was Bartholomew Scannell, Jr., of the firm of Scannell & Wholey, who testified that he locked the doors and windows of his father's office on the afternoon of March 4.

Inspector Lafiamme, recalled, testified that he had known the Vaughns for 12 years and they are brothers.

He was cross-examined by Lawyer Donahue as to his visit to the hospital with the Vaughns for the purpose of ascertaining if Officer Healy could identify them. The Vaughns, he said, were handcuffed, one to Inspector Allen and one to Inspector Donaldson. When in the room they were brought to the foot of Healey's bed.

"After we left the room," he continued, 'the elder Vaughn was handcuffed to me, and Inspector Allen went into the room. I don't know whether he closed the door. He was in with Healey two or three minutes, and then he came out. After he came out I went into Healey's room again with the taller Vaughn, and Healey looked at him. Healey said, 'Haven't I seen you before?' but Vaughn didn't answer. Healey said he thought he had seen him before. Healey did not say, 'They look more like the men than any one I've seen that I remember.' Healey said he would like to see them again and hear them talk.'"

SUPT. G. R. DAVIS.

Supt. G. R. Davis testified: "I had a conversation with Robert in the inspector's office on the night of his arrest. He sat with his finger over the cuspidore. It was bleeding and he said the officers shot him. He said he had been in Lowell three weeks. He declined to tell where he was on the Saturday night previous. I conversed with Olin Vaughn and he said that he was home the Saturday night previous. He said he had no brother, and when Robert Vaughn was shown to him, he said Robert was a stranger to him."

On cross-examination, witness was asked how many men he had arrested for this offence and upon the district attorney's objection, it was ruled out.

Continuing in the cross-examination witness said: "When Healey and Vaughn met in the guard room on the day of the trial they were together three or four minutes before they spoke. Vaughn spoke first. The Vaughns stood up all the time in the guard room. This was three weeks after Healey had seen the men at the hospital. I saw Healey about a dozen times at the hospital, but I only spoke of the case to him once."

Mr. Donahue's question as to whether any local papers with pictures of the Vaughns in them got into Healey's room, was excluded.

Supt. Davis further said: "When Vaughn and Healey met, Robert put out his hand and said, 'I hope you will not be prejudiced against me by what you have seen or heard.' Healey replied, 'you are the man who assaulted me, and I'll testify to the truth and nothing more.'"

This closed the government's case in the case against the Vaughns for assaulting Healey.

THE DEFENCE.

Lawyer Donahue then opened the case for the defence, saying: "There will be no attempt to deny that a very serious assault was committed upon Officer Healey but we propose to show by all the evidence we can that these boys were at home on the night of and the hour of that assault.

If you were placed in a similar position to the Vaughns you would immediately go to the place where you were at the time when the alleged crime took place for the evidence to show your innocence. And now we will go to the home of the Vaughns and bring in the family of the defendants and others to show that these boys were not there."

Ten witnesses were sworn for the defence, seven of them women.

THOMAS A. GREEN.

The first witness called was Thomas A. Green, the lamplighter who was a government witness in the lower court. He testified: "I was brought down to the police station, and taken into the cells by Inspector Allen. I saw the Vaughns, and when I came out, I spoke with Allen. I was at Scannell & Wholey's about midnight on the night of the assault. About one minute to 1 o'clock I heard the shots fired. When I was on Tanner street, before the shooting I saw three men going toward Scannell & Wholey's. It was very dark and misty. There are three lights on Tanner street, one almost directly in front of Scannell & Wholey's and an electric light about 250 yards from Cambridge. You can't see this light from Scannell & Wholey's In the lower court I had a talk with Healey in which he asked me if the lights were lit or out and I replied they were out.

"I pass Scannell & Wholey's every night that there is no moonlight. It was very dark that night. There is white clay in front of Scannell & Wholey's office. Later I was coming down Harvard street when I met Healey coming down the street, a boy holding his arm. Haley was weak and sat down. I asked him what had happened and he said that he had been shot. A hack then came along and I put Healey in it. I could not tell who the men were whom I saw. I heard Officer Healey say that the smaller man was nine yards away from him. Neither of them was as tall as Robert.

Cross-examined by district Attorney Wier witness again gave the locations. Of the lights in the vicinity. In front of Scannell & Wholey's is an office. I saw three men before I got to the last lights near Cambridge street. When I saw the first I was a few yards away. They came in the direction of Scannell & Wholey's. I afterward went to the police station to see them. I spoke with the chief regarding the men I had seen and I examined the men at the police station. I told the chief that the shorter of the Vaughns looked like the shortest of the party which I saw on Tanner street.

On re-direct examination, Mr. Green was shown several photographs of the streets he traversed.

PRISONER'S FATHER.

Olin Vaughn, Sr. father of the prisoner was then called and he testified: "I am the father of the prisoners and I have lived in Farrell & Conaton's building since the first of last December. I remember the night of the arrest. Olin was at home. On the Saturday night previous Olin was out on the street until 11 o'clock and then came in. His health was not good. My wife, my brother and the girls were there. His bedroom door is opposite mine and we heard him going to bed shortly before 12 o'clock and he did not go out up to the time I went to sleep."

On cross examination Mr. Vaughn said: "I hire five rooms on the second floor and all are connected but one. The two boys did not sleep together. Robert slept in the other part of the house in Miss Barker's tenement. The boys were not working at the time, I have one daughter. She has worked at dressmaking. I was working at the time but not steadily.

In the early winter I had worked in Boston, Robert had been home about three weeks when the trouble occurred."

"I don't remember if I worked on the Saturday in question. I remember having had breakfast, but I don't remember where I went after breakfast. I don't remember anything that happened that day up to five o'clock. I went home a little after four, and shortly before six my brother came up. Olie came up in the house just before my brother. After supper we read the papers and then went out about 8.30, and came in at half past ten. A few minutes after I came in, Ollo came in. My brother slept in Room 2. I looked at my clock when Olie went to bed because my wife said it was getting late. Olie is 19 years old and Robert 26. I knew that Olie was in bed at 12 o'clock that night.

"Robert had supper with us that night, coming in with Miss Backus and Miss Mooney. That night when we were talking, Olie asked about getting a chance to learn the bricklayers' trade.

"On Sunday morning I went to the bakeshop and heard that there had been an assault on an officer. The woman said it was in the papers."

When asked what paper it was in, witness replied that the woman in the bakeshop told him. His daughter was at home that night. She had been sleeping with a woman in Varnum's block periodically.

Redirectly examined: "Mrs. Hammond has the keys and the locking up of the building. There are no fire escapes and no means of getting out besides the stairs. My family have no keys to any of the doors that I know of."

Cross-examined: "My daughter, that night slept in the room usually occupied by Olie. Olie slept in a cot bed in the sitting room. When I went to bed she was in with Miss Backus. I didn't know she was going to sleep there until the next morning. Sometimes she slept at home in a cot bed, other times at Miss Backus, and again over at Miss Rourke's in Centralville.

"The next morning when I woke up I learned that my daughter and Miss Mooney slept in my tenement. When I got up I looked in the sitting room and saw Olie asleep in bed, his clothes on a chair. The sitting room opens into the hallway. All the outside doors have spring locks."

By Mr. Donahue: "I saw Robert Sunday. There were no marks on him or signs of anything unusual.

Recess.

MOTHER OF PRISONERS.

Mrs. Gertie Vaughn, mother of the prisoners, testified: "I am the mother of the two defendants and live with my husband in the Farrell & Conaton block. Miss Backus is my husband's cousin. I have no key to the door. On Sunday, March 5, my husband heard of the assault in the bake shop. On the night previous Olie came in to supper and went out about 7. Soon after Robert went in with Miss Backus and Miss Mooney to Miss Backus' tenement. My daughter went to Centralville and returned late. About 11 o'clock Olie was talking with the woman who had charge of the block. About 1 o'clock Robert and Miss Mooney and my daughter came in and asked me to make up the cot bed for Olie as the girls wanted to sleep together. I woke Olie up and made the cot bed, and afterward talked to him until about 2 o'clock. I remember the time, because I was taking medicine every three hours and had to take it about 1 o'clock. When the bed was made Robert went into Miss Backus' tenement. In the morning when I got up Olie and my husband were in the kitchen.

"Olie had the grip that week and was not in good health.

Cross-examined: "I saw my husband and Olie together in the kitchen between 7 and 8 o'clock Sunday. I think my husband went out to the bakery. I won't be positive. When I got breakfast, Olie, I think, was putting on his boots."

"It isn't true then that he didn't get up until 10? asked Mr. Wier.

"I think he got up at 7 and went back to bed again.

MULE SPINNERS
Of the Massachusetts Mills Quit Work
DEMAND FOR HIGHER WAGES REFUSED.
The Action Endorsed at a Union Meeting.

The mule spinners of the Massachusetts mills to the number of twenty, went on strike yesterday afternoon. They left the mill in a body at 4.30, because refusal of Agent Southworth to grant them an increase in wages. The trouble has been brewing for some time past, as the spinners claim that they are paid about 10 per cent. less per pound, or hank, than the mule spinners of other corporations, and they claim, moreover, that a similar condition of affairs exists throughout the entire Massachusetts mills. At a meeting of the mule spinners' union, last week, the matter was discussed, and a committee was appointed to wait upon Agent Southworth and to take whatever action it might see fit. The committee waited upon the agent last Monday, and he requested that he be given until yesterday to reply. His reply came yesterday, and proved to be an emphatic refusal of the demand. The agent stated, moreover, that he would remove the mules from the mills rather than grant the request. Upon receiving the reply the spinners promptly quit work.

A special meeting of the union was held last evening at which the committee submitted its report. The action of the strikers was endorsed and it was arranged to have another special meeting next Monday evening to devise ways and means for the support of the strikers during the time they remain out. It is claimed that the grievance is an old one, and that the Massachusetts has paid lower wages than any of the other corporations for a number of years.

As the mill is running nights at the present time the strike comes at an inopportune time for the mill men, but the absence of the spinners will not be felt as keenly there as it would on some of the other corporations, owing to the number of looms on ring spun yarn. However, there are certain grades of cloth manufactured by this corporation upon which yarn on the cops is absolutely necessary. These grades of cloth, it is claimed, command higher prices on the market than the cloth manufactured from ring spun yarn.

The mules in the Massachusetts mills on which the striking spinners worked are being taken out as a result of the strike. The work of removing the machinery will be begun at once.

FRANK NULTY, Who Killed His Sweetheart.

This nineteen-year-old boy, who, after having shot seventeen-year-old Mamie Remley, tried to kill himself, is on trial for his life today in the criminal branch of the supreme court in New York.

Back to the only man I love,
Back to the one I think most of;
Happy I'll be when I can see
My dear little, sweet loved one.

Even the stars all seem to say,
"There'll come a day not far away,
So be of light heart, although far apart
I will take you back some day.
Mamie Remley.

On the district attorney's table, in the criminal branch of the supreme court today, rests among other documents this poem. It is bloodstained, for it was found clutched in the left hand of the boy murderer when the police found him lying unconscious across the body of his victim.

MAMIE REMLEY, Who Was Killed by Her Lover.

She had a quarrel with Frank Nulty and returned his engagement ring. He called at her home with a valentine, which she had written him, in his hand and meeting her in the hallway, he shot and killed her. He then shot himself but did not inflict a mortal wound.

A SEALED VERDICT.

MISS NELLIE MOONEY.

Miss Nellie Mooney, a Worcester dressmaker, testified:

I am a dressmaker for Ellen Wood, 10 Winslow street, Worcester. I was in Lowell from January until March 6, when I had to return to Worcester.

"On Saturday night, I think it was half past one when I returned. I slept with Miss Vaughn that night. I never slept with her before or since. Mr. Robert Vaughn and Miss Barkis were with me. We talked all evening and a long time after I heard the clock strike one and I said: 'Oh, it must be half past 12 o'clock.'"

Cross examined: "I think I saw Mrs. Vaughn a year ago. I came to Lowell on January 7 and went away on March 7. I worked as a waitress on East Merrimack street for two week. I was in Miss Barkis' room all evening and I ate supper at Mrs. Vaughn's. I never met either of the boys before. Miss Vaughn asked us to supper.

Miss Vaughn came in late and wanted me to stay with her that night. I used to sleep with Miss Barkis. Robert was up at one o'clock. I didn't know where Robert slept that night unless he slept in number 2 which he always did.

MISS LIZZIE MERRIAM

Miss Lizzie Merriam, a young girl testified: I was with Olie Vaughn on that Saturday night until 10 minutes of eight, having met him after seven o'clock at the corner of Dutton and Merrimack streets. We were listening to a band at Music Hall.

MISS MINNIE HOGAN.

Miss Minnie Hogan testified: "I was with Olie Vaughn at the corner of Merrimack street and Central streets on that Saturday night. He left me at a quarter past 10 o'clock.

Cross-examined: "Olie took out his watch and told me the time. I retired at 11 o'clock.

MISS LIZZIE BARKIS.

Miss Lizzie Barkis, lodging house keeper in the Farrell & Conaton building testified: "I let rooms in the Farrell & Conaton block. I am a cousin of the elder Mr. Vaughn. I have a little brother who requires my care and he sleeps with me. I have 15 rooms in the block and keep three for myself, letting all the rest. On Saturday night, March 4, Miss Mooney and Robert Vaughn were at my house. They returned late. I fixed the time because Miss Mooney called attention to the clock striking half past 12."

Cross-examined: "Sometimes Miss Mooney slept with my little brother and I and sometimes in a cot bed.

Robert had been staying at my house then for five weeks and I never told the officers that he did not stay at my house until the Monday preceding the arrest. I talked with the chief after they had taken the boys. I believe the chief asked me a question but I refused to answer any other questions because the other officers insulted me."

On re-direct examination: The officers insulted me by insinuating that we were having improper relations."

WILLIAM VAUGHN

William Vaughn, a Boston bricklayer, uncle of the boys, said: "I went to my brother's house in Lowell, on March 4, Saturday and stayed there until Sunday afternoon. I fixed the date because I had been sick for about nine months. I saw Olie at supper. I went to bed about one o'clock that night and slept with Robert. I got up at 7 and left Robert in bed. I did not wake up during the night."

ALICE E. HAMMOND.

Alice E. Hammond, who takes care of the rooms in the Farrell & Conaton block, testified: "I met Olin Vaughn in the hall about 10 o'clock on the night of March 4."

OLIN VAUGHN.

Olin Vaughn, the younger defendant, took the stand with the same coolness that has characterized him since the beginning and said:

"I have been in jail about four months. After supper on the night of March 4, I left the house about seven o'clock and stood with Miss Merriam listening to the band. About eight o'clock I went down to Merrimack and Central streets and met Miss Hogan, and walked up Merrimack to Cabot, and then back. I walked home with her to Hudson street and I returned to my home about 11 o'clock. I met Mrs. Hammond and after speaking with her went to bed. I went into my regular chamber and went to sleep. I was awakened by my mother who asked me to give my bed to my sister and Miss Mooney, and I got up and went into the cot bed. I got up at 7 o'clock Sunday morning and stayed in the house all morning. The first I heard of the assault was when my father returned from the bakeshop. On Sunday evening I went to church on Church street. On the night we were arrested, I didn't hear any shooting. Mr. Allen and Mr. Donaldson woke me up and searched my room. My clothing was not searched. About an hour after they went away they returned and arrested me."

Cross-examined: "The chief did not ask me where I was on Saturday night. After the officers had left my room, Miss Backus told me that Robert had stepped out on the roof and we all went to bed. I did not know that Robert had any revolvers. Miss Backus said he would come back as soon as the officers went. I supposed he was staying on the roof. I didn't care where he was. I did not suppose the officers were going to arrest him. I suppose he got on the roof to avoid them."

Vaughn then admitted having been in court for assault and battery, trespass and obstructing the streets when the records were put in.

Noon recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

In rebuttal, District Attorney Wier put on Supt. Davis, who testified: "On the night of the arrests, I spoke with Olin asking him where he was on the 4th and 5th of March and Olin said he would tell when he got in court. I also talked with Miss Backus the night of the arrest. I asked her how long Robert Vaughn had occupied that room in her tenement and she answered that he had been there only since the Monday before. She said she did not know where Robert was on the night of March 4." Inspector Donaldson corroborated his testimony.

FOR THE DEFENCE.

Lawyer Donahue then began his argument introducing it with remarks upon the seriousness of the crime and the duty of jurors in the matter. Continuing he said in part: "If one of you men were accused of a crime on a certain night, what would you do? You would go to your home for those who saw you that night to assist you in proving your innocence. In my cross examination of the officers, I was severe through my zeal to do my duty and not that I did not sympathize with the officer. Now, men differ in abilities, and while some can recognize faces readily, others cannot and there are many cases on record in which defendants have been decided guilty when time has shown them to be innocent.

"On the night in question, Officer Healey went to Scannell & Wholey's office and it was very dark. The officer said that he never said anything about the lights but Witness Greene tells the truth and Officer Healey is in doubt. If Officer Laflamme couldn't tell whether a man had a revolver in his hand 75 yards away, is it fair to argue that Officer Healey, four hundred yards away, in the darkest place in Lowell could identify anyone?

"The prosecution will argue that the little Vaughn lad had Healey's money because he had a $10 bill. Any man might be accused of the crime upon that basis. Take Greene's statement as to identity. He said that neither one of the three men was as tall as the elder Vaughn. The government has not put in any evidence in rebuttal to Greene's testimony. Officer Healey testified, you will remember, that the boys were brought in to him handcuffed together, but the other officers testified differently and there you find a discrepancy that cannot be brushed away, especially when taken in with his statement that he could identify them when only seeing them in the dark. Dr. Bell has told you that his mind was clear. Why did Inspector Allen go in with Healey alone, and why afterward were the men brought in alone? It was because Healey was in doubt. Where is Allen in this case? Though he was the most important factor in the case, he is carefully kept away from the witness stand. Let us go a step farther in the line of identification. On the day of court, you will remember that Dr. Bell testified that Healey said: 'I think they're the men.'

"Officer Brosnan would have you believe that a bullet fired at him described a semi-circle around his body and then disappeared, never to be found.

"But to look at the defence, the fact that Robert Vaughn did not take the stand must not prejudice you against him. It is right he has, the court will so instruct you. You have traced young Olin on that night. We find him returning home about eleven o'clock going into his room.

"All through the case the government's identity has been weak, while on the other hand, the defendants have proved an alibi."

FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Donahue took up an hour and was followed by District Attorney Wier for the government, who said in part:

"Gentlemen: Officer Healey, when he pulled out his revolver to fire at a coward, a thief, and a robber, and it wouldn't go off, thought he was alone. But he wasn't alone, for the whole government was behind him. Every law-abiding citizen was there to protect him and see that this crime was avenged. I am earnest in this, because there hasn't been a more dastardly crime in the history of this country than that in which he was cowardly shot in the back and robbed. The principal witness of this case is one of the bravest men in this commonwealth. We have heroes in peace as in war. Officer Brosnan is a hero and Officer Healey is a hero. Such men are here to tell you the truth and not get convictions on perjured testimony. Officer Healey's action when his revolver refused to work was one of the most evident bravery. He grappled with his assailants, moving around and around, keeping his eye all the time on the man who was trying to shoot him in the back. When he gave up, he stood and talked with these men. He thus had the opportunity to see them and know who they were. He didn't lose consciousness at all. In some places, there would be a lynching. But we don't do that. We wait until we bring the evidence before a jury. No one but Mr. Healey knows who the two men are who assaulted him. Officer Healey says that he knows that the two men on trial are the men who assaulted him. Officer Healey shows his honesty when he says that he did not want to take an unfair advantage of them and conclusively identify them when they were brought before him at St. John's hospital. Then this identification of a man in peril—such an identification lasts to the day of death. Officer Healey saw those ruffians and will remember their faces as long as he lives. He saw them because he said he did, whether it was dark there or not.

"But it was not dark there, for it was a misty night and you know that the mist diffuses light while it goes straight up on a clear night and the very fact that it was misty and the place was the center of a circle of electric lights makes it positive that the place was not dark. Officer Healey is telling the truth when he says that he saw those men. There is no question about the identification. But for further evidence, take the night of the arrest. The man who had the revolvers shot; the man who had no revolvers didn't resist at all. That is the way of cowards and robbers when they go up against the law. When the officers went to Vaughn's room, what did he do? What would an honest man do? What was Vaughn afraid of? It wasn't because of criminal relations with the woman, because there were none. It was because he was a thief, because he had committed some crime. This man didn't dare to leave the city and up to this time Miss Barkis tells the officers, he had not been to her room? What was he there for then? Because if he remained in his father's house he had no means of escape. The Vaughn's tenement was so close to the next building that a person could not get down between them. But if he took a room in the other tenement he had a chance to escape by the window onto the roof of the shed.

"The man whom the officers arrested on this night had two revolvers of 38 calibre. The man who shot Healey had two 38-calibre revolvers.

"That man is one of the most desperate men in this commonwealth and he must have committed some grave crime to make him so desperate. His actions are his confession. He was one of the assailants of Officer Healey.

"What about Olin?

"And remember here, gentlemen, these are not two barroom bums who go about robbing under the impulse of the moment, but are two educated criminals.

"Little Olie tried to play the good little boy as he had not the fear of identification that the brother had and when confronted by the officers, he said: 'I have no brothers.'

"Their father and mother are here. Put yourself in their places and you would be tempted to come in and do as they have done. Miss Barkis protected the men with two revolvers and was harboring a criminal and did her best to allow this man to escape armed with two revolvers on his course of destruction. You don't know her relation with one of these men that might tempt her to come in here and try, as the parents did, to protect him.

"You can almost believe every word that they said and you can still believe the story of the government. They only live a mile from the scene of the shooting and two young men like them can get there in five minutes.

"But where is Miss Vaughn, the sister? Why isn't she put on the stand? Were they afraid she'd tell the truth?

"Robert and Olin are both found about this time with a $10 bill each upon his person and Officer Healey lost four $10 bills. Isn't that consistent with guilt? Two men who have not worked for some time go sporting $10 bills the week after the robbery.

"Robert Vaughn shot Healey in the leg and Olin shot him in the back. Are you going to take the responsibility of letting those men go free? Be brave in rendering your verdict."

JURY CHARGED.

Judge Bond though it was past adjournment time, charged the jury briefly at the conclusion of District Attorney Wier's remarks. The charge was brief and explanatory of the law bearing on the particular charges of robbery and being armed and intent to kill. "When a person," he said, "takes a deadly weapon and shoots at another in such away that he might kill him, you have the right to say that he intended to kill. It is necessary for the government to show that the men were there before you return a verdict of guilty. You may consider the conduct of a person after the act has been committed."

The court explained finally the nature of an alibi and stated that in many cases every portion of the alibi may be true, except the date and without the date being true, the alibi has no weight.

The jury retired at 4.30.

A SEALED VERDICT.

After the jury had retired Judge Bond transacted some minor business and waited until shortly after five o'clock. The prisoners were kept in the cage in the court room, and the spectators remained, many expecting that a verdict would be returned in short order. The possibilities from the jury room were discussed on all sides, and it was agreed that the case had been most carefully put in, and the counsel for the defence were congratulated on the fine manner in which they conducted their case. Robert Vaughn was highly pleased at the effort of his counsel, and said so.

At five o'clock court adjourned, and the prisoners were taken back to the house of correction across the way, handcuffed together, and surrounded by a crowd of curious sightseers.

Shortly after six o'clock, the jury having been out one hour and a half, returned a sealed verdict, which will be opened on Monday morning at the opening of court.

It is not improbable that the disclosure of the verdict will be followed by surprising developments.

The other counts against them for alleged assault against Robert on Inspector Lathamme and Lieut. Brosnan and three counts, jointly, of breaking and entering, are scheduled for next week.

A COFFEE LIVER

Peculiar Effects of the Beverage.

Unfortunately I was the unwilling possessor of a hopelessly torpid liver, which kept growing more and more hopeless as the years went by. It finally became impossible for me to obtain sleep at night unless absolute stillness reigned.

Living in the city I was disturbed many times at night so that finally I was sent to the country, and there the least bark of a dog or the sound of a cow bell broke up my light repose and put me into a desperately nervous condition. Matters grew rapidly worse, and finally culminated in a severe illness. When I was convalescent the doctor positively forbade my using coffee, and recommended Postum Cereal Food Coffee.

This was a terrible blow as I was a coffee fiend but I was weak enough to be sensible, and so I determined to try Postum, although I went at it very unwillingly. I determined to know that it was made right, so I read the directions carefully and made the first cup myself. I was amazed at the rich, brown liquid that steamed forth from the coffee pot that day at luncheon and still more amazed, when upon tasting it, I found I had a most delightful beverage with a delicious coffee flavor.

It is needless to say that Postum appeared upon my table from that time on. As the days went by, I gradually noticed a change for the better, in point of health. It took some time to recover from the rack of the nervous system caused by coffee, but I became more and more conscious that I was sleeping soundly and improving steadily. Naturally my irritability disappeared. I find myself now with twice, yes, ten times, the ability for enjoyment that I previously had.

One of my friends, upon learning that I had been healed by leaving off Coffee and using Postum, exclaimed and wondered how I could drink "that stuff." I replied that we were very fond of it indeed, actually preferring it to any brand of coffee, whereupon she remarked that coffee was such a beautiful clear liquid and had such a delicious taste, while Postum was muddy and flat. I saw at once that my friend had failed to have her Postum boiled properly and determined to give her some good Postum. She is very easily prejudiced, so, shortly after when she came to visit me at the lake, I asked her to try some new coffee and for two weeks I served Postum to her, she believing all this time that she was drinking a very high priced and expensive brand of coffee. When at the end of her visit I told her that she had been having Postum Food Coffee two and sometimes three times a day all of the period of her visit, she took the joke in good part and said: "If that is true, I am already a member of the Postum army and I will never resign."

Wise Merchants

The merchants of Lowell are not fools. Of course they were not as wise once as they are now, but their wisdom came through experience.

While they always bought their merchandise by measure and weight, they used to buy advertising space in the local papers by sympathy and guess work. They don't buy it that way now. They buy space on the basis of circulation, estimating the price per inch per thousand payers circulated.

On this basis, they know what they get and they know that THE SUN is by far the cheapest medium in the city. THE SUN has a larger circulation than any two other papers in Lowell. It is

Lowell's Greatest Newspaper

France has a new cabinet, but if it follows the general custom in France it will be shortlived.

Admiral Dewey's salary is to be $11,500 a year, whether he is at sea or on shore, and most people will admit that, considering the peculiar character of his duties on some occasions, his salary is none too large.

Had Philip Lambelo, who robbed a Boston bank of $10,000, shown as much skill in evading the police as he did in taking the money he might have had the pleasure of spending his boodle. The detectives who caught him should get a slice of that $10,000.

It is about time the sympathetic ladies of Dover, N. H., should begin to send bouquets to Mr. Harry Hough, now being honored for his ingenuity as a bank robber. He stands next to Joe Kelley in the admiration of some men and many women of peculiar tastes.

When we read of the Czar as the great advocate of disarmament in Europe and at the same time find that his agents are ordering field batteries and rapid fire guns in this country we are reminded of Rudyard Kipling's able lines on the "Truce of the Bear."

So the Mail is exonerated from the charge of soliciting liquor sales by publishing liquor advertisements. Can it be that Judge Hadley's elaborate decision has been overruled? Which is right, Judge Hadley or Judge Hand? But that is immaterial since the decision of the latter stands.

Hon. George Fred Williams is authority for the statement that ex-Senator Gorman has no chance of getting the democratic nomination for president next year. The statement was unnecessary as anybody who knows Gorman's antecedents will realize that he is not acceptable to the democracy of the country at the present time.

The mayor of Cambridge recently vetoed an order appropriating $350 for the expenses of a junket by the roads and bridges committee in the investigation of the merits of vitrified brick pavements for streets. It seems that if the resolution for paving our streets with asphaltina without competition came before the mayor of Cambridge, it would take him but a very short time to give it his official condemnation. It is one of the cases in which the mayor was right, and the city council was wrong.

A PUBLIC SWINDLE.

The resolution to pave a portion of Mammoth road, Suffolk street and a portion of Bridge street has been signed by Mayor Crowley, despite all protests, on account of barring competition. Thus the sum of $27,000 is to be expended on Westford street and $3,000 on the three streets mentioned and all to be given to one company without admitting competition on the work or the material. Not for twenty years has there been such a high handed piece of public robbery practiced upon the voters as in this asphaltina deal all approved by Mayor Crowley in spite of public protests and remonstrances and after refusing a hearing to competing companies. It is an outrage which the voters can ponder upon at leisure between now and next December. If any such palpable swindle as this is legal under the city charter then the sooner the city charter is amended so as to secure competition, the better for the citizens in general.

GEN. OTIS A FAILURE.

General Otis who is conducting the war in the Philippines has demonstrated most conclusively that he cannot conquer the Filipinos. He has had a large force at his command for months past and some gallant fighting has been done by his subordinates, but the fact remains that today the Filipino army is stronger than ever before. Aguinaldo is proving himself by far the best general in Luzon, despite all the difficulties and disadvantages under which he is obliged to carry on the war. It now appears imperative upon the authorities at Washington to recall Otis. General Miles is the best soldier and commander in the country, but instead of sending him out to the Philippines, Alger and the president select Wheeler, a man advanced in years and in the natural order of things unable to endure the hardships of a prolonged campaign.

What the president should do at once is either to withdraw all our forces from the island and relinquish a sovereignty which we can't maintain, or else send out a competent general with forces sufficient to suppress the rebellion in a reasonable time. That General Otis has proved a complete failure is demonstrated by the fact that the Philippine war has cost the government to date about $63,000,000 and 60[illegible] men with 6500 wounded. Besides, it is asserted that 80 per cent. of the surviving soldiers who have fought in the Philippines will be entitled to pensions on account of diseases contracted in the service. With all this loss the area over which the United States forces have absolute control is less than 100 square miles. At present, the cost of the war is estimated at $280,000 a day, and when the 35,000 men now ordered there shall have joined the force already there, the expense will be much in excess of $300,000 per day, all of which indicates the advisability of selling out the sovereignty purchased at $20,000,000 at a discount of 75 per cent.

THE SAMPSON-SCHLEY CONTROVERSY.

The Sampson-Schley controversy has been revived in a manner that renders it imperative upon Admiral Schley to call for an inquiry or investigation by a naval board in order to protect his reputation against the latest conspiracy which seems to be somewhat of the same character as that which assails General Miles in the war department. Soon after the nominations of Sampson and Schley for admirals, the New York Sun published an account of a conversation alleged to have taken place between Admiral Schley and Lieut. Hodgson on the bridge of the Brooklyn in the heat of the battle with Cervera's fleet. The Brooklyn made a famous movement known as "the loop" the object of which, as Admiral Schley explained to the senate was to prevent the Brooklyn from blanketing the fire of the Texas, then closely following the Brooklyn in pursuit of the Spaniards.

The Washington Post recently published a denial of the New York Sun's statement, whereupon Lieut. Hodgson had detailed the conversation with Admiral Schley to him exactly as it had been reported in the Sun.

Secretary Long as the friend of Sampson, called upon both officers to sift the matter still further. The country is tired of such controversies. Admiral Schley, however, is being bitterly assailed, as the charge, if proved, would tend to show cowardice. It seems that the Sampson combine has at last succeeded in fastening a plausible charge upon the commodore. The next senate will consider the nominations and will probably go to the bottom of this matter at the same time. The public is tired listening to the conflicting statements and this latest phase of the case shows a determination to ruin Schley, just as Alger tried to ruin Miles.

The Roston police have to answer for the death of a young man named Alphonsus Garbett, who was found in an unconscious condition at one of the bridges in that city a few days ago, and locked up for drunkenness. He was sentenced to jail, and after having served his sentence it was found that he had been suffering from concussion of the brain, as a result of being knocked down by a bicycle scorcher. He is now lying at the point of death in a Chelsea hospital, and it is probable that the Boston police will have to answer for their part in pronouncing him drunk, when medical aid might have restored him, to consciousness, and saved his life.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL LAST EVENING AT BAPTIST CHURCH VESTRY.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church at North Billerica, gave a very enjoyable and largely attended strawberry festival and entertainment in the vestry of the church last evening. Supper was served from 5:30 until 8 and ice cream and cake after the entertainment. The feature of the program was a series of selections on the phonograph given by Mr. Maxwell of Lowell. Mr. F. Gray Smith gave a reading and Mr. H. G. Sheldon gave a flute solo entitled "I'll Follow Thee."

Mr. William McCool of Marysville, Cal., was visiting friends in North Billerica, yesterday. Twenty-five years ago Mr. McCool was a prominent citizen of North Billerica and was prominent in political circles. He has been a resident of Marysville, Cal., for 24 years. Among the other North Billerica people at that place are Mr. Edward R. Harrison and Mrs. Patrick Brennan. While Mr. McCool is East he is the guest of his brother at Mansfield. He will return to his Western home in a few weeks.

Miss Ethel Fletcher is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ingalls.

Mr. J. F. Rooney suffered a very severe fall Thursday afternoon while working in the basement of the Talbot mills. He fell about ten feet, striking his back on an iron pipe, severely straining his back. He was able to walk home with the assistance of one of his fellow workmen. Sales for Week Ending July 1st, '99

MONDAY AFTERNOON.

Postponed on Account of the Thunderstorm Last Tuesday to Next Monday.

Two years ago I had between thirty-five and forty lots of land on Sanders avenue, in ward eight. Sanders avenue starts in the center of Tyler Park and runs directly south across Pine street. Five of the lots have been sold, three of the lots have modern residences upon them. I have decided to advertise and sell eight of the remaining lots to whomsoever will bid the highest for them at absolute auction on Monday, June 26, 1899, at five o'clock in the afternoon.

I shall make the sale rain or shine; two-thirds of the purchase money can remain on the mortgage. The elegant and handsome residences of Mr. J. A. Corman, Mr. E. A. Smith, and Dr. Trueworthy are near to and in plain view from the lots the new school on Pine street is not more than five or six minutes' walk, the Westford street line of electric cars is easily within seven minutes' walk through Tyler Park. There are no higher, handsomer, or more desirable lots in this choice and very beautiful part of the Highlands, yet under the existing conditions, they will not bring more than a few cents a foot. Sanders avenue is a broad, level and straight street and will eventually continue on way through to the Highlands on Chelmsford St. It is surely destined to be one of the important residential thoroughfares of this part of our city. It is just such opportunities as this sale presents that make profitable and successful real estate transactions. Ten years ago the land on Foster, Marlboro and Gibson streets was not nearly as attractive or inviting as the lots I here offer, yet today with the march of improvements on these streets, land is easily worth a quarter a foot.

My lots contain from 7920 to 8712 square feet of land each, with frontages from 62 to 66 feet each.

They are level, the view is unobstructed in all directions, the lots are south of Pine street will be sold no matter what they bring; you can see them anytime. The purchaser of each lot must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $50 as soon as each lot is struck off. Mr. Conant tells me that my lots are the best lots to buy he has offered this year.

M. M. DOYLE.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

Assignee's sale of 83,883 square feet of land on the Ayer farm, Middlesex Village, adjoining and just west of No. 1959 Middlesex street. The land is known as the A. A. Coburn lot, was originally purchased in two lots. The lots have areas of 41,880 and 42,003 square feet, the frontages are 100 feet. The premises are high, dry, pleasantly situated and quite desirable.

On Tuesday, June 27, 1899, promptly at five o'clock in the afternoon, rain or shine, I shall positively sell without limit or reserve, to the highest bidders at absolute auction, the real estate designated at Lots 18 and 19 on "A plan of lots in Middlesex Village belonging to Dr. James C. Ayer, surveyed April, 1871. A. Osgood, surveyor."

The electric cars on the Middlesex Village line run to Wood street every seven and one-half minutes and Wood street is not five minutes' walk from the premises. The North Chelmsford electric cars run every fifteen minutes and pass the premises. The premises at the time Mr. Coburn bought them were considered the choicest lots on the Ayer or Howard Farm and today the lots offer the handsomest opportunity to build several residences there is in Middlesex Village or this part of Lowell. There are now several fine places adjoining the land. Easy to reach, quiet, healthy, pleasant and attractive, they should tempt many a buyer who would better his surroundings and do so at a reasonable outlay.

The purchaser of each lot must deposit with or secure to the auctioneer $200 as soon as each lot is struck off. Make what inquiries you like in regard to the lots at the office of the auctioneers, but bear in mind the lots are to be sold.

FREDERICK B. BLANCHARD, Assignee.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Executors' and heirs' sale of the BENJ. RUSHWORTH ESTATE, numbered 239, 241 and 243 Lawrence street. Cottage block of three houses and 8470 square feet of land.

On the twenty-eighth day of June, 1899, at five o'clock in the afternoon, it is our purpose to sell to the highest bidder at public auction the real estate situated as above stated and extending through from Ames street to Richmond street.

The houses have five rooms and cellar each, are supplied with water, water closets and sewerage; are in good order and repair; are never idle; one tenant has been an occupant for 16 years; the income from the property is $39 a month; the tenants are anxious to remain. The block makes three very pleasant and comfortable homes. The lot has a frontage of 94 feet on Lawrence street, 110 feet on Ames street, 78 feet on Richmond street and a total area of 8470 square feet. There is ample room on the Lawrence street front for another block, the space at present being occupied by fruit trees and vines. The present block has sufficient yard room in the rear.

The estate as a whole is a good one; no tenement property in Lowell is better located. Mills, factories, business and numerous small industries are close enough at hand; all city advantages and conveniences are at the premises. You can buy on easy terms.

The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $450 as soon as the property is struck off. The sale will take place rain or shine. Make all inquiries at the office of the auctioneers.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Executors' and Heirs' Sale of the WM. CLEWORTH TENEMENT PROPERTY, Nos. 75, 77 and 79 and 87 Cushing Street.

DOUBLE COTTAGE. - - - COTTAGE HOUSE
AND 6975 SQUARE FEET OF LAND.

On Thursday, June 29th, 1899, promptly at five o'clock in the afternoon, regardless of the weather and to the highest bidder at absolute auction, I shall sell the real estate as above located and as herewith described.

THE DOUBLE COTTAGE is numbered 75 and 77, each house has seven rooms and each house is a pleasant and comfortable home. One tenant has been an occupant for eight years.

THE COTTAGE is numbered 79, has seven rooms and two sheds, and the present tenant is very anxious to remain.

THE TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE is numbered 87, each tenement has five rooms and shed and is occupied by a first class tenant.

Each tenement in this estate has a water closet, is supplied with city water and sewerage, each one has been well cared for and kept up. The property rents for $48 a month and there has not been a loss of $50 in rent on account of idleness for the past five years.

The property is a first class renting estate is excellently situated; is very conveniently arranged; is planned to get the greatest income for the least expenditure in repairs; can never be worth less; is the sort of renting property that always proves a satisfactory investment; it can always be sold. But for the fact that part of the heirs desire their money, it would not be sold at this time. As executor and one of the heirs I was very loathe to give my consent to part with so good a paying and easily cared for property.

The lot has a frontage of 95 feet and affords lots of yard room for the several tenants.

The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $550 as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms liberal.

JOHN CLEWORTH as Executor
and for Heirs of Wm. Cleworth.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON,

I have positively decided to dispose of my real estate on Fulton street without reserve at public auction.

THE ESTATE consists of a two-flat house, and 2700 square feet of land. Each house has five rooms, pantry, water closet, city water and sewerage. Each house is well laid out and arranged, has ample closet room and is in good condition, particularly the upper flat.

The lot has ample yard room for a garden, is fenced and level.

The property is numbered 59 Fulton street. The sale will take place Friday, June 30, 1899, at half past five o'clock in the afternoon. Sale rain or shine. No limit. $1000 can remain on bank mortgage at five per cent. interest. The rental is $15 a month and the flats are always in demand. I never owned a more desirable or more satisfactory parcel of renting property. I sell only for the best of reasons and can conscientiously recommend the estate to the most conservative buyers.

The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $175 as soon as the property is struck off.

JOHN WARBURTON.

WATERPROOF MAN

Nabbed by the Police of Manchester

STAYED IN CEMETERY IN THAT CITY

And Scared Many Women and Girls.

Lowell for some time had in its midst a "Peeping Tom" or waterproof man who operated principally in the Highland district. Women were grossly insulted and badly frightened. The Lowell police were notified and were close on trail of the recreant who made his escape to New Hampshire. Intelligence now comes from Manchester that such a character has come to the "end of his rope" in that city. Says the Manchester Union of yesterday:

For a week past West Manchester has had a "water proof man." His operations have annoyed and alarmed many women and girls and have aroused the indignation of their husbands, brothers and fathers, some of whom have conducted stillhunts for the fellow with the intention of giving him a sound trashing.

A suspect is now occupying cell thirteen in the central police station.

The waterproof man unlike the others of his specie who have been known in Manchester, has had rather peculiar methods. In the first place he has operated in broad day light and not on the streets as most of them have. Instead, he confined his performances to a cemetery keeping company with the tombstones until a victim appeared.

St. Joseph's Catholic cemetery on Milford street has been the scene of his appearances and in the selection of the place he showed himself both cool and calculating. The cemetery is isolated and is frequented by few visitors. Women often go there alone to place flowers on the graves or to visit the resting place of some friend or loved one.

In nearly every instance this waterproof man has jumped out suddenly on some lone woman or girl and gone through this disgusting antics. Most of the women have been badly frightened.

So far as can be learned, he has offered violence to no one, but has confined himself to mere appearances and has not laid hands on any one.

The police were notified of the presence and performances of the fellow two or three days ago and have since been on the lookout for him. He managed to keep well out of their way.

On Thursday morning, Policeman Bean arrested on Milford street near the cemetery a young fellow supposed to be the one wanted. He was given a ride in the patrol wagon and when booked gave his name as John Gagnon and said he lived on 26 Boynton street.

He is slender, dark, of medium height and not too prepossessing.

Much interest is evinced in Lowell on the outcome of the Harvard—Yale race.

Several Lowell people were in attendance at the Harvard commencement exercises this week.

Despite the popularity of golf and tennis, croquet still has its admirers—especially in Tewksbury.

Equestrian exercise is gaining favor in Lowell as elsewhere and there are many ladies in town who ride daily.

It is rather hard on a prospective bridegroom to have the man who was to act as head usher at the nuptial ceremony to be the first to secure a marriage license and capture the bride, as was the case in Cambridge.

These are sad times for the girl babies. An unfortunate, helpless feminine infant in Kansas has been named Funstonie, and now an epidemic of Deweydrons, Hobsonettas, Wheelerines and Otisannas may be expected. And, as if the names themselves were not calamity enough, these victimized young ladies will be dated from 1899 all their lives and there will be no concealing their ages when the sear and yellow leaf stage is approaching. There ought to be a society to protect babies from being burdened with such names by limiting the mischievous propensities of inconsiderate parents.

PRETTY PICTURE

A group of young ladies of the Shaw hosiery make a pretty picture in the noon hour partaking of their dinner on the hosiery lawn facing Chelmsford street. They come from distant parts of the city and eat their meal in the cool and bracing air and have a picnic in miniature form, even if for only one hour. The move is a wise one and could be emulated with good results by other Lowell factory employers.

FEARFUL TRAGEDY

In Which Wm. E. Fife and Daughter Were Killed.

Their Wagon Struck by White Mountain Express and Thrown 250 Feet—Bodies Mangled—Engineer Not to Blame.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CLINTON, June 24.—One of the most shocking tragedies in this community in years occurred here last evening, when William E. Fife, the wealthiest citizen of the town and one of the most influential men in the community, and his daughter, Mrs. Dora Plummer, wife of Edwin L. Plummer, a well known merchant were killed.

Mr. Fife, who is nearly 70 years old, accompanied by Mrs. Plummer, shortly after dinner drove to Lancaster and started for home at 4.30. In returning, Mr. Fife took the back road around Lancaster Center depot. He drove down by the common toward Bailey, crossing over the B. and M. railroad tracks.

Miss M. E. S. Bailey, who lives beside the tracks, states that the horse either shied and stopped on the tracks or was pulled. The next thing she heard was a terrible crash, and she knew the White Mountain express had struck the carriage.

The engine hit the vehicle squarely on one side and dashed it in front of the engine, hurling it and the occupants some 250 feet further along and depositing them within 40 feet of the track. The carriage was demolished. The horse was never touched and dashed on home.

The locality is thickly settled and in a moment the place was crowded with horror-stricken people. Station agent Henry Chalin summoned medical examiner Dr. G. J. Tobey and all the physicians available.

The body of Mrs. Plummer was close to the track and was mutilated beyond recognition. The body of Mr. Fife lay a few feet down the embankment and was very little bruised. Dr. Tobey made a hasty examination, assisted by Dr. C. L. French and stated that death was instantaneous.

Deputy Sheriff C. A. Bartlett arrived a little later and made a rigid examination as to the cause of the accident. Investigation disclosed that the White Mountain express, due at Lancaster Centre at 5.65 was on time. It never stops at Lancaster. There is no gate or flagman at the crossing, but there is a signal bell which people close by claim to have been rung as usual.

The fatal train runs from Nashua to Worcester and was in charge of Conductor W. B. Mitchell and Engineer M. Hamilton. The latter states that he saw the team drive onto the track as he approached the station and then the horse slowed up or was stopped. He was too near to prevent a crash and with all the vigor at his command he reversed the lever of the engine but too late. The train was stopped and the tragedy at once reported to headquarters.

COLUMBIA AGROUND

Cup Defender Stuck in the Mud

An Attempt to Move Her Was Unsuccessful—Effort to Float Her Given up.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BRISTOL, R.I., June 24.—During the attempt to warp the Columbia out from her wharf to an anchorage in the bay, the yacht went aground and stuck fast in the mud. The newspaper tug which accompanied the vessel was called upon for assistance, but the effort to move the Columbia was unsuccessful. The tide was going steadily, and as it was apparent that further effort would be useless, it was decided to let the sloop rest until high water tonight. A line was run from the top-mast head to the pier, to make the boat steady, and later a gang of carpenters and painters were taken out to continue the work which has been going on in the interior of the boat.

The Columbia apparently is on a soft bed, but it is difficult to determine how deeply she is in the mud.

A few turns at the windlass, however, showed that the sloop was stuck and that their efforts were only forcing her more firmly on the shore. The tug H. C. Hart of New Bedford, was close at hand. She was asked to take a line aboard, and soon she was giving a strong pull at the sloop. The attempt amounted to nothing. Several subsequent attempts also failed to move the sloop. Meanwhile the tide was falling and gradually but perceptibly receding from the Columbia's water-line.

It was not, however, until the vessel was more than two feet higher that she would be above the water, and it was finally decided to give up the efforts to float her, and wait for another tide. The crew were put at work making things fast on deck, and a rope was run out from the mast-head to the dock and fastened there to keep the yacht from tipping. When this work had been accomplished, the Columbia seemed to be in a very favorable position, and in no particular danger, as it was apparent that the bottom where she rested was soft, and that probably the receding tide would leave her nearly upright.

A MAGNATE GONE

Death of Henry B. Plant of New York

A PROMINENT RAILROAD MAN.

Owner of the System Bearing His Name.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Henry Bradley Plant, the king of Florida and the founder of the system of railroad and steamship lines that bear his name, died suddenly at his residence, 586 5th avenue, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Plant, who was nearly 80 years old, was at his office, 12 West 32d St., for several hours on Thursday. He was taken ill during the night. The end was sudden and peaceful.

Plant, who was associated with his father as his assistant and who is vice president of the various institutions of which his father was president. Mr. Plant's first wife died in 1861, and he was married in 1873 to Miss Margaret Josephine Loughman, only daughter of Martin Loughman of New York city.

JEWS IN TROUBLE.

Agent Richardson of the Humane Society, caught three Jews, who came from Lawrence, driving a horse that was hardly able to stand up. Agent Richardson met them at the corner of First and Bridge streets. The Jews said that they were going to sell the horse. The man who owned the horse gave his name as Label. They agreed to give up the horse if they would not be prosecuted. Agent Richardson gave Label three dollars for him and took him to Orcutt's stable on West Third street, and he will be shot this afternoon. The horse was lame in the foot, had a strained tendon, sprained leg; he also had the heaves and general exhaustion. His side was all bruised where they had used a club on him.

DAN DONAHUE WON

Was Too Much for Humane Society.

CHARGED WITH CRUELTY TO A HORSE.

Proved by Expert Testimony His Innocence.

TOO MANY GUNS FOR PROSECUTING AGENT

And Taught Covernment Witnesses Law Points.

The continued case of Arthur Garland for larceny was dismissed without going to trial.

Edward Warren charged with drunkenness and assault pleaded not guilty and was continued until Wednesday next for trial.

Peter Labrie was adjudged guilty of drunkenness and was fined $5.

The case of Daniel J. Donahue, Esq., charged with cruelty to a horse in having the animal too highly checked on the afternoon of May 7 at Harmony Grove, was next called. State Agent of the Humane society, Lemuel B. Burrill, represented the government and Lawyers Donahue and Fay the defendant.

The first witness was Dexter A. Proctor of Tyngsboro who stated that about 5.30 o'clock on the afternoon of May 7 while leaning against a bicycle rack in Harmony Grove, Tyngsboro, his attention was called to a bay horse whose head appeared to him as being in an unnatural position. He really thought that the horse was unmercifully checked and so expressed himself to the owner. Lawyer Donahue then asked him what interest he had in the horse and he (the witness) replied that he and everybody should have an interest in the cause of humanity. "Lawyer Donahue," said the witness, "then told me to mind my own business and called me names that I didn't like."

Witness was urged by Lawyer Donahue to give the name he was called but finally being ordered by court said: "He called me a hayseed."

There was great laughter in court, the judge laughed too and Billy Bumpa rapped for order.

The cross-examination by Lawyer Donahue of witness was decidedly sharp mixing the witness up and several times confusing him. The witness failed, however to identify the overdrawn check in court as one used on horse on the day in question. He testified that the Donahue horse's head was overdrawn several degrees higher than the ordinary horse. After several tilts with the state officer and exposing the latter's ignorance of law points and endeavoring to make the witness admit that he (Donahue) called witness a "red-headed hayseed." The other two witnesses for the government were called in the persons of Frederick Andrews and George W. Brown. Their testimony was simply corroborative and the government here rested its case.

Lawyer Donahue then endeavored to show by the government witnesses and by points of law which he cited that no case had been made out against him and asked for acquittal but not because he is a lawyer to show him any clemency. While bickering over the point in question and as the government prosecutor was entering an interposition Lawyer Donahue said he would waive everything and proceed with the case.

Lawyer Donahue was the first witness called for the defence and the examining counsel was Peter A. Fay for the defence.

Other witnesses for the defence were Dr. McCann, Jack Wright, Con Desmond, Martin T. Mack, Charles Donahue. There were several others also. The defendant was found not guilty and was discharged.

BOXING GOSSIP

Pat Monahan, the well known Boston thoroughbred who for the past few months has been "digging up" good things for the Gardner boys notably Prof. Daley, John E. Butler and Young Sharkey, is a most persevering young man and although "plucked" three times without a break, is still game and comes to the front again with another one. This time he appears to have his ear to the ground and he challenges Billy Gardner in behalf of Mike Sears of Lewiston, Me., the champion bantam and great Lowell favorite for a go at the Nutone club at 124 pounds, weigh in at 3 p. m., on the day of the match. If Gardner doesn't want him, Mike challenges the winner of the Rosenberg-Dinsdale match.

Young Sharkey whom I met in Boston recently states that he would like to go on for a ten round preliminary with either Dion or McLaughlin at the Nutone club, the Roscommon champion preferred.

GLORIA
IS NOT A MEDICINE.

A nice new woman often said
She wished the horrid men all dead.
She drank some GLORIA, then changed her mind.
Same as some other womankind.
And immediately published a personal ad.
For any old man that can be had.
Friends met with her and drank GLORIA there,
And voted the wicked men to spare;
All suggested the ad. to increase
Till everyone had a man apiece.
Then all drink GLORIA often as you can,
For it raises the value of fallen man.

THIS WONDERFUL WOMAN WAS THE PIONEER OF WOMEN'S RIGHTS IN AMERICA; SHE IS DESCRIBED BY SUSAN B. ANTHONY AS "THE WOMAN ORATOR OF THE AGE;" SHE HAS SWAYED THOUSANDS WITH THE POWER OF HER INTELLECT AND THE SWEETNESS AND STRENGTH OF A VOICE HENRY WARD BEECHER DESCRIBED AS "SILVERY BELLS."

MRS. ELIZABETH CADY STANTON, WHO, AT THE AGE OF EIGHTY-FOUR, WRITES A VIGOROUS LETTER OF ADVICE TO OUR WOMEN READERS.

HOW TO GROW OLD GRACEFULLY.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton Discloses the Secret of a Happy and Healthy Old Age.

The answer involves a primal question as to the starting point. How to reach the end of a ten-mile walk depends upon the vigor with which one started, the state of the road, the weather, the companions and the object of the journey.

So it is in life.

With two generations of ancestors with sound minds in sound bodies, with the advantages of good society and thorough education, one is well equipped for health and happiness and success in life.

What a good foundation is to a fine edifice, that is birth and education to character, though great souls now and then appear to rise superior to all disadvantages.

I attribute my vigorous old age in part to advantageous circumstances, in part to a happy, hopeful temperament, a keen sense of humor, sympathies for all my fellow beings and a deep interest in all the vital questions of the hour.

One must have an earnest purpose in life, beyond personal ambition and family aggrandizement.

Self-centered characters do not possess the necessary elements of a high development.

If one would have a happy old age, the first condition is a sound body; to that end we all know that exercise, diet, dress, sanitary conditions, are all important.

Born on the hills in Fulton County, 400 feet above the Mohawk Valley, I enjoyed pure air to start with. With walks of five or ten miles, and rides on horseback of many more, oftimes before breakfast; skating, coasting, sleigh-riding with boys as well as girls, for in our old academies we had coeducation everywhere, we enjoyed abundant means for fun and frolic.

In those days the languages and mathematics were not thought to be too strong intellectual pabulum for girls. Five years in all my studies and plays in the constant companionship of boys, I count as one of the happiest periods of my girlhood.

Thus the girls acquired strength, courage and self-assertion, and the boys courtesy, refinement and self-control.

Thus youth passed with comparative freedom, and the foundation was laid for health and intellectual development.

Wifehood and motherhood brought their duties, without the usual disabilities that feeble women, ignorant of the laws of health, endure. Nature does her best at all periods of woman's life to make each change one of added health and happiness.

Those obedient to her laws rejoice in every step from youth to age. Fifty is the heyday of her intellectual life. Then the vital forces used in reproduction are garnered in the brain, giving new ideas and adding force, clearness and beauty to thought. There comes eloquence of expression, and she finds a wider field for her sympathies. She has new interests in the great world which is the future home of her children, in which she is now to labor to make it fit for them to live in.

Now the wise woman sees she has new duties in the state, to build up a government for the benefit of the whole people. She has duties in the church to save her children from all the harrowing superstitions that have so long oppressed the human mind. This work finds her able to meet it.

This is a hasty picture of my life; and now, in my eighty-fourth year, life is as sweet to me as ever. I have no palsies or aches, no regrets or forebodings for myself; all my sorrows are for the troubles of others.

My philosophy is to live in the present; regrets for the past are vain, the page is turned, there is no remedy for what is done. As to the future, anxieties are equally vain; we do not know what one day will bring forth; what we hope or fear may never occur; the present is all that is ours.

It is the general opinion that with age must come decrepitude, that its inevitable accompaniments are wigs and spectacles, ear trumpets and false teeth, weak knees, asthma, neuralgia and rheumatism.

This is by no means the case.

I know sound old gentlemen on the shady side of eighty, that read without spectacles, whose hearing is as keen as a rabbit's, who can walk as briskly as most men of forty, and have as keen a zest as ever in all there is in life worth enjoying.

One of the most celebrated dancing masters in Western New York, Mr. Cobleigh, played on his violin and danced as lightly as a boy of sixteen long after he was seventy years old.

I have no doubt, if we kept up gymnastic exercises and diligent rubbing every day, we should retain our suppleness of limb and motion to a good old age.

I suppose the time will never come when women or men either will delight in crow's feet, wrinkles or gray hairs, but the time will come—aye, and now is—when they will view these blemishes as but a petty price to pay for the joy of added wisdom, for the deeper joy of closer contact with humanity, and for the deepest joy of worthy work well done.

HOW TO MAKE A SHIRT WAIST.

Our Artist Draws Diagrams of Very Pretty New Collars and Revers for Wash Waists.

REMODELLING A PLAIN ONE

A Useful Hint for the Woman who Wants Something Very Nice for Little Money.

BELTS, NECKTIES AND COLLARS.

New York, June 22.—"What is the greatest existing record of woman's progress?" demanded a woman lecturer at a popular club the other afternoon.

"The shirt waist," whispered one of the audience, under her breath.

If she had stood up and shouted her answer aloud she would have only voiced the sentiment of every woman in the room, for not even the tailor-made suit was such an evolution or so strong a protest. It is well within the memory of every grown woman when the greatest concession a woman could make to summer time was a "wash" dress, made in close style, like her woolen gowns, boned, often lined, and finished in such a way that it never looked well after its bath.

Now the duck skirt, in all colors, provides a supply of street skirts ranging from white to black, and from heavy to light; and with these skirts which, by the way, really hang better after being suitably laundered, there can be worn such a variety of shirt waists that no woman, however fastidious, can refuse one.

SHIRT WAIST SUITS.

The latest dress wrinkle, in New York, is the shirt waist suit. A skirt of brilliant red pique trimmed with white braid is purchased at a price ranging from a dollar upward. With this skirt there is purchased a plain red lawn shirt waist, also one of white mull, another of red and white plaid gingham, a fourth of red pique with white insertion, a fifth of white pique worked with big red fleur de lis and a sixth of black linen figured in scarlet.

The "suit" is complete, no matter which waist is worn, and if, to the waists is added an all red hat, the result is quite stunning. As many or as few of these waists may be purchased as the pocketbook shall dictate.

THE GREEN AND WHITE.

The waist-to-match policy is carried out with the natural or tan linen skirt, with the blue, the black, the green and the white. You will be surprised, by following this line, to see how easily and inexpensively you can procure a summer wardrobe.

A word about laundry bills! A New York woman of some cleverness discovered that it was their neatness which made the Southern girls so attractive. Labor is cheap in the South and a Southern belle, of moderate means, thinks it no extravagance to wear a fresh white gown every day. It is certainly a woman's most effective toilette—a fresh gown—and laundry bills are well worth their total.

An enterprising summer girl has discovered that the life of a shirt waist can be prolonged away from the wash tub by pressing. The pique waist, after one wearing, is folded as in the shops—be sure to learn how to do this—and is placed under a weight until next day. To a confidential friend this clever girl admitted that her waists were laid between the mattresses, precisely as her brother pressed his trousers.

FINISH AND FIGURE.

The best finish for a shirt waist is the narrow white neckband upon which a collar is buttoned. Cuffs are of the waist material; avoid the shirt waists that have white cuffs attached. They soil a day ahead of the waist itself.

The "shirt waist figure," which changes each season, and which last year was very full just above the waist line, standing out like a big puff, is high-busted and neat. There is a choice between the plain waist and the limited blouse, both being in vogue.

They have a way now of making the blouse waist so that it can be worn plain by simply drawing the fullness below the belt. The fashionable figure is rather full and must be broad across the chest by artifice if not by nature.

BELTS, BUCKLES, STOCKS.

Short-waisted persons can be comforted and assisted this year by the ribbon belt, which is in style. It is narrow and may match the waist. By matching the belt to waist a longer waist effect is obtained.

The tiniest buckles are worn upon the ribbon belts, and many women, upon economy bent, utilize handsome old buttons for the purpose. The button is sewed upon one end of the ribbon. The ribbon is drawn around the waist and pinned in place so as to show the big fancy button which acts as a finish. The neck ribbon is fastened in the same way.

Many are the soft white stocks, the chiffon bow tied in front being very becoming. A pretty bow and vest effect is obtained by tying a ribbon under the chin, leaving long ends. The ends are brought down to the waist line and tied in another big bow.

The advisability of making the shirt waist at home is still a discussed subject, the consensus of opinion being that it is cheaper and more satisfactory to buy.

COUNTERFEITING ELEGANCE.

If a really elegant waist is desired such a one as costs seven dollars and more at the best shops, a substitute can be obtained by buying a plain waist, of good cut, for one dollar or even less.

The waist can now be hemstitched at home, or trimmed with insertion or otherwise made valuable. Be sure, if you trim with insertion, to cut out the goods underneath, as the insertion, by some trick of color, looks much finer.

PEACH CAKE.

Make an ordinary cup cake. When cold cut the cake in half, cover one-half with large, mellow peaches, which should be cut into fine slices, pour over a little peach syrup from a can of the fruit, put over the remaining half and dust the cake with fine sugar. Or pour over the following icing: Mix one cup of sifted powdered sugar with two tablespoonfuls boiling water and one teaspoonful lemon juice, stir until smooth, pour the icing over the cake and let stand till cold.

THE PLAN FOR A COLLAR AND DEEP REVER AS DRAWN BY OUR ARTIST UNDER THE DIRECTION OF A FASHIONABLE NEW YORK TAILOR.

GETTING READY.

And if our scenes are not so keen as in youth, our spiritual eyes behold the unfolding of many glories we never saw before. We hear the music in the air, the harmonies of nature modified in the early days, and the interior life grows brighter as the years roll on, the horizon of thought broadens, new vistas open to unknown paths, we see visions and dream dreams of celestial harmony and happiness, and of the complete fulfillment of all our earth-born plans and purposes.

They are begun in youth in doubt and weakness, but finished at last in faith and victory.

"For age is opportunity no less,
Than youth itself, though in another dress;
And as the evening twilight fades away
The sky is filled with stars invisible by day."

Elizabeth Cady Stanton

PATTERN FOR A VERY SMART COLLAR AND REVER CUT IN TWO PIECES WITH SEAM IN THE MIDDLE OF THE BACK. THIS DIAGRAM CAN BE ENLARGED TO FIT THE NECK OF THE GOWN.

A HINT FOR THE HOME NEEDLE.

With Thread, Wire and Paste-Pot the Ingenious Woman can Manufacture a Becoming Summer Light.

It is the season of the year when gas is intolerable and electric light, even if obtainable, is trying and calls mosquitoes. Why not, then, resort to that beauty maker of our grandmothers, the candle, which, while it reveals, softens and discloses with smiles without the lines.

The candle of commerce these days is a joy. Unlike the "dip," it is hard and even pleasant to the fingers. By describing what you want to your grocer you can obtain a candle that positively will not drip, and which, as it burns slowly away, leaves only a slight disfiguration upon its receding sides. But beware of the candle that drips its wax freely; it brings ruin.

After the candle comes the candle shade, which can be home-made. The frames are necessary and can be purchased cheaply; or, better still, buy one for a pattern and imitate it in wire.

The stick itself can be managed in the same way. If there is not an old candelabra in the family, any dealer in artist's materials will sell you the wire framework, which can be bent to form great ornamental candelabra.

A very artistic woman recently took an old bronze stork which for years had perched upon the family mantel and attached a framework of bent wire to its wings and head, as though the stork were holding the framework in its bill. To the framework she fitted candlesticks, and into these she set the candles and fitted shades to them. The whole was intended for a dining-table ornament.

Heavy brocaded silk makes a very pretty shade, pasted upon a paper foundation. And there now come very decorative wall papers that can be used for candle shades. Half a yard of wall paper will make several shades, all varied as different parts of the pattern are used.

Silk ruffles are used to trim paper shades, and silk flowers are also used. The combination of silk and paper is always good. The woman who values her good looks these hot nights will not forget the kind colors thrown by the charitable rose candle shade, and will provide herself with them.

A NEW WOMAN IN THE OLD WORLD.

Although a New York Syndicate is Said to be Negotiating for the Lakes of Killarney Rumor Still Declares That They are to be Given to Mrs. Howard Gould.

A recent dispatch from Dublin says that Howard Gould is negotiating for the purchase of the Lakes of Killarney, and that the purchase price is to be $300,000. The lakes are intended, it is said, as a gift to Mrs. Howard Gould, the beautiful young bride of the multi-millionaire, and are to be used by her as a summer home.

The purchase of the Lakes of Killarney was regarded at first as a joke, but upon reflection it was agreed that nothing more beautiful could gladden the heart of a woman. To own this beautiful locality as one's own, and to be able to walk "by Killarney's lakes and dells," without molestation, would fulfill the wildest dream of a woman's heart.

The land about Killarney does not exceed 100,000 acres, many of which are wooded lands that cannot be cultivated; others are dells that are approachable only by ladders of stone, very picturesque but not valuable to the Irish farmer. The offer, therefore, of a lump sum for that section of the country would be gladly received by the farmer.

Mrs. Howard Gould, the young woman who has such a gift within reach, is one of the most beautiful women that ever lived. Her hair is so light that it is almost silver, and her figure is slenderness itself. She has a beautiful voice and for years her favorite song has been the famous "Killarney." It was at a yachting dinner off the coast of England that Mrs. Gould was asked to sing this song for her guests. At the conclusion some one suggested that Mr. Gould should purchase the Lakes of Killarney for his wife, a suggestion which was eagerly received by Mrs. Gould and which at once engaged the attention of Mr. Gould. Before the day was over it is said that he had begun negotiations.

Mrs. Gould is likewise an accomplished woman. From being an office assistant in California she raised herself to the stage and achieved some success as an actress in England. It is noteworthy that, while in small theatres she "brought down the house," in large theatres she was less successful. This was said to be on account of her great beauty, which swayed the audience, if within range of her varied expression.

Mrs. Howard Gould did not have to assist a young husband in his poverty. Married beyond the dreams of avarice, she has been able to gratify every whim of an artistic woman. Christmas she dispensed 2,500 dinners to poor children near Five Points, New York, and later she entertained the children of the employees of the hotel at which she lives when in town.

Mrs. Gould owns the finest yacht in the world, the Niagara. She possesses the most expensive fan, an exquisite hand-painted affair. She is building the greatest mansion in New York, in which she will, it is whispered, establish a wonderful salon for artistic people. And now she may soon own the Lakes of Killarney.

It is a remarkable fact that all the Gould men have married wives of high intelligence. Miss Katharine Clemmons was undoubtedly a brilliant as well as a beautiful woman; her fencing alone would entitle her to the name of athlete. Miss Edith Kingdon, the wife of George Gould, would have made a great theatrical star had she remained in Daly's company. And Miss Shrady, daughter of Dr. Shrady, who married Edwin Gould, while too young at the time to show pronounced ability, has since been quite remarkable for the promotion of country sports, her efforts in this line having been the making of the now famous Ardsley.

If Mrs. Howard Gould accepts the Lakes of Killarney as a gift, she will maintain a game preserve and will subdivide the entire acreage into farms, upon which there will live thrifty tenants, who, instead of paying rent, will be paid monthly wages for taking care of the property. Surely an innovation in Ireland!

Meanwhile, as a home reform, Mrs. Gould is endeavoring, it is quietly said, to secure elevators for the passengers of the elevated railroads, who now must climb long flights of stairs.

A VERY EASY WAY TO MAKE A SEAMLESS YOKE FOR THE NECK OF ANY WASH WAIST; PLAID GOODS MAY BE CUT IN THE BACK IN ORDER TO FIT THE STRIPE NEATLY.

GETTING A PHOTOGRAPH.

It is one thing to say, "Go to a good photographer." But the photographer cannot do all. The woman must have previously dressed herself well and arranged her hair prettily or the photographer will be helpless.

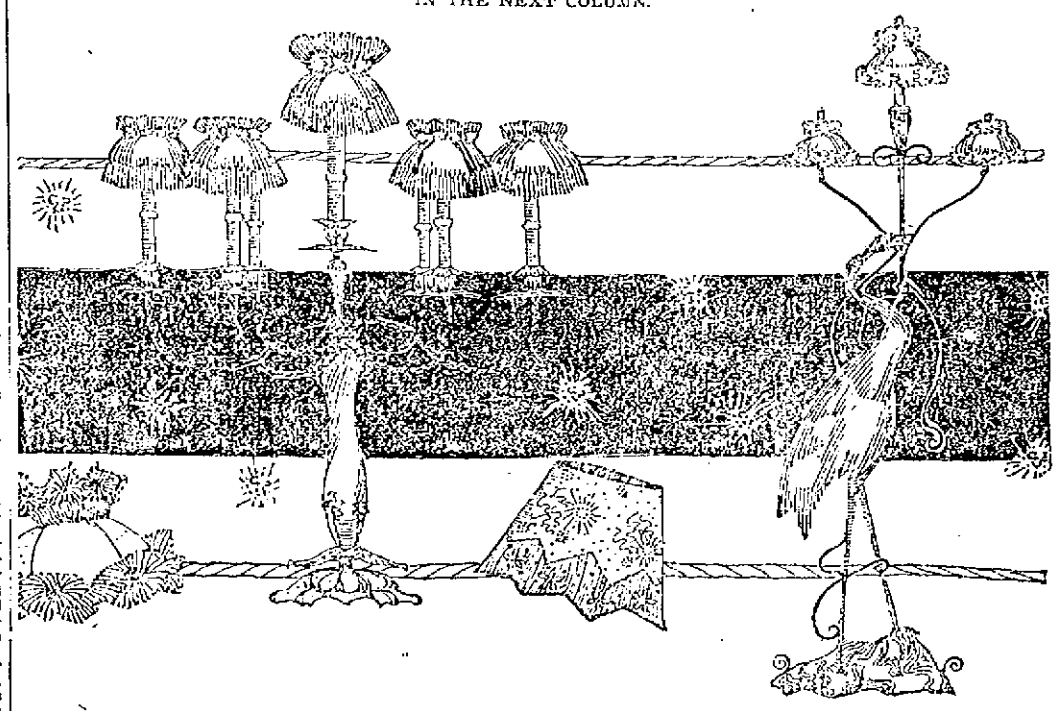

The hair should be very loosely arranged. Remember that small curls "take" well. All sorts of small articles look pretty in a picture. The bracelet, the ring, the careless curl, the tiny courtplaster which in real life may be in questionable taste, are positively charming in a photograph.

A very graceful effect is invariably produced by draping the head. A very long scarf of white crepon drapes the head well. Let it be fastened upon the front of the gown and carried over the head like a shawl. The other end can be brought carelessly down over the left shoulder, as a Spanish mantilla. The draper will do this for you. You on your part need only dress in white with a rounded or decollette neck and short sleeves. If the neck be high, and the sleeves long, the draped effect can be obtained by gathering the scarf a little closer around the head as though one wore an evening dress for the opera. There are countless varieties of the draped photograph, all of which are good.

MRS. HOWARD GOULD, WHOSE HUSBAND MAY PURCHASE THE LAKES OF KILLARNEY FOR HER.

THE MAKING OF CANDLE SHADES IS SUCH A DAINTY FEMININE OCCUPATION THAT IT CAN BE PICKED UP AT ODD TIMES; WIRES ARE BENT AND SILK IS SHIRRED OVER THEM WITH VERY DECORATIVE RESULTS; READ THE DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING CANDLE SHADES IN THE NEXT COLUMN.

TEWKSBURY PARK

Was Illuminated Brilliantly Last Night

SCENE OF THE GRANGE LAWN PARTY

Music and Baloon Ascension Among Attractions

Myriads of lighted lanterns overtopped the pretty little park or lawn, as it is familiarly called, at Tewksbury Centre last evening, making a picture rare to behold. It was the occasion of a lawn party under the auspices of the Tewksbury Grange. Here gathered the residents of the place with a sprinkling of out-of-town people and all seemed to unite as one happy family in enjoying themselves. After exchanging greetings some ate ice cream with its accompaniments, some walked about the green, listening to the strains of sweet melody from Atwood's orchestra, some joined with Dame Gossip in a quiet siesta in a little social chitchat, others, the youngest portion, hied to a plot where the light of the Japanese lanterns did not reach and engaged in dancing and two cake-walks, the latter to the music of "Whistling Rufus" and "Smoky Mokes." Of course, the "dear mammas" would not approve of this had they known it and the participants felt at ease that they, like the orchestra could furnish a march if even a quiet one, "a stolen march" on supposed watchful guardians. The Sun reporter, however, observed the man in the moon peeping from the direction of Fairgrieves' store toward the dance plot, winking his eye, and moving along. The Sun reporter will later on tell what this wink of the gentleman in the planetary searchlight meant.

Of the other diversions, Dr. Downs, assisted by Mr. F. J. Flemings, both of Lowell, sent up three balloons, two of which were strikingly successful. The first was named after the master of the grange, Mr. Joel Richards and it soared majestically and was roundly cheered. The second bore the name of Mr. Charles Clark and it also was successful. The third, named for Mr. George W. Trull started out brilliantly, but the streamers landed in a tree and brought it down. It was cheered just the same for the people knew that its namesake was all right, and it was all right and it was only an unfortunate trick of the wind that caused its failure.

Atwood's orchestra of Lowell furnished a most excellent program of marches, waltzes, galops, two-steps and concert music. The mosquitoes were conspicuous by their absence, being cannonaded out of town by huge cannon crackers set off at regular intervals during the night.

Every one who attended was convinced when the evening was over, that lawn parties can be made most delightful occasions and that the members of Tewksbury Grange know how to make them so.

One of the most pleasing features of the evening was the refectory arrangements. A number of tables were spread upon the lawn and thirsty and hungry patrons were refreshed by liberal quantities of ice cream, cake and other toothsome dainties. Mr. John Trull attended to the dispensing of the ice cream and Mrs. S. P. Pike had charge of the cake. The waiters were Mrs. John Trull, Mrs. George E. Crosby, Mrs. James Long, Mrs. Charles French, Miss Bertha Long, and Messrs. Charles French and Elliott French.

The candy table was presided over by Mrs. George W. Trull and Miss Nellie French.

The lemonade table received liberal patronage being in charge of Misses Edith Davis and Theresa Small, who succeeded in disposing of large quantities of the cooling fluid by their enterprise.

The attendance was all that could be desired, many coming from North Tewksbury and Billerica in carriages, while Lowell had a good representation, many arriving on the cars, while the bicycle brigade was much in evidence. Much of the success of the affair is due to the efforts of Mr. George Trull, chairman of the committee, who was very energetic in looking after the various details. He was assisted by an efficient corps of aids consisting of Mrs. Samuel P. Pike, Miss Lizzie Rogers, Miss Nellie French and Messrs. Charles French, William Farmer, William Trull and W. Frost. The decorations were executed by George Bean and William Farmer.

The affair was surely a red letter night for Tewksbury and well took the place of the much-expected band concert which failed to materialize the night previous.

DOUBT

CANNOT EXIST.

Investigation Will Only Strengthen the Proof We Give in Lowell.

There must be something stronger than imagination behind expressions of such representative citizens of Lowell as Mr. John C. Melloon, grocer and provision merchant at the corner of Bridge and 7th street, who says:

"In the spring of 1898 I was forced from severe pain in the back to procure Doan's Kidney Pills at Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store at the corner of Merrimack and Central streets and take a course of the treatment. It was speedily followed by absolute relief and up to date I have not had a symptom of a return."

A GOOD MOVEMENT in a watch is more to be desired than a handsome case, but when both can be had for a moderate price, why not get both?
We can sell you a watch of gold or silver in which beauty of exterior and accuracy of movement are combined, but the cost of which is more than reasonable.
Improved methods of manufacture and the increased skill and improved taste of the workman enable a much better watch to be made at a lower price than formerly. We have such a number and variety of these beautiful timepieces that it is impossible to describe them. A visit to the store can only do them justice.

TROLLEY PARTY

Under the Auspices of Westminister Church People

Two large electric cars, both "specials," left Merrimack square, last evening for Belle Grove, crowded even to standing room on the side and rear platforms. It was a trolley party under the auspices of the Westminster Presbyterian church, the popular pastor of which is Rev. Duncan A. MacPhie. The party was a merry one and though cramped for room in the cars took matters philosophically knowing that when it reached the destination, Siesta Cottage, that the excursionists would have a jolly good time and this verily proved the case. Mrs. MacDougall, proprietress of the cottage and her courteous assistants received the Lowellians with the right hand of good fellowship and made everything pleasant for them even to furnishing one of those excellent repasts for which she is noted. An orchestra was in attendance furnishing an enjoyable concert program and dancing was among other pleasing diversions of the happy occasion. The return was made at a reasonable hour. The successful affair was in charge of the following efficient committee of arrangements: Miss Sadie Ready, Messrs. Joseph Leach and Alix Johnston. The object of the party was to defray expenses for repairs to the church now undergoing completion and quite a large sum was realized. The trolley party many would like to have repeated later on.

FOURTH PARADE

The Time and Route Has Been Changed

THE MUSTER COMMITTEE HEARD FROM.

First General Orders of the Chief Marshal.

The Fourth of July committee held another meeting in city hall last night and by the action taken, things are back to where they were about a week ago. The important items of business were the changing of hour and route of parade and time of firemen's muster.

The parade will form at 9 o'clock on the North common. The sub-committee on parade acted promptly in the matter making the change not only in time, but in the route of the parade for the announcement of the line of march previously called forth several suggestions in the interest of various sections of the city.

The first general order for the parade was written last night and is as follows:

General Order, No. 1,
June 23, 1899.

The parade will start at 9 a. m., July Fourth.

The route will be as follows: Form on North common, march to Fletcher, to Pawtucket, to Merrimack, to Bridge, to Sixth, to Read, to Fifth, to Bridge, to Merrimack, to Central, to Davis square review and dismiss.

By Order,
—BUTLER AMES,
Chief Marshal.
—CHARLES H. KIMBALL,
Chief of Staff.

There will be three grand stands built in front of the city hall. The expense of building these stands, which may amount to $100, has worried the committee a little and it was proposed at first that only one stand, for the members of the city council, be erected; but the matter will be arranged in some manner. Two years ago the lands and buildings department built large reviewing stands for the committee and then sent in the customary bill, but it was not paid.

The firemen's muster will begin on the North common at 1.30 o'clock on the Common street side.

When the question of music was under consideration, the sub-committee reported that five bands had been engaged and would, it was believed, prove sufficient.

Mr. Sturtevant reported that this included the Military Band which was only engaged for the parade at a cost of $75. This was because the band was engaged at the Fair Grounds for the rest of the day. It was later stated that Mr. James A. Murphy, the leader, refused the offer of the committee on music.

It was stated that the Lawrence battery had been engaged to fire salutes of 21 guns at morning and night and 45 at noon for $87 and expenses. The battery will arrive on the "night before," and be entertained at the American house.

The sub-committee on bell ringing and salutes had not made any arrangements for the ringing of bells because it did not have the money. Upon Mr. Sturtevant's suggestion, $20 was transferred from the music to the bell ringing account.

The children's entertainments as has been stated, will be given in the Opera House. There will be a varied program and the children will have the full service of the theatre.

Fourth of July committees always have badges. Mr. Hogan and Alderman Chapin are a special committee to arrange a badge for this year.

The citizens will be asked to decorate their houses and places of business and notices to that effect will be published in the newspapers.

Two associations of veteran firemen have been heard from officially and four unofficially as intending to take part in the parade and muster.

A LIVELY GAME

Boston Defeated the Pirates 4 to 2

LEWIS PITCHED GREAT BALL.

Collins Played Well at Third Base.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PITTSBURG, June 24.—Although the ride from Chicago was a long and sultry one, the champions, who reached the city shortly after noon yesterday, appeared at exposition park full of life and confidence and defeated the pirates 4 to 2.

Manager Selee said he feared the ride and the terrible heat would make his men state, but in this he was happily disappointed, for the champions played good ball and won handily. They clearly outplayed the Pittsburgs, in addition to which Donovan's men were clearly outgeneralled.

Lewis, who has been indulging in a rest, was selected to do the pitching for Boston and right well did he perform his part. Eight hits was all the locals could secure, and these for the most part were badly scattered. Tannehill, Pittsburg's best pitcher, was on the rubber but his delivery did not seem to have any terrors for Boston.

There were several pretty plays made during the game. Collins, as usual, came in for considerable applause by reason of a regular three-ringed circus play of a sizzling grounder. Frisbie, too, was in the game long enough to demonstrate his fitness for the position he has been called upon to fill. He was taken out, not on account of any bad playing but because Manager Selee thought a right hand batsman would be more likely to land on one of Tannehill's benders just when a hit was needed and Selee was right.

The change was made in the seventh inning. Collins had been disposed of when Duffy hit safely to middle field, and went all the way to third, when McCreery permitted the ball to pass beyond him. Frisbie then came to bat and had swung at two of Tannehill's outcurves when Manager Selee took him out and sent Jimmie Stafford to bat.

The fact that he entered the contest heavily handicapped did not seem to bother Stafford in the least, for the very first ball sent up by Tannehill he landed on for a single, sending Duffy over the plate with the run that placed Boston in the lead.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

Earned runs, Pittsburg 2, Boston 2. Two-base hit, McCarthy. Three-base hit, Madison. Sacrifice hit, McCarthy. Stolen base, Williams. Double play, Ely, O'Brien and Clark 2. First on balls off Lewis. Struck out, by Lewis 3. Time 2h. Umpires, Lynch and Connolly.

Louisville 5; Washington 3.
Cincinnati 8, Baltimore 3.
Chicago 3, Brooklyn 2.
New York 8, Cleveland 2.

THIS AFTEROOON.

AT FOUR O'CLOCK.

A beautiful cottage house and about 3333 square feet of land at No. 58 Corbett street.

I have decided to sell my cottage house and lot at No. 58 Corbett street. The house has eight rooms and bath, five rooms and bath on first floor, and three sleeping rooms, cemented cellar. It is in first class condition inside and out. The lot is all fenced in and makes a very nice garden.

This would make a very desirable and profitable home for a man of moderate means, as what you would pay in rent would pay for a home of this kind in a short time.

LOCATION—Corbett street is the second street beyond the Fair Grounds. It is where you find the air as good and pure as if you were ten miles out. It is but a short distance from the new school and but a few minutes' walk from Walsh's mills and several industries, and I am bound to sell for the most you will give. Sale positive. Rain or shine. Terms: $250 to be paid to the auctioneer as soon as struck off.

FREDERICK CLEGG.

The house is in good repair and is in a neighborhood where it will always rent and at present rents for $15 a month. There is vacant land enough to build a cottage, thereby making a good investment, as I know it will be for the purchaser. My only reason for selling is that I cannot improve the property and am compelled to sell at what you will bid.

LOCATION—Elmwood avenue, formerly called Kittredge street, is about opposite Ninth street, off Bridge street, running through to Hampshire street. It is in a very nice location, where almost every neighbor owns his own home, and you are sure to be pleased if you purchase this property. Remember the date, Saturday, June 24th, at 5 o'clock.

The Unitarian church in Westford was crowded to its utmost capacity yesterday, when the commencement exercises of Westford academy took place.

The fact that Hon. John D. Long, secretary of the navy, was present and addressed the gathering, gave additional interest to the occasion. The interior of the church was handsomly trimmed with beautiful roses, blossoms, and mounds of foliage. In the rear of the platform was a large ground work of palm leaves with the inscription: "Festina Lente," the class motto. The program was as follows:

"America."

Supt. Thomas presented Hon. John D. Long, who was greeted with loud applause. He said:

"I assure you it is worth a much longer journey than I have taken to be with you here today. To come into the heart of Massachusetts and see the familiar orchards under this balmy June sky is a poem in itself. I regret that for the last four years I have been unable to be with you as I had in the previous years, but every June when I received the invitation from the trustees, my heart turned towards old Westford and to its pleasant memories and old associations. I cannot witness such exercises as these without recalling the past. I come with the accumulation of rich memories of the high minded and good men and women who made this academy what it is today, where is possible the best development for the cultivation of the moral and intellectual mind. Some one has said that the happiest time in life are the school days. They are happy but they should not be the happiest. The later days should be the happiest days because in addition to one's own happiness he has accumulated the happiness of others. It is a good thing to lay up riches, but the best things to lay up are riches of the mind, such as the students are getting here. Education is not merely a training of the mind, but a cultivation of the refining influences of the moral nature. These graduates will go out into this life of toil as sources of refinement but they should not forget the value of material things. If we devoted ourselves merely to the sentimental side, we could not have such institutions as this. Some one must do the hard work of digging the soil, and building the structure. You are going out, graduates, into the world around you; but you must not be misled by the inspiration of this graduation day. You will find the world a world of toil and hard work. It is made up of all sorts of elements, all working for one common end, the betterment of the world and the advance of civilization.

The scholar will find opportunity to apply his education and refinement in anything be it in a profession or upon the farm. Those are riches which can never leave you or be spirited away by thieves. In conclusion may I not ask you, as a representative of the government; to remember as citizens, this, our common country and that the standard of the country will be whatever standard people like you can make it. "Our country, 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty."

Rev. W. D. Horton, D.D., of Boston, a former instructor of the school, was introduced and spoke in part as follows:

"Here in Westford I feel at home; here I know what friendship means. Graduates, whether you go into business or a profession, these three things are needed in America: conscience, chivalry and concentration. Conscience that you may treat your fellow man with equity; with a chivalric refinement of tastes; ready to succor those below you and to crown with culture whatsoever comes to your hand. Concentration is also essential. I believe that the thing needed today is a focus power, a purpose in life. With your talents, education and refinement you do not want simply to be good but to be good for something. Make a mark, not merely for fame, but for the benefit of mankind; be able to contribute your life and your life's ideal to your country's welfare. The question for us on the lower planes of life is not Shall our names be chiselled in immortal fame after we are gone but are we doing our duty by God, our country and mankind while we live?

Supt. Thomas made a brief address and then Secretary Long presented diplomas to the following graduates:

Latin-Scientific course, Mary Etta Gill and Blanche Katharine Gurney; English course, George Warren Butterworth, William Joseph Charlton, John Henry Decatur, Jr., Guy Roberts Decatur and Ida Florence Hartford.

CAPT. FAIRWEATHER, Commander of the Spanish War Veterans.

A rousing meeting of the Spanish Veterans was held last night and officers were chosen. Steps were taken toward the formation of a strong organization and preparations made for a feature in the Fourth of July parade. Lieut. Lewis G. Hunton presided and a nominating committee presented the following list of officers:

Commander, Lieut. Kittredge; vice commander, Lieut. McNulty; adjutant, Frank Parks; treasurer, Lieut. Rose; financial secretary, Sergt. McNamara; recording secretary, Howard Caldwell; quartermaster, Sergt. Boyle.

Messrs. Murphy, Gear and Hunt were appointed to nominate a second list to be balloted for. Privates Howe, Boucher and Sansam were appointed a committee to count ballots. The second list introduced Capt. William Fairweather as a candidate with Lieut. Kittredge for commander. Others on the list were: Vice commander, Lieut. McNulty; adjutant, Sergt. Clogston; treasurer, Lieut. Rose; financial secretary, Sergt. McNamara; recording secretary, Sergt. Howard Caldwell; quartermaster, Frank Boyle.

There being no opposition to Lieut. McNulty, Sergt. McNamara, Lieut. Rose, Sergt. Caldwell and Sergt. Boyle, the secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for them and they were declared elected.

The committee on ballots reported for the first count: Capt. Fairweather, 16; Lieut. Kittredge, 15. This did not constitute a majority for the captain and another ballot was taken. It resulted in: Capt. Fairweather, 16; Lieut. Kittredge, 14. The captain was then declared elected.

Mr. Murphy moved that the organization meet once every week. Voted.

Moved by Mr. Hunton that a committee of three to consist of the commander and two others be appointed to arrange for a meeting place and as to the night of meeting. Voted. Commander Fairweather, Lieut. McNulty and Mr. Leighton were appointed.

It was voted to arrange a float as a feature in the July 4 parade. Lieut. Hunton agreed to pay expenses up to $20 until refunded by the organization. It was decided that the organization turn out in Khakis.

The following committee on by-laws was appointed: Messrs. Gear, Bradley, Nichols, Leighton, Clogston, Maguire, Caldwell, Meehan, Weeks. It was announced that the mayor had agreed to allow the Spanish cannon to be carried on the float.
